"GO SLOW," SLOGAN OF BRYAN'S PARTY

Champions of "Peepul" Take Big Dose of Conservatism in Hope of the Eastern Vote.

ONE BOGUS GEM AS SOP.

Gompers Will Be Turned Down, but Insurance Deposit Fallacy Will Be Put to the Fore.

BY RAYMOND.

Denver, Colo., June 28.—[Special.]—With Bryan sure to be named for the presidency, and with some eastern men like Gray, Douglas, or Chanler slated for second place, the chief interest in the Denver convention centers in the platform.

For a wonder Bryan is disposed to be conservative and his lieutenants promise the platform he dictates will be conservative. Times have changed since 1896, when the Nebraska leader was an impecunious lawyer just defeated for congress and with no capital but his gift for political oratory.

He has been constantly in the public eye since. His lectures and his paper have made him wealthy. His political views have changed accordingly. Bryan's influence on the platform of 1908 is far different from that of 1896.

Jim Dahlman, cowboy mayor of Omaha, brought from Lincoln a rough draft of "suggestion" of a platform, which has been passed around among the leaders. It does not contain a declaration for the government ownership of railroads.

Learns Wisdom Since Tour Abroad.

When Bryan announced that doctrine in his speech at Madison Square garden on his return from Europe I watched the faces of the old democratic leaders in the boxes, and it was easy to see how much they disapproved the idea.

It was a distinct retreat from the tradition of any democratic doctrine of state rights, and men like Senator Daniel of Virginia, Henry Watterson of Kentucky, and Clark Howell of Georgia at once refused to accept it as democratic in any sense. Since then Bryan has learned wisdom, and the Denver platform will be strong on government regulation of railroads without mentioning government ownership.

It is likely some Wisconsin railroad planks, discarded at Chicago, will be incorporated in the Denver platform. It probably will declare for physical valuation of railroads. The Chicago convention declared for legislation to regulate future issues of stocks and bonds by railroads.

Nebraskan Urges Another Fallacy.

To do this will involve the valuation of the actual cash assets of the roads, but that was intentionally omitted from the Chicago platform. Democrats will make this plank much stronger. They will demand the actual valuation of interstate railroads as a means of fixing rates as well as to regulate future stock and bond issues in the interest of the investing public.

The chief plank of the democratic platform is to be that which will declare for government guarantee of deposits in national banks. This is a pet idea of Bryan's and it is as superficial and attractive to the people as was the sixteen to one theory.

This scheme proposes, in the rough, that a tax be laid on deposits in national banks, the proceeds of which will form a guarantee fund out of which the government will pay the depositors of failed banks at once. It is attractive at first sight and a man like Bryan might easily get a large following on such an issue.

Bryan a Superficial Thinker.

It often takes years to pay back every dollar of the liabilities, and small business men frequently are embarrassed, although they have a perfectly good claim against the bank in the hands of a receiver. The idea of paying depositors at once out of a government guarantee fund is likely, therefore, to prove popular among that class of people who do not study the real situation in business affairs.

Unfortunately for the country, Bryan is wholly superficial. Otherwise he never would have taken up with the free coinage idea, nor would he have held so tenaciously to his 16 to 1 fallacy after all the world had seen its folly. The same absurd process of thought will impel democratic leaders to insert a plank in their platform for government insurance of bank deposits.

Bryan and his followers either do not see or pretend not to see that such a plan would be the destruction of safe banking. They must know deposits are received by banks and immediately converted into loans. A wise banker makes his loans only on such security as will enable him to pay back the money of his depositors.

Incentive for Caution Lost.

His reputation depends on the skill with which he invests the money of depositors. If he makes loans on poor security he is likely to make losses and the depositor, feeling alarmed for the safety of his money, draws out his deposit.

The necessity for prudence in making loans arises wholly from the knowledge that money thus invested is a trust fund belonging to the depositors and certain to be called for if they feel insecure.

If the depositors are made safe through a guarantee fund provided by a tax paid by the depositors themselves the whole incentive for making prudent loans disappears.

This is the crowning fallacy of Bryan's latest financial vagary, and yet the democrats are certain to go before the people with this idea as the chief issue of the campaign. Insurance deposits by an association of banks, acting for themselves, is a reasonable scheme, but the Denver platform will declare for an actual government guarantee.

Here, as in Chicago, the leaders are bothered by the labor chiefs, who demand extravagant concessions in the face of the fact that the labor vote never has been and never can be satisfied with any party. Gompers is preparing to move on Denver as he did on Chicago with a plank making labor a privileged class before the courts.

Gompers to Make Radical Demand.

U. S. DOMINATES CARIBBEAN SEA.

RESPECT TO BE ENFORCED

Withdrawal of Diplomatic Agents from Recalcitrant Republic Intended as Additional Warning to It.

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.]—Uncle Sam is holding a powerful microscope over the countries that skirt the Caribbean sea. Developments in the state, war, and navy departments during the last week have demonstrated the fact that there are apparently plans hatching for that part of the world that may mean far more than the holding of a peaceful election at Panama and the conservation of the health of our diplomatic and consular officials in President Castro's republic.

It may not, judging from present indications, be many weeks before the saucy little republics down below Cuba will wake up to discover what has long been recognized by many persons as inevitable—Uncle Sam at their thresholds with a permanent stock of peace producing advice, backed up by plenty of armed men and ships. It will, to put it broadly, be a domination over the Caribbean that will allow the canal to be dug in peace and bring about less tomfoolery in the consideration of American enterprise and the settlement of American claims.

Lesson in Store for Castro.

The United States is without any doubt gazing steadfastly at Venezuela and its defiant president with a yearning that does not mean a desire to step in and usurp Castro's territory nor in any other way to conquer his country, but which means that something must and shall be done to bring Castro to a realization of what he owes to other members in the sisterhood of nations.

Wiseacres in Washington have realized within the last few days that concern over the election at Panama is not the only consideration that is sending this government into the Caribbean sea with men and ships. The recent assignment of marines to Panama and the stationing of naval vessels in those waters, coupled with the fact that the time for the removal of United States troops from Cuba has only tentatively been set, shows plainly that there are more portentous things in view, and serves also to bring into play certain remarks made by President Roosevelt in connection with the Panama difficulty before he went to Oyster Bay for his summer vacation. He said that Panama was not giving him one-half the concern that Mr. Castro was, and he intimated that he was searching for a way to rap that gentleman's knuckles and make him realize that American claims in his land must be given attention.

Agents Withdrawn for Purpose.

During the week just past the withdrawal of American consular and diplomatic officers from Venezuela, apparently to save them from the ravages of the plague, served to show the president's hand to a certain extent. In spite of the assertion as to the endangerment of the health of these officers, it can be asserted on the best authority that the state department, in taking the officials away, "made no bones" of the situation to Castro and unreservedly told him that as he had taken an attitude which showed plainly that American diplomatic officials were no longer of any use in his country, this government saw no further need of maintaining them there.

The arrival of the battleships Idaho and New Hampshire at Colon with the latest consignment of marines for service on the isthmus brought the total number of men and officers in that arm of the service at Panama up to 1,257, and increased the number of armed men which the United States now practically has facing Venezuela from various countries of the Caribbean to almost 6,000.

In addition to this force in that locality, Uncle Sam has available naval vessels under steam with an aggregate displacement of 40,000 tons. Viewing these evidences alone, therefore, it can be asserted that there is just a bit more activity and general alertness on the part of men under American arms in the immediate neighborhood of Mr. Castro's exclusive nation than there has been during any period since the Spanish-American war.

Influence Strong in Caribbean.

A glance over the Central American and West Indian situation will show that those who have been predicting the necessity for the United States to show a firm hand in those parts and, in fact, control of the Caribbean, are close to having their views met. The republic of Panama is dangerously near to intervention. Cuba is operating under the guiding hand of the great American republic. Porto Rico belongs to the United States. Santo Domingo is paying her debts under the direction of American customs officials. There have been a number of American naval coaling stations established round about. Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, Guatemala, and the rest of the collection of little republics to the north of Panama look to the United States for protection as chicks look to a mother hen, and pray the day may never come when the discarding of the Monroe doctrine will leave them bared to the attacks of marauding nations.

United States in Control.

It can be said that already the United States practically controls the Caribbean, owning certain rights as it does in countries thereabouts and having command in an advisory or quasi-sovereign way over other countries and islands. Colombia, still smarting from the somewhat sudden and hasty divorce of Panama from her boundaries four or five years ago under the encouragement and protection of the United States government, and Venezuela, with her president proclaiming defiance and withstanding any and all attempts to peaceably adjudicate a collection of American claims, remain as the only two independent nations in that neighborhood where the United States, although stalwartly supporting their interests through the Monroe doctrine, has been allowed to have no word to offer in regard to actions which affect the Americans as such guardians. Both Colombia and Venezuela, quick to put

TEST 'HIDE AND SEEK GAME.'

Novel Experiment Conducted for Benefit of Electricians.

A new form of hide and seek was played in Evanston last evening.

A young woman and her escort were on one side, while two city officials and an electrician were "it."

When the hiders were found snuggling up on a cozy hardwood bench or nestling against a comfortable tree trunk, a consultation was held by the "its" and the young couple fled to a new shadowed retreat, only to be caught again.

The object of the game was one that caused widespread resentment among the strollers on Davis street when it became known. It was stated that the city actually intended to do away with its famous "dark spots."

The agitation toward this end began over a year ago, when Dean John H. Wigmore of the Northwestern university law school wrote to the city council, declaring that the darkness of the suburb's parks should be dispelled immediately by the installation of arc lamps.

Pleads for Respectability.

"The parks' agreeable retreats this summer will be spoiled for decent people unless plenty of light is provided," he asserted. "The last two years have seen an extraordinary growth of popularity for the parks and they should be made attractive places for the respectable families.

"I have no personal interest in this matter. I simply happen to be a good witness to the facts, as my porch is one of the nearest points of observation."

This open denunciation of the conditions existing in the shadowed corners of the city led to action by the council. Numerous lights were installed and a policeman on a bicycle was kept on duty.

This year, the question again came up for discussion with the proposal for the installation of an additional arc light in Miner Raymond park, a square bounded by Chicago and Hinman avenues and Grove and Lake streets. It is a large block intersected by diagonal paths, and as the lights at the corners were at some distance from the center several of the vehicles were shadowed deeply by the heavy trees.

Game of Hide and Seek.

This subject again raised the question of the location of the lights in the lake front park and the city officials in whose hands the matter rested determined that they should be placed to the greatest advantage, that is, so their rays would penetrate the most hidden recesses. Commissioner of Public Works John H. Moore and Ald. C. P. Coffin, chairman of the electric light committee, conferred with Edward Schuettge, manager of the company furnishing power to the city, and it was the latter's suggestion that led to the game of hide and seek.

He easily secured from Samuel Atmore, his assistant, consent to secure a partner and act with her as the "dummy spooners," and the plan was put in operation.

Atmore and a young woman, whose name he refused to disclose even to his superior, took their places, or place, in Raymond park early in the evening while the "spotters" walked along the different streets bounding the square, determining the ease with which the couple could be seen.

It was discovered that there were three nooks in which the couple could not be distinguished easily and that a single light at a determined location would render them all innocuous.

The same procedure was followed in the lake front park with the result the lights used last year will be set in different places this summer.

DIRECTOIRE GOWN APPROVED WARMLY BY BARON TAKAHIRA.

Japanese Ambassador Comes to Chicago to Meet Wife and Daughter, Who Will Arrive Today.

Baron K. Takahira, Japanese ambassador at Washington, is in Chicago to meet his wife and daughter, who will arrive from Seattle this morning. They will depart this evening and take up their residence in the embassy. The daughter, who is 14 years old, will enter a school in Washington.

"Why do you make such a fuss over me?" he asked a group of newspaper men who waited upon him at the Auditorium Annex. "I have been here before."

"But it is the custom to interview all men of prominence who come here," said a reporter.

"That is nonsense," he replied, with some show of that "tired feeling."

"How long will your wife remain in America?"

"That depends upon the pleasure of my government, but she'll stay as long as I do."

"What do you think of the directoire gown which some of the American women have adopted?"

"It is fine, comfortable, and gives the woman a graceful appearance. It is lighter and better suited than kimono and other silk costumes with big sleeves worn by the women of Japan. See how uncomfortable I am in this heavy coat and vest. I wish the men had something like the sheath gown."

WOUNDED BY BLANK CARTRIDGE

Adolph Dretz was wounded in the leg last night while watching a performance of the "Battle of the Little Big Horn" at Riverview park. He was sitting close to the "battlefield," and it is believed one of the cartridges used by the cowboys and Indians was defective, as the wad and part of the shell inflicted a severe wound. Dretz was taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital, where his wound was dressed, and later removed to his home at 105 Bingham street.

DEBATE ON TAFT'S RELIGION

Bible Class Discusses Question, "Is He an Infidel?"

GOES TO CHURCH REGULARLY

Dixon Williams Receives Information Candidate Is Unitarian.

In ignorance of the fact that William H. Taft, the republican presidential candidate, is a Unitarian, the bible class of the Church of Providence (Presbyterian) yesterday morning seriously discussed the question:

"Is Mr. Taft an infidel?"

All the members of the bible class were at the little church, in Sheffield avenue, near Clark street, last evening, but they were extremely reluctant to discuss the inquiry into the presidential candidate's religious views.

"We talked about it, but you'll have to see the class leader," they said.

They Await Information.

Dixon Williams, a manufacturer, who led the class in the morning, after a conference with some of the church people at the conclusion of the evening service, in which he also led the choir, said:

"It is true that we discussed Mr. Taft's religious views in the bible class this morning. I had heard he was an infidel and brought up the matter myself. All the class agreed that it was something on which we should have more accurate information, but if the story is true we not only will vote against Mr. Taft but will work against him."

Several members of the class, which has a membership of something like a dozen in hot weather, were standing near by. They made no comments, but they nodded.

He Himself Discredits Report.

Mr. Williams was advised that Mr. Taft was a member of a church.

"Well," said he, "that is something we want to find out. No committee was appointed, but I shall take it upon myself to ascertain the truth of the report that he is an infidel. I don't know how it started, but I have heard it, and other people have heard of it. Personally I don't believe it is true. We are all Roosevelt republicans here. I formerly was a democrat. We are for Mr. Taft because Mr. Roosevelt is for him. With Mr. Roosevelt's strong religious views I don't see how he could support a man for such a high office as president of the United States unless that man is a good Christian. But we are going to find out."

The question was not discussed in church and apparently was confined to the bible class, but Mr. Williams said that all the members of the church with whom he had talked regarding the matter felt the same as he did.

Taft Is a Churchgoer.

Mr. Taft always goes to church when he is in Cincinnati. He attended the Christ Episcopal church in that city a week ago yesterday.

AUTO WITH BRIDE CRUSHES A WOMAN

Fatal Accident in Lincoln Park Marks Close of Wedding Trip of South Chicago Couple.

COPPER SAID "SPEED UP."

Children See Their Mother Killed Near Grant Monument in an Effort to Reach Them.

An automobile carrying a bride and groom, returning from their wedding journey, ran down and killed a woman near the Grant monument in Lincoln park last evening.

The victim was crossing the roadway on the slope south from the monument when, looking around, she saw her two young daughters were not following her. Fearful for their safety, she turned back, only to be struck by one of a number of cars which were coasting down the hill.

Two autocyclists passed just before the automobile came in sight. One of the machines was broken and was being towed by the other, a piece of wire connecting the two. Park Policeman Edward Delehanty feared that the wire would not be seen by some one who would try to pass between the two motorcycles.

When the automobile came along Delehanty jumped on the running board and asked the driver to speed up, so that he could catch the motorcyclist. The chauffeur says it was before he had been able to start the machine faster that the woman was struck.

North Shore Crusade Continues.

The crusade against speeding on the north shore continued. Fifteen arrests were made at Glencoe and Kenilworth yesterday. All but one were fined—T. E. Carlson, 5116 Wabash avenue, having his hearing continued until today.

The victim of the Lincoln park accident was Mrs. Joseph Tomaszewski, 39 years old, 63 Wright street. Witnesses declare that the machine which killed her seemed to be under control and that the accident could not have been prevented. The driver, Esthan Wenneston, 19 years old, a hired chauffeur, was arrested and is held pending the verdict of the coroner's inquest this morning.

The occupants of the car were Arthur McCappin of South Chicago, his wife, formerly Mrs. Anna Bullock, to whom he was married last Wednesday, and a friend, Miss Margaret Weber, also a South Chicagoan.

Returning from Wedding Trip.

The party was returning from the wedding tour which had taken them to Milwaukee following the marriage in St. Patrick's church, South Chicago. It was a severe shock to the women, and after the car had been taken to the Hudson avenue station, where Wenneston was locked up, Mr. McCappin was permitted to take them to their homes.

Mrs. Tomaszewski with her two children, Hattie, 15 years old, and Mary, 12 years old, had spent the afternoon along the lake front in the park. Shortly after 6 o'clock they had started for a North avenue car, which would take them within a short distance of their home.

They had crossed the long driveway, and Mrs. Tomaszewski, going ahead, had passed over the foot of the sloping drive leading up the hill upon which the Grant monument is built.

Several automobiles were passing and the mother made the crossing with some difficulty. When she turned around and saw that the two girls had not followed her she started to run back to them.

Daughters See Mother Killed.

Standing safely on the grass beside the road they saw her try to jump out of the path of a large touring car, when she fell with a scream. The wheels passed completely over her, one of them crushing her head.

When the boy promised not to run away Delehanty went to summon an ambulance from the East Chicago avenue station, which carried the body to Robert's undertaking rooms, 626 Wells street.

The police also took charge of the children temporarily and a patrolman was sent to notify the father, who went immediately to the morgue.

Policeman Delehanty boarded the McCappin car and took the entire party to the Hudson avenue station, where they gave their names and addresses. McCappin is a saloonkeeper at 83 Ninety-second street, and Wenneston gave his address as 10124 Avenue J, South Chicago. Miss Weber lives at 125 Ninety-first street. The husband of the victim is also a saloonkeeper.

Says Driver Not at Fault.

Delehanty stated that he witnessed the accident, and that he felt the boy Wenneston was not responsible, under the law, for criminal carelessness. But, as is the procedure in such cases, he was held without bail pending the decision of the coroner's jury.

"I had only stepped on the running board when the woman appeared in the way," said Delehanty. "The driver had not made a move to increase the speed of the engine. He said afterwards that his engines were so hot that it would have been impossible for him to have reached a higher speed quickly."

"I was driving carefully all the time," Wenneston declared in his cell. "Although I feel terrible about this, I don't see how they can hold me responsible. I don't see how I could have prevented it. The car was going at a moderate speed and I had my eyes directly on the road ahead of me.

"I saw the woman cross and was going ahead slowly, when she dashed back again so close that I couldn't stop the car."

The other members of the party, Mr. and Mrs. McCappin and Miss Weber, bore out his statements as to his management of the machine, but none of them had seen Mrs. Tomaszewski until she was struck. They offered to remain at the station if they were wanted, and upon being told that they could take the car home declared that they would return in the morning.

Auto Party Drenched with Beer.

What might have been another automobile accident early in the evening resulted only in a pail of beer being thrown upon the occupants of the machine.

For ten minutes Edward Hallinan stood gazing wistfully at the quickly diminishing damp spot in Laflin street, where he had avenged himself, and then, still the possessor of his battered tin pail, he was whirled away in a patrol wagon to the Maxwell street police station. The young teamster—he is scarcely more than 20 years of age—is charged with disorderly conduct.

Hallinan was hurrying to an alley, the police say, and was crossing Laflin street, near the Washburne avenue intersection, the bearer of a "quart of beer," when he was startled by the toot of Dr. James Russell's auto as he attempted to pass. Hallinan's friends were patiently waiting for the young teamster, for a dime had been contributed towards "the can."

"Out of the way, young man," called Dr. Russell of 585 West Twentieth street, as he steered his machine clear of the teamster. "I nearly caught you that time, and the machine is heavy." He sounded a long blast on the horn as a warning.

Hallinan, startled, jumped to one side, and with an oath raised his can above his head. The liquid remained in the pail until it encountered Mrs. Russell's right arm and then it splashed all over the physician's wife and down into the machine. Mrs. Russell's arm was badly cut by the edge of the pail. Her apparel was ruined and the physician's clothing was saturated, the bucket rolling out into the roadway.

Edward Morris Fined $50.

Edward Morris of Morris & Co., packers, was arrested in Kenilworth. He complained when Justice Allen announced that his fine would be $50 and costs. This was twice as much as any other driver was assessed. He was charged with running faster than twenty-two miles an hour.

Others who were arrested in Kenilworth are:

MACK, ANDREW, driver for W. J. Byrne, Lake Forrest, was fined $20 and costs. Mr. Byrne was in the machine at the time the arrest was made.
PAGE, W. D., Chicago, fined $5 and costs.
RUBOVITZ, I., 11 Board of Trade building, fined $15 and costs.

Arrests at Glencoe.

BROWN, JOHN, 2900 State street; fined $6 and costs.
HENSEN, H., Wheaton; fined $25 and costs for driving twenty-five miles an hour.
INGALLS, G. H., 115 Lincoln Park boulevard; was fined $10 and costs.
METZGER, J. C., 3449 Indiana avenue; fined $5 and costs.
SALINSKY, S. F., Milwaukee, Wis.; fined $25 and costs.

ONE KILLED IN AUTO CRASH.

Machine Upsets Near Warren, Pa., While Being Driven at High Rate of Speed.

Warren, Pa., June 28.—Eric Anderson was killed and his wife and a friend fatally injured in an automobile accident here tonight. There were six persons in the machine when the accident happened. The auto was traveling at a high rate of speed when it upset.

NATION LIVING BEYOND MEANS.

Yearly Deficit of $60,000,000 Shown by Treasury Department—Exceeded Only Twice Since Civil War.

Washington, D. C., June 28.—The forthcoming statement of the treasury receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, will show a marked falling off in the receipts as compared to 1907, and a large increase in expenditures.

The excess of expenditures over receipts will approximate $60,000,000, exceeded only twice since the civil war. In 1894 there was a deficit of $69,803,000, and in 1899 another of $89,000,000. In each of the four intervening years the receipts fell below the disbursements.

The receipts this year were $599,000,000. Customs receipts have fallen off $46,000,000 from those of 1907, while receipts from internal revenue will be short $19,000,000.

Disbursements were $659,000,000, or $80,000,000 more than for 1907. The Panama canal during the closing year will have cost the government $38,000,000, as against $27,000,000 in 1907.

BOAT UPSETS, COUPLE DROWN.

DROWNINGS SINCE JAN. 1............408

St. Joseph, Mo., June 28.—While Bonnie Fisher, Anna and Roy Taylor, J. Parker, and Ruby Redman were returning from a party on the shores of Sugar lake, at Armour Junction, in the southern part of this county, about 2 o'clock this morning, high waves upset the boat and Fisher and Miss Taylor, each about 19 years old, were drowned. Miss Redman clung to the boat until rescued by Roy Taylor. Parker swam ashore.

Drowned in Mississippi.

Dubuque, Ia., June 28.—[Special.]—John Algyer, eleventh son of George Algyer, residing on Fifth avenue, was drowned this afternoon while bathing in the Mississippi near Eagle Point. The body was not recovered.

RAIN STOPS MILITIA DRILL.

All Active Work by Fifth Regiment Prevented by Bad Weather at Springfield.

Springfield, Ill., June 28.—[Special.]—Col. Woods, commanding the Fifth regiment I. N. G., arrived at Camp Lincoln early this morning. Rain prevented active work for the day and the church services in the afternoon were postponed. The evening parade was had at 7 o'clock.

Active work will be taken up tomorrow, when the First battalion will be sent to the rifle range. Gov. Deneen probably will be the guest of the regiment on Thursday.

The mystery of the two shots which were fired at the members of the Third regiment on the rifle range on Saturday has not been solved.

JEWISH RABBIS CELEBRATE.

Cincinnati, O., June 28.—The silver jubilee anniversary of the first commencement of the Hebrew Union college in this city centered today about the four graduates of the class of 1883, each of whom has attained a national reputation. They were the hosts of the large number of alumni and friends of the institution present. Rabbi Louis Grossman of this city, of the class of 1884, presided. Rabbi Israel Aaron of Buffalo, Dr. Henry Berkowitz, head of the Jewish Chautauqua of America; Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, originator of the famous Doylestown, Pa., Jewish farm school, and Dr. David Philipson of this city, president of the central conference of American rabbis, were the speakers.

DIES AS SHE SINGS IN CHOIR.

Young Woman Expires in Jeannette, Pa., Church While Taking Part in Duet.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 28.—While assisting in a duet at the First Baptist church at Jeannette, Pa., Irene Axton, aged 19 years, fell forward across the choir rail and died. Death was due to heart disease.

Church Members to Hold Outing.

The annual outing and picnic of the Clifton Park Avenue German Methodist Episcopal church, will be held at Bergman's grove, on the banks of the Desplaines river, tomorrow. One of the features of the affair will be a parade of hundreds of children, members of the Sunday school from the church, to the cars. The outing will be under the direction of the Rev. William Keller.

NEW DEMOCRACY OUT OF THE OLD.

Grover Cleveland's Death Causes Union of Forces Under Bourbon Flag.

ANTIS STRONG FOR GRAY.

Judge Acceptable to Bryan, Who Likes All Democrats but Johnson.

Denver, Colo., June 27.—[Special.]—"Bryan and Gray" is the announcement from the anti-Bryanites. In high quarters it is said Judge Gray has been communicated with and intimated he would be willing to play second fiddle. This is pleasant tidings to the conservatives in the national committee.

Democratic leaders who passed the word that Judge Gray would be acceptable to Bryan and that Gray would be willing to take second place, point out that the death of Grover Cleveland has much to do with the realignment of the forces. Coming at this time, it has been beneficial to Bryan's domination of the party, they say. With Cleveland gone, there is nothing to do but fall into line for a new democracy, the antithesis of the old.

Because Lieut. Gov. Chanler carried New York when Gov. Hughes was elected, eastern delegates here seem to be rapidly uniting on him for second place on the democratic national ticket. Connecticut men on the ground are working vigorously for McNeil of Bridgeport, gaining some ground, but meeting active opposition from the Massachusetts contingent booming W. L. Douglas.

Nebraskans say Bryan is so close to both of the New England men and to Chanler that they dare not express a preference at present, but Mayor Dahlman of Omaha intimates that Bryan has a choice and will name the nominee for second place as soon as his own nomination is made.

The only democrat not yet in the good graces of Bryan appears to be Gov. John Johnson. Bryan will prevent his nomination for vice president if possible, it is said, Bryan asserts there are influences behind Johnson which make him unacceptable either for first or second place.

So pronounced is Bryan's feelings toward Johnson that Bryan has decided ex-Senator Pettigrew shall not be chairman of the new national committee to be selected by the convention. The Nebraskan prefers Mayor Tom Johnson of Cleveland. Tom Taggart declares he is not a candidate to succeed himself.

The vice presidential situation offers the greatest encouragement to delegates looking for excitement. Unless the nominee for the first place on the ticket should demand the selection of a running mate on whom he may have set his heart, indications would seem ot point to numerous ballots in the completion of a ticket.

Contests Aid to Good Feeling.

That frequent balloting and spirited contests are wonderful features in causing enthusiasm is asserted by democratic leaders here, and they are looking forward to a scramble over the vice presidency. A well fought contest over any question which interests the delegates, it is said, engenders good feeling.

The city today took its last political slumber for at least a fortnight. The democratic politicians of prominence who have arrived left this morning for a pleasure trip into the mountains. They will straggle back, some of them tonight, others tomorrow.

By the time they are all on the ground once more the advance guard of the state delegations will be here, or on their way, and there will be ever increasing activity until the red fire has flickered out and the curtain has been rung down on the final scene of the convention.

Entertainment to Be Bounteous.

The city is making every possible preparation to entertain its visitors in the most hospitable manner. A great majority of business houses and many residences will be decorated, and under the direction and active management of patriotic organizations the display of bunting promises to surpass any seen in the west in years.

Even in its normal condition Denver is a city of lavish electric display, and when plans under way have been completed the sight by night will be one that would do credit to an electrical exposition.

The great capitol building, with its vantage point on the summit of a commanding eminence, will be, when lighted up, a spectacle of beauty. At the apex of the golden colored dome is placed an enormous light, easily seen at a distance of forty miles, and down the sloping sides of the dome and along the edges of the cornices and projections and at the top of four massive granite columns have been placed thousands of smaller lights.

Women Drop Suffrage Plank.

The Jane Jefferson Democratic club, official hostesses of the coming convention, will make no requests for an equal suffrage plank in the platform. After planning for months on making the Denver convention boost the cause of suffrage, the women have decided that delicacy forbids their making any demand while their hospitality is being extended to the visitors.

GUFFEY ERASES BRYAN SLATE.

Snows Under Commoner's Choice for National Committeeman in Opponent's Own County.

Clearfield, Pa., June 28.—[Special.]—The first test of strength between William J. Bryan and Col. J. M. Guffey in Pennsylvania politics has been made, and Bryan is beaten. James Kerr, slated by Bryan to succeed Guffey on the national democratic committee at Denver next week, yesterday practically was thrown out of politics in his county, Clearfield.

He failed to elect himself county chairman, being beaten 3 to 1, and it is understood that late last night there was a message from Bryan there was no chance left for Kerr to make a successful fight for national committeeman.

The defeat of Kerr on his own doorstep is attributed to Guffey, who worked effectively to show the Bryan people how strong he is in his state. The county convention, considered a Kerr convention until the dénouement, passed a resolution indorsing the leadership of Guffey in Pennsylvania.

BELL DODGES SPEECH COMMENT

Temporary Chairman-Elect Quiet on Question of Bryan Dictation on Address.

San Francisco, Cal., June 28.—Theodore A. Bell, selected as temporary chairman of the democratic convention, has gone to his home near St. Helena to rest a few days before starting for Denver. Mr. Bell said:

"I felt my candidacy was satisfactory to William J. Bryan, although of course I did not suppose Mr. Bryan would desire to be placed in the position of supporting any particular candidate."

Mr. Bell would neither confirm nor deny a report that he had been corresponding with Mr. Bryan relative to his speech as temporary chairman of the convention.

CONNERS AWAITS BAND WAGON.

If Bryan Is Short of Two-Thirds Necessary "Fingy" Says New York Will Go to Johnson.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 28.—[Special.]—William J. "Fingy" Conners, chairman of the democratic state committee, declared today that New York's delegates will not support Bryan on the first ballot unless the nomination of the Nebraskan is assured. Conners said if Bryan lacks ten or twenty votes of the necessary two-thirds the Empire state will cast its seventy-eight votes for Gov. Johnson of Minnesota.

Probable Permanent Chairman of Democratic National Convention.

HENRY D CLAYTON

Henry De Lamar Clayton, congressman from the Third Alabama district, probably will be permanent chairman of the democratic national convention. He is a veteran member of the democratic national committee, having served continuously in that capacity for twenty years. He was born in Barbour county, Ala., and after finishing a course of studies at the University of Alabama he took up the practice of law at Clayton and subsequently at Eufaula, Ala., where he now lives.

He was a presidential elector in 1888 and 1892; he served three years as United States attorney for the middle district of Alabama until in 1896 he was elected to congress.

Clayton is a gifted orator and a stanch personal friend of William Jennings Bryan. He possesses the proper qualities of a chairman, and he will be given an opportunity to bring into effect the knowledge he has attained during his twenty years' membership of the national committee.

GRAY WARY ON TICKET TALK

Seeks Neither First Nor Second Place, He Declares.

MIGHT BE PREVAILED UPON.

Manner Indicates He Could Not Decline if Named.

Wilmington, Del., June 28.—[Special.]—Judge George Gray hedged on the question of the democratic vice presidential nomination today when interviewed on the report that he had said he was willing to accept the honor.

"I have not authorized any one to use my name in connection with the nomination for either the first or second place on the ticket to be named at the Denver convention," said he. "I prefer not to be interviewed upon the subect.

"I do not want to be understood as deprecating the honor of such a nomination," the judge continued, "nor do I wish to be placed in the position of declining an honor before it is tendered to me."

Further than this Judge Gray would not say a word for publication. But the above utterances and the manner in which they were made indicated that he would not decline the nomination before it was offered to him, and by like reasoning he could not decline it after it was offered.

It will be remembered that Theodore Roosevelt vehemently declined the nomination for the vice presidency at the Philadelphia convention, but when the delegates took the matter out of his hands he accepted it.

DOUGLAS SHUNS SECOND PLACE

Former Governor of Massachusetts Declares He Is Out of Politics for All Time.

Boston, Mass., June 28.—[Special.]—Ex-Gov. William A. Douglas of Brockton was shown a dispatch from Denver tonight, which spoke of him as a candidate for the vice presidency. Mr. Douglas replied as follows:

"I am not a candidate for the democratic nomination for vice president. I am not a candidate for any public office. And I cannot conceive of any conditions that would make me change my decision."

Mr. Douglas withdrew from politics after his term as governor at the request of his wife and has refused to be drawn into it since. His friends believe, however, that if he was nominated with Johnson he would take it.

FOUR SEEKING JOHNSON'S SEAT.

St. Paul, Minn., June 28.—The republican state nominating convention will meet here on Wednesday to select candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general, and for two places on the board of railroad commissioners. Four names will be presented for governor, J. F. Jacobson, Edward T. Young, Joel Heatwole, and Samuel P. Snider. George T. Simpson is the only candidate for attorney general. The present lieutenant governor, secretary of state, and state treasurer probably will have no opposition.

BRYAN MAY GET N. C. VOTES.

State Democratic Convention Expected to Send Delegation Instructed for Him to Denver.

Charlotte, N. C., June 28.—Unless the temper of the delegates changes before the state democratic convention reassembles at noon tomorrow, it is likely that North Carolina will send a delegation instructed for Bryan to the Denver convention. Senator Overman and Gov. Glenn have been selected as delegates. Senator Simmons probably will be.

national convention to adopt. It pledges the party to sustain the courts, but at the same time declares for legislation forbidding the issuance of writs of injunction without notice, except in cases of emergency.

That probably is as far as congress could go, under the constitution, in limiting the power of the courts, which are coördinate branches of the government, and do not derive their rights from congress.

Yet Gompers is not satisfied. He is coming to the Denver convention with the same radical plank turned down at Chicago. The plank he wants the democrats to adopt reads as follows:

"We pledge ourselves to the enactment of a law to prohibit the issuance of injunctions in cases arising out of labor disputes, when such injunctions would not apply when no labor disputes existed, and that in no case shall an injunction be issued when there exists a remedy by the ordinary process of law; and which act shall provide that in the procedure for the punishment of contempt of court the party cited for contempt shall, when such contempt was not committed in the presence of the court, be entitled to trial by jury."

Planning to Get Eastern Vote.

Senator Bailey of Texas, who had been slated for the chairmanship of the committee on resolutions, has telegraphed that the condition of his throat will prevent his attending the convention. It is a pity, for Bailey, in spite of the eccentricities of his political career, is a good lawyer and would have made mincemeat of the Gompers proposition.

For generations the democrats have posed as the friends of the horny handed sons of toil. Now, however, conservatism is to be the constant watchword as a means of obtaining the vote of New York and other eastern states. The leaders say nothing so radical as the Gompers plank will be permitted to creep into the Denver platform. The injunction plank in the Chicago platform will be denounced and derided as a subterfuge to catch the labor vote, but the idea of making labor a privileged class before the courts will be discarded by the democrats, as it was by the republicans.

Just now the tariff plank is giving the democrats the most concern. The republicans have declared for a revision of the tariff at a special session of congress immediately after the opening of the next administration. The democrats can do no less.

They want to go much farther, but without reaching the limit of free trade.

Bryan was one of the original free traders. He was elected to congress on that issue. All his early speeches in the house of representatives were devoted to tariff for revenue only. It was not until toward the close of his congressional career that he became enamored of the free coinage nonsense.

Middle Course on Tariff.

By that time the Wilson bill, which started out as good democratic medicine in the house, was adulterated in the senate, and the fact was made evident that the democracy of the east and south had drifted into the protection camp.

When I talked with Bryan coming out of the White house after the governors' conference last month, he manifestly had concluded to take a middle course on the tariff. The Denver platform accordingly will omit the customary democratic declaration for tariff for revenue only. It will denounce the republican form of protection and as the mother of trusts, but there will not be a single word pointing toward free trade.

There will be the usual declarations against the trusts, for a postal savings bank, and parcels post, and in favor of restriction on child labor. The currency legislation last session will be denounced and the issue of money by the government instead of by the banks will be advocated.

On the whole, the conservatism of the Denver platform promises to be such that the campaign likely is to be fought out largely on the personalities of Taft and Bryan.

LINCOLN GREETS AUTO DEMOCRATS

JUST MISS A TORNADO.

Mud Splattered and Mad, They Say Things About the Nebraska Roads.

Lincoln, Neb., June 28.—[Special.]—The Roger Sullivan automobile party, comprising sixteen Illinois democrats, minus Mr. Sullivan, reached Lincoln at 10 o'clock tonight to visit W. J. Bryan. They had had an all day trip from Omaha and were hardly in a frame of mind to visit the Commoner today, so that duty was postponed until tomorrow morning. Mr. Bryan was in the city when they arrived.

The party was met some miles outside the city by Lincoln automobilists, who piloted them to the Lincoln hotel, where a crowd of 400 Bryan volunteers, headed by Mayor Brown, gave them an enthusiastic welcome.

The Illinois men say they never encountered such roads as lead from Omaha to Lincoln. The delegation last night was caught in one of the hardest storms of the season and barely missed being in the path of a small tornado.

Abbot Talks of Second Man.

Mr. Bryan had many visitors today at Fairview, and the "farm" for the first time this summer took on the appearance of a presidential canvass. One of the visitors was Willis J. Abbot, who spent a good part of the afternoon with Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Abbot said after his conference that the vice presidential situation was the most interesting situation here or at Denver. He did not believe Gov. Johnson of Minnesota had any chance, even if he wanted to be the tail to the Bryan kite. Mr. Bryan's close affiliation with Mr. Abbot was regarded as giving weight to his statement.

Abbot added the statement that John W. Kern of Indiana and Ollie James were men to be reckoned with, and he believed Archibold McLean of Bridgeport, Conn., would get the support of the New England states. Former Gov. Douglas of Massachusetts was not, in his opinion, a serious factor, because he doubted if he could control his own delegation.

Brown Bryan's Platform Man.

If there is to be a Nebraska custodian of the democratic national platform it will be in the hands of Mayor Francis Brown of Lincoln and not Mayor "Jim" Dahlman of Omaha. Mayor Dahlman, who as the Nebraska member of the national committee already is at Denver, has disclaimed knowledge of Mr. Bryan's exact wishes concerning the platform. Mayor Brown will be the Nebraska member of the committee on resolutions and is supposed to have been selected to represent Mr. Bryan and to carry with him the draft of such planks as are deemed essential.

Brown said today he did not think the platform will vary a great deal from the Nebraska platform written in March and in a large measure dictated by Mr. Bryan. The bank deposit guarantee will be a strong feature, as indicated by Bryan's speeches so far. The injunction plank will set out the rights of the courts, but will call for a right to trial by jury of persons accused of contempt of court.

Mr. Bryan officiated tonight as introducer of Raymond Robins, the Chicago settlement worker, who made an address at Lincoln auditorium on "The Social Consciousness of Christ." Mr. Bryan lauded the speaker as one of the sincere friends and helpers of the toilers of the land.

IOWA'S GOVERNOR TO RESIGN?

Cummins Does Not Directly Deny Rumors He Soon Will Quit His Office.

Des Moines, Ia., June 28.—[Special.]—Gov. Albert B. Cummins of Iowa is contemplating resigning to resume the practice of law, given up when he was elected in 1901. He has not definitely decided upon the course, as has been reported, however.

While many of the governor's friends advise him to resign the politicians think more will advise him to remain in the office until the expiration of his term. Mr. Cummins' political ambition has been to serve the state in the United States senate. The outcome of the recent primaries insures the election of Senator Allison to succeed him, however, and there are persistent rumors that B. F. Carroll, the republican nominee for governor, would not appoint Mr. Cummins to the senate should a vacancy occur.

The governor has announced his intention of entering the campaign this fall to lend his aid in the election of republican county, state, and national tickets, and particularly a republican legislature. Those desiring him to remain in the office until January point out that it would not only be easier but more effective for him to participate in the campaign in the office than after resigning and again taking up his profession.

A strenuous campaign is expected in Iowa, however, sanguine as some are that Taft and Sherman will be elected with ease, and it is urged that the governor's aid is needed to insure the election of the ticket and that he can best aid in the campaign by remaining in office.

The progressives also insist that he should avail himself of the opportunity of presenting another message to the legislature pointing out that he could and would recommend new and progressive laws to be added to the remarkable list enacted by the state legislature of 1907.

His political friends also fear that Cummins' resignation at this time would enable his political enemies to charge that, having met defeat, he has been driven to the abandonment of the leadership of the party in the state.

SHERMAN CONTINUES TO GAIN.

Vice Presidential Candidate Expected to Leave the Hospital on Wednesday.

Cleveland, O., June 28.—Congressman James S. Sherman continues to gain strength. He slept much today. His condition remains normal and there has been no change made in the plans for him to leave the hospital not later than next Wednesday.

Will Quit Congressional Committee.

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.]—Information received here is to the effect that James S. Sherman soon will announce his resignation as chairman of the republican congressional committee. A friend of Mr. Sherman said tonight that Mr. Sherman will be succeeded by Vice Chairman Tawney.

FLEET PREPARES FOR VOYAGE.

Battleships Assembling in San Francisco Harbor for Cruise Across the Pacific.

San Francisco, Cal., June 28.—Twelve of the sixteen battleships of the Atlantic fleet, which is to start on July 7 on the voyage from San Francisco to Hampton Roads, are now in San Francisco harbor. The other four are expected to arrive from northern waters during the coming week.

On Tuesday next the Panther and Yankton, auxiliaries, will sail for Honolulu, to be followed on Wednesday by the Culgoa and Relief, and on Monday, July 6, by the Glacier and Ajax.

All of the battleships which have been undergoing repairs here will be off the dry docks by July 3. The ships will take no part in the celebration of the Fourth of July here except to participate in the firing of salutes.

PRENTISS BALKS AT SULLIVAN

Indignant at Suggestion to Name Roger for Vice President.

"BOILS OVER" IN A SPEECH.

Burke Democracy to Entertain Pittsburg Bryan Club on Friday.

William Prentiss unburdened himself of a heavy load of righteous indignation at the meeting of the County Democracy yesterday. He had read of the proposition to name Roger C. Sullivan as the candidate for vice president at Denver and his wrath simply boiled over. If John P. Hopkins and George E. Brennan, who first started the "B. & S." ticket, could have heard him they would have got their money's worth then and there.

In the ordinary affairs of life Mr. Prentiss is a most amiable man, placid in demeanor and courteous to all. But when he mixes in politics he becomes a raging lion. Furthermore, he is lacking in a sense of humor, taking all political matters with the utmost seriousness and unable to see a joke, no matter how broad it is. Finally, he dislikes Roger Sullivan, firmly believing he is the incarnation of all political evil. So he came to the meeting of the County Democracy, as the phrase goes, "simply burning up inside."

Relieves His Mind by Speech.

He took the floor and made a speech and the first thing he said was:

"When I went out on my porch this morning to get my paper and opened it up the first thing I saw was the name 'Roger C. Sullivan.' Then I saw the word 'vice.' Then I saw that Mr. Sullivan's friends had formed a political club. In other words, it was a club formed to advance all forms of political vice and I shuddered at the prospect."

Mr. Prentiss had a number of other things to say in the same line, the gist of them being that the attempt to make Mr. Sullivan the candidate for vice president was a scheme of the agents of predatory wealth intended to handicap Mr. Bryan in his attempts to purify the country. He drew a dark picture of the things Mr. Sullivan would do when he was in power. The hope he saw, however, was in the seating of the Burke contestants at Denver which would stop any such nefarious plans.

Burke Scores on Powers.

Robert Emmet Burke and his County Democracy have scored heavily over Ald. John Powers and his Chicago Marching club in the last contest for points. The Bryan club of Pittsburg will arrive in Chicago Friday noon en route to Denver, and will remain here until evening. Robert Emmet, who rarely overlooks a bet, heard of it and promptly arranged to entertain the Pittsburg democrats during their stay. They will be met at the depot by the County Democracy Marching club and a band, escorted to the County Democracy clubrooms, and there entertained by a lunch, speeches, and other forms of recreation. Ald. Powers' aggregation will not be in the festivities at all.

The County Democracy special train will leave for Denver Friday night; that of the Chicago Marching club Saturday night. Each will carry about 200 people. The Iroquois club will send a delegation on a regular train. Those who will go are Charles F. Gunther, John W. Eckhart, Orva G. Williams, Col. James Hamilton Lewis, Charles J. Vopicka, Henry M. Hagan, Otto Rubin, E. B. Tolman, and Robert Somerville.

Lewis' Friends Are Confident.

Chicago democrats, with the exception of the friends of John P. McGoorty, are taking it for granted that Col. James Hamilton Lewis will be the nominee for governor. They figure it out that a heavier primary vote will be cast in Chicago than in other parts of the state. Then the vote outside of Chicago is likely to be split up, while Col. Lewis will get the big majority of that cast here. His friends insist he is the best campaigner suggested for the place and could make the best race.

Of course, this is all contingent on Samuel Alschuler staying out of the race. Were he to announce himself it would change everything, but up to date he has given no sign and the best information is he will not run.

Proves His Whiskers Genuine.

The claim made for Col. Lewis is he is the best advertised democrat in Illinois and the way he can turn that advertisement to advantage is shown by a story told of him when he was at Springfield at the time of the state convention. All the democrats from southern Illinois had heard of him and wanted to see him. The colonel held quite a levee. He joked and told funny stories and finally remarked:

"Gentlemen, you must not believe everything you read about me. The newspapers are all right and have always treated me kindly and the newspaper boys are all my friends, but once in a while they exaggerate a trifle. The other day one said my whiskers were false."

Here he gave a tug at them to prove they were not, and added:

"Good Lord, gentlemen, if I had had the picking of my own whiskers, do you suppose I would have chosen this color?"

The laugh which went up was genuine and the colonel was voted a good fellow then and there.

HEARST LEAGUE HAS CANDIDATE

Former Mayor McCaskrin of Rock Island Slated to Be Nominated for Governor.

Former Mayor George W. McCaskrin of Rock Island, is slated to be nominated for governor of Illinois by Hearst's Independence league. This announcement was made yesterday by one of the managers of the league, who was in the city looking over the plans for the national convention of the organization to be held in Orchestra hall on July 27.

"We are going to nominate a man for governor who is bigger than La Follette of Wisconsin," said the Hearst manager. "When McCaskrin is governor of Illinois the people will forget there ever was such a man as La Follette. I tell you La Follette is a piker compared with McCaskrin.

"McCaskrin can tear up more miles of street railways in a day than La Follette ever did in a year. McCaskrin will show La Follette how the wreck insurance companies and other aggregations of predatory wealth and wreck 'em right. McCaskrin defied the street car magnates of Rock Island with his own shotgun and then tore up their tracks. And with his own saw he sawed down the poles of the telegraph company. Why, La Follette needs to take lessons of McCaskrin."

The league's probable candidate for president is said to be Thomas L. Hisgen of Massachusetts, who ran ahead of the democratic candidate for governor at the last election.

PLAN STATE SHIP SUBSIDY.

New Company Seeks Grant and Long Time Exemption from Taxes by Louisiana.

New Orleans, La., June 28.—The question whether Louisiana shall grant what is in effect a state ship subsidy will be acted on by the assembly this week. The object of the grant will be a quasi-public steamship company, organized at a capital of $10,000,000, to conserve to the Mississippi valley states in general and to Louisiana in particular, the advantage to be derived from the Panama canal. The subsidy feature is to consist in exemption of the property of this corporation from all state taxation until 1925.

CASHIER IS HELD FOR THEFT.

Atlantic City Man Confesses He Poured $20,500 of Employer's Money Into Bucket Shops.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 28.—Robert Ohnmeiss Jr., cashier of the Marine Trust company of this city, was arrested today charged with a defalcation of $20,500. He made a confession in which he says he played the stock market, that one loss followed another until he was hopelessly involved. He is under $11,000 bail for trial in October.

PARTY LEADERS FLOOD CAPITAL

Selection of Chairman Will Be Made in Hot Springs, Va., However.

TAFT GOING TO PLAY GOLF

Summer Will Be Spent on Links and in Conferences on the Front Porch.

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.]—While the conference to be held by William H. Taft with members of the national committee to determine upon the man who shall be placed in charge of the republican campaign will not take place until July 8, there will be a good deal doing in Washington on the subject this week.

Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati arrived today. Frank H. Hitchcock is expected tomorrow, and prominent members of the national committee, among them Frank P. Kellogg of Minnesota and William L. Ward of New York, are expected to appear before Mr. Taft goes to Hot Springs, Va., this week.

Secretary Taft was up early this morning, considerably refreshed by a good night's rest. Accompanied by James T. Williams he attended services at the Unitarian church, while Mrs. Taft and Master Charley occupied the family pew at St. John's Episcopal church. Mr. and Mrs. Taft took a drive this afternoon and tonight they dined at the Chevy Chase club as the guests of John Barrett, director of the bureau of American republics. The other guests were: C. P. Taft, Charley Taft, Maj. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, Lieut. Gen. Henry C. Corbin and Mrs. Corbin, Brig. Gen. Clarence E. Edwards, and Fred W. Carpenter, private secretary to Mr. Taft.

Plan Conference in Virginia.

Since his nomination Secretary Taft has declined to discuss any phase of the current political situation, especially as to the national chairmanship. He said today that the conference on the chairmanship will be held at Hot Springs, Va., instead of Washington. The resort is in the heart of the Allegheny mountains.

Charles P. Taft's arrival today excited a good deal of interest, as he is supposed to have come to Washington with another message from the Ohio republicans who want Arthur I. Vorys named as the national chairman. While Charles P. originally favored Vorys for this position, it is understood that his ardor for the Ohioan has cooled during the last few weeks.

In administration circles Vorys' selection is opposed and the nominee has been urged to go outside the circle of those who were active in the support of his candidacy prior to and during the convention if he finds that by selecting Frank H. Hitchcock a rumpus would be stirred up in the party in Ohio.

Should Vorys and Hitchcock be eliminated, the belief prevails here that Postmaster General George Von L. Meyer would be named as the chairman, with Mr. Hitchcock really in control, in case he could be induced to associate himself with the committee in what would appear to the public as a subordinate position.

Nominee Will Play Golf.

Announcement was made today that Mr. Taft and his family will leave for Hot Springs not later than Friday. The nominee does not expect to return to Washington for some time. With the exception of a trip to Cincinnati in the last week of July to receive the formal notification of his nomination, Mr. Taft will remain at Hot Springs until Sept. 1. He will spend as much of his time as possible on the golf links, as he feels in need of rest and recreation.

Nearly all of the cranks in the country are writing letters to Secretary Taft. His advice is sought on every conceivable question, ranging from race suicide to tariff. He is also urged in many instances to help out the unfortunate. One letter, from a man in New York state, reads as follows:

"I am a sane man, but I am incarcerated for insanity. It's a hardship for a sane man to be locked up with the insane. I would like to have you indorse this $2,500 note, which you never will have to pay. However, this note will make my remaining days happy and contented."

SEE QUEER SIGNS IN SUN'S ECLIPSE

MANY VIEW SPECTACLE.

"Enlargement of the United States navy and a closer study of possible international complications with sea powers."

These were the two things that the partial eclipse of the sun portended yesterday according to a local high browed astrologer.

The eclipse was visible in all parts of Chicago and, in fact, all over the United States, provided you got up early enough in the morning. But as it was Sunday there were a few hundred thousand who didn't.

"We didn't get up in time," admitted the astrologist yesterday at his office, "but I have discussed the eclipse with the neighbors and have been looking it up.

"It was no ordinary eclipse, [illegible] within the cardinal points. Do you know what that means? Well, it signifies that it was of great importance to the public and will have a special effect upon women and the navy."

"Why women and the navy?"

Explanations Not Clear.

The rest of the explanation wasn't exactly clear, especially to one who was not up in astrology, but it appears that the eclipse fell in the sign of Cancer on the new moon. Whenever eclipses have the Cancer trade mark the [illegible] your navy and your [illegible].

"The conjunction of signs," the astrologist went on, "indicates [illegible] of people will be stimulated, especially women—that the women will be interested in all kinds of new fads and fancies, especially the women's clubs. We already have seen how the fads and fancies of women are on the ascendent in the matter of clothes."

"Directoire gowns?" it was suggested.

"Fashions will be unconventional," the astrologer continued, "as you have seen. Women will undertake new enterprises that hitherto have been limited to the men. They will be more self-reliant."

"What about the navy?"

"The eclipse indicates that there will be a move in the direction of a larger equipment—more battleships—more men. (President Roosevelt will be interested in this.) There will be general activity. The public will begin to see the importance of maintaining a navy superior to our needs. Then there will be developed in this country a greater interest in international questions, especially a study of conditions in maritime countries."

"The eclipse doesn't signify a war, does it?"

Scientists Not Interested.

According to the scientists who looked at the eclipse through powerful telescopes it didn't amount to much as a scientific exhibition and they didn't bother about pushing the Yerkes telescope at Williams Bay observatory.

"It was cloudy and rainy up here," said Edwin B. Frost, director of the observatory. "But I opened up the dome and were able to see it just about three minutes toward the end. We got a photograph of it and [illegible] looked like a silver dollar partly obscured by another coin of the same size. We got the pictures at 11:15 and the eclipse started at 8:50 a. m. up here. There wasn't much in it for our line of work [illegible] at the observatory."

Prof. Hough Discusses Phenomena.

Prof. George W. Hough, the venerable professor of astronomy of the Northwestern university, also took no [illegible] in the interest of science. He took a look at the eclipse at intervals between 8:33 and 11:23, the hours in which it was visible from the telescope at the Dearborn observatory.

"It was a small eclipse and didn't amount to much," said the professor, who is known affectionately as "Jupiter" Hough since he has discovered more satellites floating around old Jupiter than any one else in the world. "It didn't possess any peculiarity. [illegible]

"It could be seen from all parts of the United States," he continued, "but the opportunities for close observation were much better in Florida and Mexico than elsewhere."

[illegible]

But the professor wished it understood that he was not speaking officially and didn't want to mix in politics.

Convention of Planets.

He said that he had viewed through his telescope a regular conference of planets around the sun. Mercury, Venus, Mars, Neptune, and Jupiter appeared to be holding a convention or something of the sort. [illegible]

"Such a thing won't be repeated again for hundreds of years," [illegible] There would be another eclipse on Dec. 3, but it would be invisible in Chicago.

There were thousands of persons who viewed the eclipse from the housetops and elsewhere through smoked glasses and binoculars. It could be seen readily enough through these mediums. [illegible] the Auditorium tower, but they were unable to get in on Sunday, so they went over the lake front. It was so smoky there from the Illinois Central engines that they didn't need any glasses.

Viewed by one of the plain people, who never had adopted astronomy or astrology and didn't believe in dreams, it was not interesting enough as a spectacle.

CHINESE EXERCISE SUN DRAGON

New York Orientals Make Day Hideous With Dishpan Tattoo to Scare Away "Devil."

New York, June 28.—[Special.]—Superstitious Chinamen in Mott and Pell streets raised pandemonium today during the eclipse to frighten away the dragon that was responsible [illegible] the sun. [illegible]

There were ten or twelve little ponds in the pavement when the "dragon" first began to show. [illegible]

There was something about the spectacle which kept one from laughing. Every mother's son of them was as grave as a judge. [illegible] the crescent on the muddy surface. Seldom was a word spoken [illegible]

The attack on the monster began at about 11:30 o'clock. A fat Chinaman sitting on a third story fire escape in Pell street gave the first crack at him, beating a brass kettle with a stick. After that the "thump, thump, thump" of the dishpan brigade could be heard in almost any part of Chinatown. They kept it up until the last trace of the shadow had disappeared from the sun's disk.

PARTY LEADERS FLOOD CAPITAL.

Selection of Chairman Will Be Made in Hot Springs, Va., However.

TAFT GOING TO PLAY GOLF

Summer Will Be Spent on Links and in Conferences on the Front Porch.

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.]—vhile the conference to be held by William I. Taft with members of the national committee to determine upon the man who shall e placed in charge of the republican campaign will not take place until July 8, there will be a good deal doing in Washington on he subject this week.

Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati arrived today, 'rank H. Hitchcock is expected tomorrow, nd prominent members of the national committee, among them Frank P. Kellogg of Minnesota and William L. Ward of New York, are expected to appear before Mr. Taft oes to Hot Springs, Va., this week.

Secretary Taft was up early this morning, considerably refreshed by a good night's rest. Accompanied by James T. Williams he attended services at the Unitarian church, while Mrs. Taft and Master Charley occupied he family pew at St. John's Episcopal church. Mr. and Mrs. Taft took a drive his afternoon and tonight they dined at the Chevy Chase club as the guests of John Barrett, director of the bureau of American epublics. The other guests were: C. P. Taft, Charley Taft, Maj. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, Lieut. Gen. Henry C. Corbin and Mrs. Corbin, Brig. Gen. Clarence E. Edwards, and Fred W. Carpenter, private secretary to Mr. Taft.

Plan Conference in Virginia.

Since his nomination Secretary Taft has declined to discuss any phase of the current political situation, especially as to the national chairmanship. He said today that the conference on the chairmanship will be held at Hot Springs, Va., instead of Washington. The resort is in the heart of the Allegheny mountains.

Charles P. Taft's arrival today excited a good deal of interest, as he is supposed to have come to Washington with another message from the Ohio republicans who want Arthur I. Vorys named as the national chairman. While Charles P. originally favored Vorys for this position, it is understood that his ardor for the Ohioan has cooled during the last few weeks.

In administration circles Vorys' selection is opposed and the nominee has been urged to go outside the circle of those who were active in the support of his candidacy prior to and during the convention if he finds that by selecting Frank H. Hitchcock a rumpus would be stirred up in the party in Ohio.

Should Vorys and Hitchcock be eliminated, the belief prevails here that Postmaster General George Von L. Meyer would be named as the chairman, with Mr. Hitchcock really in control, in case he could be induced to associate himself with the committee in what would appear to the public as a subordinate position.

Nominee Will Play Golf.

Announcement was made today that Mr. Taft and his family will leave for Hot Springs not later than Friday. The nominee does not expect to return to Washington for some time. With the exception of a trip to Cincinnati in the last week of July to receive the formal notification of his nomination, Mr. Taft will remain at Hot Springs until Sept. 1. He will spend as much of his time as possible on the golf links, as he feels in need of rest and recreation.

Nearly all of the cranks in the country are writing letters to Secretary Taft. His advice is sought on every conceivable question, ranging from race suicide to tariff. He is also urged in many instances to help out the unfortunate. One letter, from a man in New York state, reads as follows:

The astrologist refused to commit himself on this point, but promised to consult his books a little further.

Scientists Not Interested.

According to the scientists who looked at the eclipse through powerful telescopes it didn't amount to much as a scientific exhibition and was hardly worth while unlimbering the Yerkes telescope at Williams Bay observatory.

"It was cloudy and rainy up here," said Edwin B. Frost, director of the observatory, "but we opened up the dome and were able to see it just about three minutes toward the end. We got a photograph of it and it looks like a silver dollar partly obscured by another coin of the same size. We got the picture at 11:15 and the eclipse started at 8:36 a. m. up here. There wasn't much interest in it and no one was at the observatory except our three men."

Prof. Hough Discusses Phenomena.

Prof. George W. Hough, the venerable professor of astronomy of the Northwestern university, also had to get out of bed early in the interest of science. He took a look at the eclipse at intervals between 8:33 and 11:23, the hours when it was visible from the telescope at the Dearborn observatory.

"It was not what would be called an annular," said the professor, who is known affectionately as "Jupiter" Hough among the students from the fact that he has discovered more satellites floating around old Jupiter than any other man living or dead. He discovers satellites as a pastime.

"It could be seen from all parts of the United States," he continued, "but the opportunities for close observation were much better in Florida and Mexico than elsewhere."

"Do you think the eclipse will have any effect on the election?"

But the professor wished it understood that he was not speaking officially and didn't want to mix in politics.

Convention of Planets.

He said that he had noticed through his telescope a regular conference of planets around the sun. Mercury, Venus, Mars, Neptune, and Jupiter appeared to be holding a convention or something of the sort. They didn't have anything to do with the eclipse, however.

"Such a thing won't be repeated again for hundreds of years," commented the professor, and appeared to think that was much more important than the eclipse. He said there would be another eclipse on Dec. 3, but that it would not be visible to the naked eye even to those who got up early.

There were thousands of persons who viewed the eclipse from the housetops and back porches through smoked glasses and binoculars. It could be seen readily enough through these mediums. Some active persons who wished to get as good a view as possible had planned to go to the top of the Auditorium tower, but found that the elevator wasn't running at that time of the morning on Sundays, so they went over on the lake front. It was so smoky there from the Illinois Central engines that they didn't need any glasses.

Viewed by one of the plain people, who never had studied astronomy or astrology and didn't believe in dreams, it was interesting enough as a spectacle.

CHINESE EXORCISE SUN DRAGON

New York, June 28.—[Special.]—Superstitious Chinamen in Mott and Pell streets raised pandemonium today during the eclipse to frighten away the dragon that would gobble up the sun. First they marched out into the street with pails of water. There were probably twenty-five Chinamen in Pell street with full pails. Each looked around until he found a hollow in the asphalt pavement and then proceeded to fill it with water.

There were ten or twelve little ponds in the pavement when the "dragon" first began to show. The sun was reflected in the puddles and around each gathered from ten to twelve Chinamen.

There was something about the spectacle which kept one from laughing. Every mother's son of them was in dead earnest. Some of them got down on their knees, better to scan the crescent on the muddy surface. Seldom was anything said and then it seemed to be an expression of approval with a dull "thump, thump, thump" on the tin pans.

The attack on the monster began at about 11:20 o'clock. A fat Chinaman sitting on a third story fire escape in Doyer street took the first crack at him, beating a brass kettle with a stick. After that the "thump, thump, thump" of the dishpan brigade could be heard in almost any part of Chinatown. They kept it up until the last trace of the shadow had disappeared from the sun's disk.

DRENCHED BY HOSE IN BED

Firemen at Clyde Engage in Bitter War with Each Other.

TOO MANY ARE 'ON THE JOB.'

One Station and Two Departments the Cause of Strife in Village.

A bitter fight is in progress between members of the two "official" fire departments of the little village of Clyde in Cicero township to determine which of them shall have charge of the single fire station in the village.

Saturday night the trouble developed to such an extent that revolvers were brought into play, and, although no shots were fired, Lee Jolidon, a driver recently appointed by the Cicero town board, was ousted from the fire station after having been drenched with a hose.

The trouble has been brewing since April, when the independent citizens' party elected its candidates for places on the town board, which is presided over by President George Comerford, a republican, whose term of office held over from the previous election. There had been much complaint concerning the Clyde fire department and the matter was carried to the town board.

Passed Over President's Veto.

Trustee Erskine Hart of Clyde appealed to President Comerford for the dismissal of the old force, which is commanded by Capt. Thomas Reese. A resolution was passed over the president's veto disbanding the Reese department and appointing A. S. Whitney captain. President Comerford is said to have notified the old firemen that the order of the board was invalid and to have instructed them not to make way for the new appointees.

Last Monday Jolidon was sent to the station with instructions to take charge of the horses and apparatus, but was forbidden to touch either by William Henry, the driver appointed by President Comerford. Tuesday night a false alarm of fire was sent in, and when Jolidon attempted to take charge of the wagon he was thrown off.

Drenched with Fire Hose.

Yesterday he reported to Trustee Hart that he was awakened at midnight by the opening of the door into the loft and before he could get out of the way a fire hose was turned on him. He was drenched to the skin, but managed to seize his revolver and give chase to the men who were playing the stream of water on him. The men escaped, and Jolidon, who was unable to return to his drenched bed, spent the remainder of the night in a chair in front of the engine house.

At 7:30 o'clock in the morning, as he was dozing in the shade of a building, a window above him was opened and a tub of water poured on him. Jolidon again drew his revolver, but his tormentors again escaped, and he was forced to abandon his post.

Decide on Legal Steps.

The newly appointed members of the fire department conferred with Trustee Hart in the afternoon and it was decided that legal steps would be taken to drive out the old force. Town Attorney John J. Sherlock was asked to give an opinion as to the merits of the case and is reported to have replied that "there is much to be said on both sides."

CATCH 'HOKEY-POKEY' SELLERS PEDDLING WITHOUT LICENSES.

Hinman Street Police Arrest Eleven Ice Cream Venders—Army of Children Attack Confiscated Wares.

The "hokey-pokey" ice cream man who ventured into the streets of the southwest side yesterday was given a hard jolt by the police. It is believed that during the summer months no further attempts will be made by them to sell their wares on Sunday to the youngsters who throng the tenements of that part of Chicago.

Eleven ice cream venders were arrested and taken to the Hinman street station. It was not until after midnight that the last of them had obtained bonds. For hours peanut and "hokey-pokey" carts stood in the squadroom of the station and a detail of policemen was stationed at every door and window to keep the boys from taking the place by storm.

Following close at the peddlers' heels came a long line of shouting boys and girls who tried to steal some of the ice cream. The army of children was brought to a stop at the door of the police station, but a few of the bolder ones even climbed through the windows.

P. Constakos, one of the men arrested, caught sight of a boy rifling his ice cream can from the corner of his cell and raised an alarm. The youngster had gained an entrance by climbing through one of the windows. He was detected and fled. For hours more than 1,200 boys and girls thronged the streets surrounding the station, and the police finally gave up the attempt to drive them away.

STRIKE CALLED MAY 1 ENDED BY ELEVATOR CONSTRUCTORS.

Wage Compromise Reached and Employes Return to Work Today—Freight Handlers May Walk Out.

The strike of the Elevator Constructors' union, called May 1, has been settled, and all the employés of the various elevator firms in Chicago will return to work today.

The strike was called on the refusal of the employers to grant an increase of 50 cents a day to mechanics and 25 cents to helpers. A compromise was reached yesterday and the union men will be given an advance of 25 and 10 cents a day. The compromise was secured through the Otis Elevator company, which employs 80 per cent of the union members.

The Freight Handlers' union will hold a massmeeting this evening at the International theater, at which the advisability of a strike will be discussed. The refusal of the railroads to sign a wage agreement for the next twelve months is the cause of the trouble. A referendum vote will be taken tomorrow on the strike question.

SUN ECLIPSED AHEAD OF TIME.

Washington, D. C., June 28.—The eclipse of the sun served to attract astronomers and spectators to the United States naval observatory here today where that event was observed with keen interest. The day could hardly have been more favorable for the purpose.

The first contact occurred thirty-five minutes and twenty-eight seconds after 9 o'clock this morning, which was ten seconds ahead of the predicted time, while the second contact occurred forty-nine minutes and two seconds past noon, being twenty-three seconds ahead of the predicted time. The image of the sun was almost perfect when the first contact occurred, but it was not so good at the time of the second contact, owing to clouds.

Prof. George H. Peters of the naval observatory took seven photographs with the photo-heliograph, which showed in addition to the moon projected upon the sun, three fairly large sun spot groups.

Clouds Prevent Photographs.

Cambridge, Mass., June 28.—Several photographs of the partial eclipse of the sun were attempted today at the Harvard observatory, but Prof. W. H. Pickering, director of the observatory, declared that he did not think they would result satisfactorily, owing to the cloudiness of the sky.

CATHOLICS HIT SUNDAY BARS

Total Abstinence Union Denounces Saloons.

LOCAL OPTION IS FAVORED.

Hope Is Expressed for Early Elimination of the Liquor Traffic.

"We condemn the violation of our Sunday closing laws by saloonkeepers nominally Catholic.

"We condemn the disrespect by Catholic saloonkeepers toward the teachings of the church with regard to their trade.

"We prayerfully hope for the complete elimination of the saloon.

"We recommend the work of local option.

"We recommend the work of all societies that have for their object the lessening of the evils resulting from the liquor traffic.

"We condemn in unequivocal terms the open saloon on Sunday.

"We unhesitatingly condemn the candidate for public office who disregards existing laws with respect to the saloon.

"We recommend the teaching of total abstinence in our parochial schools.

"Thanks be to God for the radicals and cranks! They are a useful piece of machinery for the uplift of the race.

"It would be right to blow up the saloons of this country as public enemies if there were no other way to get rid of them."

These were some of the sentiments expressed in resolutions adopted yesterday at the Thirty-seventh annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of Illinois, held in Temperance hall, 55 Eldridge place.

Aggressive War Is Favored.

The speakers, lay and clerical, took a strong stand for an aggressive fight by the organization against the liquor evil in all its forms. The same vigorous tone was in the resolutions adopted by the convention and in the same spirit the Rev. Peter J. O'Callaghan, pastor of St. Mary's church and head of the Paulist order in Chicago, was elected president of the union for the ensuing year. The Paulist order is the only great order of priests born in the United States and is distinguished by its positive stand on the liquor question.

Father O'Callaghan is widely known for his decided stand against drink and he promises to work for a great revival of anti-liquor sentiment among the Catholics of Illinois.

One of the first moves which he intends to take, and which, at his request was recommended by the convention, is the establishment of an organization of total abstainers among the Catholic schoolboys of the state to be known as the Temperance cadets.

Father O'Callaghan called attention to the fact that the third plenary council of Baltimore by specific decrees, confirmed by the pope, condemned the keeping open of saloons on Sunday and other evils of the liquor business. No man, he said, could violate these laws of the church and remain a loyal son of the church.

Right to Blow Up Saloons.

Miss Alida H. O'Connor, secretary of the union, a teacher in the Drummond public school, expressed the opinion that if the government had the right to blow up the forts of the enemy in time of war or if the city had the right to blow up buildings in time of conflagration, the people should have the right to eliminate the saloon by the same unconventional means.

The Rev. Thomas E. Cox, pastor of St. Basil's church, bitterly denounced the members of his church, clergy, and laity, for their lack of interest in the fight against liquor. He declared the church is not in Illinois today a force in the great battle against intemperance, and urged his fellows, especially the members of the clergy, to follow literally the teachings of their church. He said that total abstinence, not temperance, was the only solution of the problem.

Active Co-operation Is Urged.

Mrs. Leonora M. Lake of St. Louis, vice president of the National union, urged the active coöperation of the local organizations with all other organizations seeking to destroy the liquor traffic. She complained that the policy of the society had been too much to attend merely to its own members.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are:

Spiritual director—The Rev. D. J. Crimmons, St. David's parish, Chicago.

Treasurer—Prof. W. H. Cahill, Chicago School of Science.

Dog Bites Little Girl.

Elsa Marsh, 4 years old, 744 Herndon street, was bitten on the right arm yesterday by a black and tan dog belonging to Jacob Lingle, 740 Herndon street. She was playing in Lingle's back yard with a number of other children when the dog snapped at her. Dr. A. F. Warner, 1802 Belmont avenue, cauterized the wound. The police were notified.

SAYS "GYMS" REDUCE CRIME

President Schneider Lauds German Idea of Outdoor Training.

WELCOMES TURNER BUND.

Organization Opens First Convention in Chicago Since 1888.

"The old German idea of harmonious development of mind and body through public playgrounds, open air and school gymnasiums, as now carried out by school and city officials, is working wonders in the way of reducing crime in Chicago," said President Otto C. Schneider of the school board in his address of welcome to the North American Turnerbund yesterday at the North Side Turner hall.

"No city in the world takes a greater interest in the mental and physical culture training given in our public schools," continued Mr. Schneider. "I can assure you that there never again will be erected in Chicago a school house without a well equipped gymnasium. During the last year 1,600,000 children accepted the benefits of the public and school gymnasiums, and we have statistics to show that the general character of the neighborhoods where these playgrounds and gymnasiums are located has greatly improved.

"Proper gymnastic training is as needful to the child as mental training, but it took some of us a long time to find it out, and it required twelve years of hard work to have it established in the schools. Any one glancing down among this fine body of German athletes can readily see its advantages."

Welcomes Delegates to Convention.

Emil Hoechster, president of the Chicago Turngemeinde, said:

"I am glad to welcome the first convention of this kind held here since 1888. I have witnessed many battles against our principles of personal liberty, but the onslaught of the opposition has always fallen because of the solid front of the loyal German-American citizen. We always will defend our rights. I am exceptionally pleased with the increase of our active membership and rejoice over these splendid young men inheriting the principles of the old German fathers."

Acting National Chairman Dr. Robert Nix spoke highly of his predecessor, the late Herman Lieber, who had been a Turner for fifty-five years and who headed the national organization for eight years. He reported an increase of 1,500 "society" members in addition to "hundreds" of active members.

The permanent organization was formed in the afternoon and the various committees to draw up the rules and regulations which will govern the body for the next two years were named.

Dr. Hartung Elected Chairman.

Dr. Heinrich Hartung of New York and Mr. Hoechster were both nominated as candidates for the permanent chairmanship, but before the contest had a chance to become warm the latter withdrew in favor of the visitor. Dr. E. Richard of New York was elected vice chairman, and Adolph Varrelmann of the Ohio district and Samuel Rautenberg of the western New York district were elected secretaries.

The platform and statute, the technical, turning teachers' seminary, and the finance committees immediately went into executive session, and will make partial reports, at least, at the reconvening of the convention this morning.

The first named committee expects some enlightenment today from United Societies representatives. The latter will tell all that local prohibitionists and members of similar organizations have done toward interfering with the personal liberty and rights of the society members, and as a result the convention is expected to pass stronger anti-prohibition resolutions than ever.

CHICAGO TURNER WINS HONORS.

Davenport, Ia., June 28.—[Special.]—In the presence of 10,000 persons, the winners in the kreis turnfest of the turners of Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, and Wisconsin today were crowned with wreaths and awarded diplomas as testimonials of their prowess in athletic work. H. Peitsch of Milwaukee won the laurels in apparatus work, with John Duha of Chicago a close second. In the class work Davenport was first, Milwaukee second, and Chicago third.

THREE HIT BY FLYING BOTTLES.

Italians Start Fight Among Themselves in Saloon, but Spectators Are Only Victims.

Three Italians entered the saloon of Arthur Ohman, Milton and Chicago avenues, early this morning and immediately started a free for all fight, the cause for which is unknown. Beer bottles and dishes soon were flying in all directions.

Three spectators, Oscar Hill, 55 Sedgwick street; Harry Ley, a porter; and Oscar Luoma, 55 Sedgwick street, were struck by missiles.

Ohman summoned the police, but the Italians, none of whom was hurt in the fray, patched up their differences and escaped.

Give $140 to Vacation Schools.

During the month of June the Mothers' club of Oak Park has contributed $140 to the vacation schools of the city. This amount represents the receipts from open air entertainments. The club will not meet again until September.

MANY WATCH "BONGO" CHOKE

Lincoln Park Monkey's Sudden Illness Mystifies Crowd.

KEEPER DISCOVERS PEANUT.

Incident Attracts Almost as Much Attention as Eclipse.

The illness of little Bongo, the six day old son of Sapho, the largest monkey in Lincoln park zoo, attracted an unusually large crowd to the monkey cage at the park yesterday. Almost everybody who went to the park early enough for the eclipse directed their attention to the little furry sufferer with the long tail as soon as the celestial phenomenon was over.

Cy DeVry's new pet, it was discovered, was slowly choking to death. Sapho held him in her arms close to the bars and looked out piteously upon the crowd. The little "monk" was coughing in an alarming way.

"He has the croup; honey and tar's the thing for him," said an old woman.

"Tonsilitis," was the opinion of a man, who looked like a horse doctor.

Other equally enlightening suggestions were offered.

Finds Peanut in Throat.

While the people were speculating one of DeVry's animal keepers pushed through the crowd, yanked little Bongo from Sapho's arms, and rammed a pair of tweezers down Bongo's throat. When he withdrew the tweezers Bongo gulped happily and the tweezers held—a peanut.

"Don't you people know how to read?" demanded the keeper. "That sign says plain as day that visitors are not to feed the animals."

Monkeys Attack "Happy Family."

Monkeys chattering and parrots screeching attracted a large crowd of persons to Vahle's bird and animal store, 86 Van Buren street, yesterday morning.

Two simians had escaped from their cage and they immediately attacked the dozen parrots in the store.

Services were being held at the Pacific Garden mission when the cries of the parrots shouting "Help!" and "Police!" caused Harry Monroe to stop in the midst of his discourse. The side door of the mission, which commands a view of the bird store was closed and the mission services continued.

Tiring of this amusement, the monkeys emptied the water out of gold fish jars and then played with the wriggling fish.

In the front window of the store there were half a dozen fox terrier pups and the same number of guinea pigs. The monkeys released them and then chased them all over the store.

They next freed some Japanese or twirling mice from a house made of glass.

With the mice, the guinea pigs, and the pups all running away from the monkeys, the sight was entertaining to those in front of the store.

The police drove the mob away and summoned Mr. Vahle, who upon his arrival found the monkeys huddled together in their cage, looking as innocent as two babes. The feathers in their teeth, however, told their guilt.

CONFIDENCE MAN IS NERVY.

Relieves Man of Watch and $2 on the Steps of the Harrison Street Police Station.

John Mirabelli was arrested last night on a charge of working the nerviest confidence game known to the Chicago police.

Paul Dewitz, who had been directed to the Harrison street police station by a policeman to whom he applied for a place to stay all night, had reached the outer steps to the station when he saw Mirabelli standing there. Thinking he was a detective Dewitz asked him if he could sleep all night in the station.

"Certainly you can," replied Mirabelli. "I am the chief of police. If you will take this order in to the sergeant he will fix you up."

He then handed Dewitz a paper. Dewitz started to enter the door and Mirabelli stopped him, saying:

"Have you a watch or any money, young fellow? Leave it with me or the bums downstairs will get it."

Dewitz handed over his watch and $2. Then he entered the station and showed the "order" to the desk sergeant. He said the chief was outside.

Would Organize New Club.

There is a possibility that Chicago soon may have another club—the Southern club. John Glass, western manager of the Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore, has advertised that other large cities have clubs composed of natives of the southern states and suggests that Chicago have one. Men interested in the proposed club have been requested to forward their names to the office of Mr. Glass, 1114 Fisher building.

Foresters Celebrate 25th Anniversary.

Court Weidner of the Independent Order of Foresters, organized June 30, 1883, celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary with a banquet and vaudeville at Yondorf's hall, North avenue and Halsted street, last evening. The program concluded with dancing.

LIFER ARRESTED AS SAFE BLOWER

ATTEMPT TO LOOT BANK.

Caught Forcing Their Way Into Building Within 300 Feet of a Police Station.

Four alleged safe robbers were arrested at midnight on Saturday while trying to force an entrance into the bank of Jankovich & Co., 2127 Archer avenue—within 300 feet of the Twenty-second street police station.

All the men were armed with revolvers, and one of them carried a dark lantern, piece of fuse, and a small bottle of whitish, oily liquid supposed to be nitroglycerin.

Two of the men escaped from the police, who came upon them accidentally, but were captured later in a house, where they had taken refuge under a bed.

Capt. Stephen Wood of the Twenty-second street station, whose policemen made the arrests, was sent for, and upon his arrival he recognized three of the men as ex-convicts. The prisoners are John Bush, Thomas Smith, Joseph Juretick, and Duke Glick.

Sent to Prison for Life.

Smith was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Joliet penitentiary a few years ago for a series of daring "holdup" robberies on the south side. He was the first convict to be given a life sentence in Illinois for the crime of robbery. About six months ago he was released on parole.

Smith had been out of jail only two days, having been arrested for attempting to break into Knight's drug store, Twenty-sixth street and Wentworth avenue. He was held to the grand jury on bonds of $2,500. His mother, who owns a small home, procured his release from jail by signing the bond.

Bush was arrested a few years ago for the theft of $1,500 worth of rugs from Tobey & Co., and was recently released from Joliet.

How Arrests Were Made.

The arrest of Smith and the others was, as Capt. Wood expresses it, "the biggest piece of luck that ever happened to a policeman." A few minutes after midnight on Saturday Policemen Carney and Scott, who had just been excused from duty, left the station by a rear door and were hurrying toward their homes when they saw four men in the rear of the Jankovich bank. The men were working at the iron grated windows and had removed two of the bars when the policemen came upon them.

Carney and Scott grabbed two of the men as they attempted to escape and discharged their revolvers at the other two, who ran into a house at 2123 Archer avenue.

Shots Bring Assistance.

The sound of the shots was heard by Sergeants Hughes and Burns, who were in the station, and they ran to the alley in the rear. They were met by Carney and Scott, who were marching Smith and Juretick to the station, with revolvers at their heads. On learning that the two who got away had run into the building next to the bank, Hughes and Burns went there and searched for them.

The building, which is occupied as an Austrian boarding house, was in darkness. The occupants were sleeping so soundly that they did not hear the two policemen enter through the kitchen door, left open on account of the warm night. The fugitives were dragged from under a bed.

Capt. Wood is convinced that the prisoners are the men who have been robbing safes on the south side for several months. Among the "jobs" charged against the gang is the robbery of Callahan's vinegar works, Twenty-fourth and La Salle streets. At this place the watchman was bound and gagged.

Two Robbed on Street Cars.

Two robberies were committed in Englewood last night on street cars. Three young men jostled C. S. Stockhan, 1028 Fifty-fourth street, and took $23 from his vest pocket.

Twenty minutes later Martin Sorensen, 3535 Fifth avenue, while alighting from a car, was surrounded by three men who bumped against him and took a wallet containing $45 from the hip pocket of his trousers.

The description given by Stockhan and Sorensen of the pickpockets, who escaped, were identical, and the police believe the same men are responsible for several similar robberies which have been committed in Englewood within the last two weeks.

The real identity of "Nicholas Metz," alleged hotel letter thief, who was arrested in the Palmer house on Saturday, has been established. He is Maxmillian Meyer, 32 years old, 208 Twenty-fourth place, a former convict.

AIR OF SANCTITY AT TIVOLI; 'ANDY' MOANS, BUSINESS GONE

Craig's Place Has a Quiet Sunday Following Newspaper Exposure—"Sim" Wineman "Feels Hurt."

The halo of sanctity hovered over the notorious Tivoli saloon of "Andy" Craig all day yesterday.

Even "Andy" apparently was suffering from an attack of his "circular" sanctimoniousness. The saloon, which is at 388 State street, was deserted, and the automatic piano was turned to the wall. Tables in the back room, formerly the lounging place of women, were covered with a layer of dust.

"Business is gone," bemoaned Craig. "There is absolutely nothing doing around here."

Craig's business in his saloon is practically gone, it is said. Following the exposure of the resort by THE TRIBUNE, the women, supposedly on Craig's orders, disappeared.

"Never have I allowed women without escorts to come into my saloon."

The saloon and restaurant of "Sim" Wineman at Monroe and Dearborn streets also was deserted.

"Now I really do feel hurt about having insinuations cast at my restaurant, for I want to get the trade of good people, not the ritraff of the town," said Sim. "That's straight."

MAN FIGHTS PARTY ON BOAT.

Disturber Causes Slight Panic, but Finally Is Placed in Irons Aboard Steamship.

An intoxicated man who made things lively on the upper deck of the Christopher Columbus an hour before it reached port last evening caused a slight panic among the passengers. He finally was tied securely by three deckhands.

Eighteen persons, a few of those who had entered upon the excursion to Milwaukee under the auspices of the Occidental council of the Royal Arcanum, were lunching near the rear of the boat when the drunken man intruded. Some of the men of the party attempted to persuade him to leave, but he persisted in picking a quarrel. In the fight which followed the man's face was battered badly.

Upon the demand of Paul J. Recher, 1561 Buckingham place; George E. Fleig, 955 Cuyler avenue; and W. H. Robertson, 379 Bissell street, the maniac was locked up, but was released upon arrival in port.

Concert in Oak Park.

For the open air band concert in Oak Park Tuesday evening the following program will be given by Freiman's Oak Park club band: March, "King Karl," Eilenberg; overture, "Pique Dame," Suppe; waltz, "Italian Nights," Tobani; cornet solo, selected, Mr. Freiman; overture, "William Tell," Rossini; "Roses Honeymoon," Brattan; "Darkies' Jubilee," Johansen; fantasie, "Faust," Gounod; and Irish Songs, Bennett.

WHY?
Most people are not aware of the actual labors performed by their feet until they experience a general breakdown. Improper shoes, walking on hard floors and pavements produce excessive strain on certain muscles of the feet, and unless all parts of the foot are supported equally — trouble begins — corns, bunions, enlarged toe joints, etc., follow quickly. I can prevent all this—if you will seek my advice.
My Plaster Paris Last System, by which I make the special shoe, insures a perfect fit—no matter how sensitive or tender, how crippled or deformed the feet may be. Physicians and surgeons pronounce my system of shoe building perfect. Special Shoes to measure, $10; with Plaster Cast, $25.
The Larson Shoe — ready to wear—built over our famous "Corn-Cure Last," will guarantee comfort to every man. $3.50 to $5.00.

Republican Politicians Call Governor's Campaign Pamphlet Strong Document.

HAILED AS MAN OF DEEDS

Roy West Says Statement Shows Executive's Aim Has Been to "Perform Duty."

Gov. Deneen's campaign pamphlet setting forth what he has accomplished as state executive has caused no little sensation among republican politicians. It is regarded as a remarkable political document, the arguments contained in which former Gov. Yates will find difficulty in discounting.

The publication of excerpts from the governor's statement yesterday gave some notion of the great mass of facts and figures which he has brought together to show the extent of the constructive work he has done for the people in three and a half years. The politicians admit it is a shrewd tactical move, as any similar summing up of his own administration by Yates would look sorry in comparison.

Gov. Deneen has spoken in nearly every county in the state during his primary campaign, and now these booklets are to be scattered broadcast in every primary district. In the pamphlet the voters will find detailed substantiation of the oral reports the governor has given to the people of his trust. Against them the voters will have only Mr. Yates' glittering generalities.

Hard Working Governor.

"The governor's statement speaks for itself," said State Chairman Roy O. West. "Any one who reads that statement will realize that the people have had a hard working governor, whose only aim has been to carry out thoroughly a great public duty.

"He has initiated more far reaching reforms than any previous governor. He has reorganized the administration of public affairs from top to bottom. He has recovered hundreds of thousands of dollars of which the state had been defrauded.

"He is so indefatigable in his zeal for the public interest that he has not taken a single vacation since he took office, and whenever he travels it is with a secretary and a satchel full of state papers."

Call It Weak, but Tremble.

The Yates followers professed to find the governor's statemnt of no moment, if not ludicrous, but most of them could not conceal their anxiety over the effect of the document on the voters. Citizens who are captured by a love of display and oratorical fireworks, the Yates managers feel, are safely committed to their candidate, but they are worried about those who will insist on comparing Yates' administration with Deneen's.

"It's the weakest statement I ever read," said David L. Frank, manager of Yates' Chicago headquarters. "I am surprised that Deneen would submit such an argument for renomination to the voters of the party.

"The governor's defense says the men behind Mr. Yates are not in favor of the direct primary law, but he does not say Mr. Yates does not favor the direct primary, for the reason that Mr. Yates' record is absolutely in favor of a direct primary law, the best proof of which is the photographic copy which has been circulated throughout the state of a resolution written in Mr. Yates' own handwriting. It was introduced into the 'deadlock' convention of four years ago by Mr. Yates' friends at his request. In that resolution he proposes that the convention take a recess and hold a primary at which the people of the state might take a direct vote and decide who was their choice for governor."

Shows "More than Promises."

One of the most interesting parts of the governor's statement related to the conduct of state business under the administration of Mr. Deneen. This the governor summarized thus:

TAXATION.

BUSINESS METHODS.

Auditing and investigation of accounts of all state departments and institutions and Illinois Central railway:

Amount recovered through investigation and audits	$ 916,324.14
Claims against auditors and treasurers	321,000.00
Claims against Illinois Central railroad	15,000,000.00
Interest collected by departments and institutions	54,314.00

Uniform blanks for expense accounts provided, prohibiting use of railway passes.

LARGER ITEMS CONSTRUCTIVE WORK BOARD OF CHARITIES.

Repairs to and improvements to institutions for safety, comfort, and well being of inmates and economy in operation.

Psychopathic institute to educate physicians and for research into causes of insanity and cures therefor.

Employment of women physicians.

Water treatment for cure of curable insanity, improvement of incurable cases, and to reduce mechanical and drug restraint.

Compulsory training schools to educate nurses and attendants. Employment to remove curse of idleness and to improve chronic insane.

New law to place 2,600 insane, now in county poorhouses, in modern state hospitals.

New law for the visitation of children placed in family homes. Four thousand such children in Illinois. Many criminal abuse cases prosecuted.

Two cottages, $50,000 each, and hospital provided for soldiers and their wives.

Consumptives in state institutions segregated and specially treated. Decrease in year and a half of 2½ per cent and at the Lincoln Feeble Minded decrease of consumptives 50 per cent.

Compulsory reports of all accidents and injuries, seeking causes and prevention.

Appropriation of $500,000 toward $3,000,000 new prison at Joliet.

Gov. Deneen will come to Chicago today to consult with his campaign managers on plans for his speaking tour of the city.

Seeks Precedence for Slates.

The leaders in both parties will be busy today and tomorrow filling up the petitions of the candidates for state, county, and city offices on their respective organization slates. They want to be ready to file their petitions the minute the new primary law goes into effect, which will be midnight tomorrow. This will give the slate candidates the precedence on the primary tickets.

There is not much doubt that the candidates on the organization slates in both parties will get their petitions filed first. County Clerk Joseph Haas will be relied upon to see to this important matter for the county candidates, Isaac Powell for the drainage trustees, and City Clerk McCabe for the municipal candidates. Similar courtesies undoubtedly will be extended to the democratic organization.

Congressman Foss at Home.

Congressman George E. Foss of the Tenth district, who returned during the day from his first week of stump speaking down the state for the senatorship, will be at his headquarters in the Great Northern hotel this afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock. All citizens who are interested in his candidacy for the seat now occupied by Albert J. Hopkins are invited to call.

BUSSE IS BUSY ON NEW SLATE

Thirteen Additions to Official Family May Be Made Today.

DOWNEY TO QUIT HIS OFFICE

Mayor Seeks Place That He May Remain with Administration.

If Mayor Busse can straighten out some obstinate tangles during the day he will make appointments for these offices at the council meeting this evening:

A member of the board of local improvements.
A member of the civil service commission.

If the problems cannot be solved the appointments will have to go over until the next meeting.

The thing which is delaying matters is the question of what to do with Building Commissioner Joseph Downey. If Mr. Downey would consent to remain in his present position all would be well, but Mr. Downey insists on going out. He has so insisted for more than a year, but the mayor has refused to accept his resignation. Now the time in which he agreed to stay has expired and he is holding the mayor to his bargain.

Anxious to Retain Downey.

But the mayor is still anxious to have Mr. Downey remain with his administration, but the question is where to place him. The commissioner's preference is for the board of education, but if he is appointed there somebody will have to be displaced to make room for him. This would interfere with other plans. The mayor felt last evening that he was not disposed to give Mr. Downey a place on the board.

So far as the appointments for the board of education stood last night the accepted slate was:

Frank C. Waller,
Dr. A. L. Blackwood,
George B. Limbert,
Dr. Alfred D. Kohn,
Modie J. Spiegel,
John R. Morron,
Mrs. Emmons Blaine.

Four Originally Named.

Of the list given Messrs. Waller, Blackwood, Limbert, and Kohn were originally named by Mayor Busse soon after his inauguration, but were afterwards thrown out by the Supreme court. It is naturally the mayor's desire to put them back in the places they lost. Mr. Spiegel, Mr. Morron, and Mrs. Blaine are retiring members of the present board.

But if Mr. Downey was named it would interfere with this arrangement. It would be possible to drop Mr. Spiegel or Mr. Morron, but there are objections to this and also to delay in reappointing the four ousted members for a year.

The vacancy on the board of education caused by the death of Col. John F. Finerty is another one of the tangles. The south side claims the place, but there is no south side man available.

So with the building commissionership, which will be vacant when Mr. Downey quits. The mayor is undecided whom to name. He might pick a south side man and send the place on the board of local improvements to the north side, but that is only a tentative suggestion, which has been made.

Roulston to Be Reappointed.

The three retiring members of the library board are John W. Eckhart, Robert J. Roulston, and John L. Novak. Mr. Roulston is slated for reappointment. The other two vacancies remain to be filled.

M. L. McKinley retires as member of the civil service commission. He is to be reappointed.

STORM LEAVES 200 HOMELESS; CLINTON, MINN., ASKS RELIEF.

Physicians Hurried from Nearby Towns to Care for Sixty Injured by a Tornado.

Graceville, Minn., June 28.—[Special.]—Two hundred persons are homeless at Clinton because of the tornado which swept over the town Saturday afternoon. An appeal has been sent out for clothes and shelter and it is expected the state will come to the aid of the sufferers.

Thirty-three houses were totally destroyed by the storm and twenty-five others practically ruined. A corrected list shows that seven persons were killed and sixty injured, eleven of them seriously.

Physicians from Graceville and Ortonville have been in constant attendance on the injured for twenty-four hours.

REFUSES CHICAGO CHURCH CALL

Dr. C. L. Goodell of New York Declines Invitation to Become Pastor of St. James' M. E. Congregation.

The Rev. Dr. Chas. L. Goodell, pastor of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal church of New York, has decided to refuse the call which has been made to him to accept the pastorate of St. James' Methodist Episcopal church in Chicago.

The members of the official board passed resolutions of allegiance to Dr. Goodell, and in addressing the board tonight the pastor said he felt it was his duty to remain at Calvary.

Since Dr. Goodell was a candidate for bishop before the last general conference of the Methodist church, held in Baltimore several weeks ago, he has received calls from other churches, but has refused all of them.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM F. FOX, for twenty-five years president of the Chicago insurance board, died at Milwaukee after an illness of six years, aged 72 years. He went to Milwaukee to live with a daughter when his health forced him to give up active business in Chicago.

QUICK TREATMENT TO ROUT TETANUS

ANTI-TOXIN FREE TO ALL.

Police Stations to Be Emergency Centers for Its Distribution to Victims.

Take no chances with Fourth of July wounds. Call a physician immediately. If you cannot secure the services of a physician at once, telephone to the nearest police station and an ambulance physician will be sent, but do not delay having the wound treated by a competent surgeon. By this means and by the prompt use of anti-toxin, deaths from tetanus will be averted.—DR. W. A. EVANS.

This earnest advice was given yesterday by Health Commissioner Evans, as he was leaving the city laboratory and he meant it, he said, for the general public.

Dr. Evans has been going over with Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, the department statistician, the subject matter of the weekly health bulletin and he considered that portion relating to Fourth of July wounds as the most important thing in the message.

Public Must Help.

"The entire energies of the department of health," said the commissioner, "will be directed from now on until after the Fourth in educating the public and taking precautionary measures against deaths from tetanus.

"There is no reason why a single person in Chicago should die from tetanus as a result of a Fourth of July wound, but the public must aid the department.

"Parents should realize first of all that a physician's services are absolutely essential at the earliest possible moment, for a Fourth of July wound requires skillful treatment, as will be observed from the nature of the directions in the bulletin.

"The infection is the frequent result of wounds from blank cartridges, firecrackers, and toy cannons, and the death is agonizing in the extreme."

How to Treat Wounds.

These are the directions for the treatment of Fourth of July wounds as given in the bulletin:

1. Freely incise every wound.
2. Carefully remove all foreign matter.
3. Cauterize thoroughly with a solution of 25 per cent of carbolic acid.
4. Apply loosely a wet pack of 2.5 per cent of carbolic acid.
5. Give a full dose of anti-tetanic serum.
6. In no case must the wound be closed. It should be healed by granulation, dressing, and packing.

The administration of antitoxin, according to the bulletin, is the most important part of the treatment. Immediately after the wound is dressed 1,500 units of antitoxin should be administered.

Stations for Antitoxin.

SOUTH SIDE.

Health department in City hall, room 4. Telephone Main 447.

WEST SIDE.

West Chicago avenue police station, 233 West Chicago avenue. Telephone Monroe 1063.

NORTH SIDE.

Dr. Evans wishes to impress upon the public the necessity for prompt action in Fourth of July wounds. It is only by the early administration of anti-toxin that the terrible death of tetanus may be averted to a certainty. When the symptoms of lockjaw begin to appear it is too late to gain any benefit from the serum.

Dr. Evans also intends today to hold a conference with Chief Shippy regarding the protection of hospital patients from Fourth of July noise.

Criticises Boisterous Ways.

The Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones in his address at a meeting in the morning at Lincoln Center severely criticised the present manner of celebrating the "festival most imbedded in thoughtfulness in the calendar of the year."

"It is sad to think that the greatest democracy the world has ever known, born in anxiety, quiet, and prayer, that its birthday should be celebrated with noise and dissipation," he said. "Lawlessness and boisterousness mark the degeneracy of the fourth day of July."

Take Up "Safe and Sane" Idea.

Measures to bring about a "safe and sane Fourth" will be discussed at a meeting of committees from civic bodies and different clubs Wednesday afternoon at the Hamilton club. President Marquis Eaton and other members of the Hamilton club have originated the movement.

HEROIC WATCHMAN SAVES 2

Mother and Three Babes Die in Fierce Milwaukee Fire.

FATHER AND SON ESCAPE.

Henry Hagan Battles Against Flames to Pull Them to Safety.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 28.—[Special.]—Death to a mother and three babes, the rescue of the father and son, under circumstances which will probably bring a hero medal to Henry Hagan, the rescuer, were features of an early morning blaze in the roofing plant of Jaeger & Gezelschap early this morning. The family of Julius Krueger lived in a few small rooms at one end of the plant, and when the fire started the highly inflammable material made escape impossible for all but the father and son, who were only saved after they had been overcome by smoke at the door. They slept downstairs, while those who perished occupied the second story bedroom.

The Dead.

MRS. MINNIE KRUEGER, 37 years old.
JULIA KRUEGER, 4 years old.
GILBERT KRUEGER, 2 years old.
ELEANORA KRUEGER, 1 year old.

The Injured.

Julius Krueger, 38 years old.
Edward Krueger, 8 years old.

Watchman Discovers Fire.

The fire was discovered by Henry Hagan, watchman for the Pfister & Vogel company. Hagan had just returned from his rounds when he saw flames creeping around the long frame building, one and one-half stories high, constituting the roofing plant. Turning in an alarm, he ran back to the building, shouting on the way for help for the Krueger family.

Knocking on the door to the entrance to the building, he received no reply, and grabbing a plank nearby, he battered in the door, only to be met by a sweeping cloud of smoke that nearly overcame him.

Rushing for the stairs leading to the second floor, Hagan stumbled over the bodies of Julius Krueger and his oldest son, Edward, the son's hand tightly clasping that of his father. Hagan immediately pulled the father to the open air and returned for the son. Twice he fell over timbers that were falling; twice he regained his feet. When almost at the door the smoke and fumes again overcame him. He sank forward on his knees. Thus, with the boy held closely under him, he lay.

Hurls Boy to Safety.

The boy showed no signs of life. Hagan made a final fierce struggle forward. He gained the fresh air. With a mighty effort he threw the boy out of the burning hall.

Then Hagan's partner, John Hurst, ran into the hall and pulled out Hagan just as the upper floor fell. Hagan was patrolling his beat again half an hour later.

RHODUS BROTHERS APPEAL FOR AID OF STOCKHOLDERS.

Send Out Second Series of Letters Asking Contributions to Defend Them from Federal Prosecution.

In a desperate effort to take the Central Life Securities company out of the hands of a receiver and to block a federal grand jury investigation of their business, the Rhodus brothers have sent out a second series of letters to stockholders of their concern.

This blank circular letter asking for voluntary contributions was received by stockholders in various parts of the country yesterday:

"To Birch F. Rhodus, Old Colony Building, Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sir: To aid you in the fight which you are making in connection with the affairs of the Central Life Securities company, its officers and directors, and in the fight to have the receiver discharged and the affairs of the company placed back in the hands of its directors and stockholders, I enclose you herewith check to the order of Birch F. Rhodus (as an individual and not as president) for $——, being my voluntary contribution (as an individual and not as a stockholder) at the rate of 50 cents a share.

"This money is sent with the understanding that while you may expend it for legal services and in such other ways and for such other purposes as you deem advisable, yet that none of it will be used as compensation for your own services. It is further understood and agreed that if you are successful in your fight and the company assumes these expenses, then I shall have the full amount thereof returned to me, and that a receipt reading to the above effect shall be sent to me by you on receipt of this remittance."

Accompanying this letter was an alleged indorsement of the Salesman's League of America, which is said to have been instrumental in placing a large block of the stock of the Central Life Securities company. This resolution contained twenty-four signatures.

The receivership matter will come up again before Judge Kohlsaat Thursday and Assistant District Attorney S. S. Shirer is arranging to lay the evidence pertaining to the operations of the Securities company and its subsidiary companes—the Mina Grande Mining company, the Mina Grande Gold Mining company, and the Mercantile Trust company—before the federal grand jury tomorrow or the following day.

YOUNG BRIDE WON BY CALEB POWERS?

END OF PRISON ROMANCE.

York, Pa., June 28.—[Special.]—Friends of Miss Eleanor Bonham expect an early announcement of her engagement to Caleb Powers, just pardoned after facing execution for years for alleged complicity in the assassination of Gov. Goebel of Kentucky. Miss Bonham, however, denies she is engaged to him.

The romance began with a school girl's sympathy for Kentucky's political prisoner. Miss Bonham was studying in the college of music at Cincinnati when one of the hundreds of petitions circulated over the country in Powers' behalf reached the school. Her interest was aroused and then her deepest sympathy.

The girl became enthusiastic in the cause of Powers' freedom. At that time he had been tried for the first time. Miss Bonham soon won her mother and sister to her views.

Slips Away to Attend Trial.

She slipped away from Cincinnati to Georgetown, Ky., to attend the Kentuckian's second trial. She did not make herself known to the persecuted prisoner, but listened to the testimony for two or three days, returning to school still more eager to help him.

Miss Bonham did not finish her course at the Cincinnati school, but returned home and the Bonham family soon became interested actively in the effort to free Powers. About two years ago they put in circulation a petition, obtaining signatures of York society folk to an appeal for Powers' release.

Money was raised and ex-Gov. Frank S. Black of New York was engaged to help the cause and to advise Powers' lawyers in his legal appeals and in the next trial.

Introduced in Courtroom.

Then came the third trial and the blossoming of the romance. Miss Bonham left home ostensibly to return to school in Cincinnati. Instead she went to the trial in Kentucky. This time she met Powers. They were introduced in court and became warm friends immediately. When the trial ended with a conviction, Miss Bonham returned home.

There was opened immediately between York and the Kentucky jail a correspondence that resulted in Powers' visit here this week, following his pardon. Powers' identity was not revealed until some one overheard a telephone conversation between him and Miss Bonham. When reporters sought him he was found at the home of Miss Bonham, who lives with her mother, Mrs. R. L. Bonham, and a sister Amy.

OFFICERS EXPLAIN WHY RAIL PLANS IN TENNESSEE FAILED.

Southern and Illinois Central Companies Issue Statement Giving Reasons for Not Taking Advantage of Option.

The following statement has been issued by the executive officers of the Southern and Illinois Central railroads, setting forth the reasons for discontinuing the operation of the Tennessee Central railroad on July 1:

"In 1905 the Southern Railway company and the Illinois Central entered into a contract by which they purchased the prior lien bonds of the Tennessee Central railroad company and obtained an option for three years on the general mortgage bonds of the latter company, the bonds of the Nashville Terminal company, and practically all the capital stock of these companies except that held by counties and municipalities. Pending this option, they have paid interest on these securities in the nature of rent, and have operated the property under an agreement to keep it free from debt. The option expires July 1.

"When they entered into the contracts these companies expected conditions would justify the exercise of the option, and, acting on that belief, they have in every way used their best efforts to develop the business of the properties, and to that end have made valuable permanent improvements.

"Despite these efforts the result of the experience of three years now drawing to a close unfortunately has not justified expectations. The operation has not been remunerative, and has not been such as to warrant the purchase of the securities under the option.

"These companies were anxious, however, to continue the effort to develop the property, and their relation with the city of Nashville if they consistently could do so. They therefore proposed to the owners of the property a plan in detail for a long term lease of the property on a basis which, while involving some immediate sacrifice, would in their opinion ultimately be reasonably fair and profitable to both parties. This plan was, however, declined by the owners of the property.

"The result has been a complete failure of negotiations, so far as concerns the continuance of our existing relations to the properties, so that steps are now being taken to turn them over to their owners in such way as to produce the least inconvenience to the public."

WOMAN AERONAUT NEAR RIVER DEATH

On First Flight She Drops in Stream; Garments Make Her Sink.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, June 28.

Woman Aeronaut Drops in River; Nearly Drowns.

Nearly 10,000 persons watched a woman aeronaut narrowly escape drowning this afternoon in the Passaic river near the spot where a short time ago Fred L. Wood, a young aeronaut, sank to death because he was unable to free himself from an American flag, wrapped around him in his descent.

Mrs. Dorothy Mack, wife of Johnny Mack, a professional aeronaut, was the victim. She is only 19 years old and it was her first flight. She wore her street dress with a belt holding the bottom of her skirts.

The balloon ascended rapidly until it reached a height of 4,000 feet, when it sailed off in a northeasterly direction. Mrs. Mack cut loose then and opened her parachute successfully. She came down in good shape, but the wind carried her over the river.

Although she had on a life belt, her clothes were so heavy she went down twice before Jesse Schurman of Nutley, N. J., swam to her, got hold of her dress, and kept her afloat until a boat reached them.

Thaw to Ask Jury Trial Today.

Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, will appear tomorrow in the Supreme court at White Plains and ask a jury trial and an order to remove him from Matteawan to another asylum until the question of his sanity has been passed on by the jury. As the question of Thaw's right to a jury trial was not raised in the first habeas corpus proceedings a new issue is to be presented in the hearing tomorrow.

Thaw gave out this statement today:

"Before the last writ was served we knew from our alienists that my sanity was perfect and made no adequate preparation for the hearing. The doctor at Matteawan told my lawyers and me that he and Dr. Lamb had watched me carefully and were positive I had not the slightest symptom of paranoia.

"The fact I am well mentally and physically after enduring two long trials and passing nineteen months in the Tombs and three months at Matteawan practically proves my condition is normal."

High Pressure to Conquer Big Fires.

After a test of the new high water pressure mains in West street this morning, Fire Chief Croker said: "The new system is satisfactory in every way. We have more power than we can use. If there ever was danger of a conflagration in New York it is now a thing of the past. With the new mains we would be able to set up a high pressure battery, against which no fire could live."

Part of the new system is ready for use now but it will be several days before it is formally opened for the fire department. The system includes the area between Chambers and Twenty-third streets.

There always will be a gravity pressure of thirty pounds to the square inch in the mains. The fire alarm boxes in the high pressure area are equipped with telephones, and from these the pressure at the power stations will be regulated as the fire department chiefs want it. On the first call they will get an additional pressure of fifty pounds, making a total of eighty, and after that the pressure will run up as desired to 300 pounds at the station.

Chief Croker and other members of the department are working on a valve, by which they hope to be able to regulate the pressure at the hydrant.

Insurance Company Formed to Protect Box Office.

The Shuberts have announced the establishment of a theatrical insurance company that will gamble on any proposition from the life of a star to the complexion of a chorus girl. They say they have insured several stage folks for amounts ranging from $15,000 to $25,000. If an actor fails to show up the managers will get the money, even if the show is stopped.

If a footlight favorite stubs her toe on the way to rehearsal there will be twenty minutes for a new book until the underwriter's adjuster figures on the damage to the house.

The Shuberts say the plan's possibilities are limitless and that they will take risks on everything that might interfere with the steady flow of cash into the box office.

Monk Killed by Fall from Street Car.

Brother Casimir of the Order of Franciscan monks fell from a Flatbush avenue car near Prospect Park this afternoon and was killed. His skull was fractured and his right arm amputated by the car wheels. Brother Casimir was a member of the Franciscan order for sixteen years and was principal of St. Ann's school.

The car was at the top of a hill when Brother Casimir's hat was blown off. He failed to attract the attention of the conductor and decided to leave the car before it stopped. He ducked under a guard rail and jumped. The car was going at high speed and he was thrown on his head and rolled under the rear trucks. Brother Casimir was 34 years old. He was born in Dublin and educated in that city.

Root at Muldoon's; to Take Course Each Year.

Secretary of State Elihu Root is at Muldoon's health institution at White Plains again for a course of ball throwing, hard walking and riding, cold shower baths, and plain cooking. He went there because he obtained so much benefit last year that he and his physician decided a short course each year would be a good thing.

"Secretary Root is comfortable and cheerful, and glad to get back," said Muldoon today. "He's looking five years younger than he did when he came here last year. The length of his stay will depend on the advice of his physician."

EDUCATOR CLAIMS LAURELS FOR TEACHERS' CONVENTION.

Secretary of National Association Says Meeting Is More Important to Country than Big Political Gatherings.

Cleveland, O., June 28.—"Ours is the most important convention held in this country each year, also one of the largest, and I do not make exception of the two great political conventions," Irwin Shepard, secretary of the National Education association, said today. "It is a convention of school teachers, the educators of our country. Their work goes to the root of our civilization, reaches the home, the heart, and mind of our people; it is the foundation, the body, and the bulwark of the nation and of our government."

The forty-sixth annual convention of the association will open here tomorrow morning. In addition to the general sessions there will be many departmental sessions. Speakers of world wide reputation will take part.

A feature is an exhibition of Indian school work under the direction of Miss Estelle Reed of Washington, D. C., superintendent of Indian schools. A class of Indian boys and girls has been brought here for this purpose.

JAMES SCHOOLCRAFT SHERMAN OF CHICAGO

The striking points of similarity between James Schoolcraft Sherman of Chicago and James Schoolcraft Sherman of Utica, N. Y., republican candidate for vice president, were pointed out yesterday by the parents of the Chicago James.

"It's really remarkable," said Mrs. George William Sherman, mother of James II. "They say the other James hasn't so very much hair on the top of his head, and neither has our James. The big James does not smoke, they say, and it is the same with our baby. And both of them are reticent about talking. Could any resemblance be closer?"

A letter written Mr. Sherman in June about his namesake has not brought a response. The father said he feared it had been lost in the mails and that he would send another with a picture of the baby.

INSULTS FLAG; IS BOYCOTTED

EMBLEM USED AS WASHRAG.

Officers' League Says Protests Against the Action Were in Vain.

COLON, June 28.—Because of alleged insults to the American flag, the regular army and navy league has boycotted Muller & Co. and has issued petitions calling upon all loyal Americans in the canal zone to take the same action.

The outrage complained of was the use of the American flag for the purpose of rags in the cleaning of windows. Members of the league and other Americans in Colon had repeatedly requested the firm to cease this insult, but their protests were in vain. Then the officials of Gen. H. W. Lawton Garrison No 40 of the army and navy league issued its boycott proclamation.

Complaint Made in Detail.

The declaration first sets forth the complaint of the union in the following words:

"Muller & Co., Front street, Colon, R. of P., have been using the American flag for the purpose of cleaning their store windows. Repeated efforts have been made by United States citizens and members of the Regular Army and Navy Union of the United States to prevent these outrageous means which they do now and have been employing (to clean windows or anything else) for the last month to the knowledge of this organization. When requested to use something other than the United States flag for this purpose the same was regarded with contempt."

Copies Are Sent Broadcast.

It was followed by this resolution, as adopted by the members of the garrison:

"No member of this organization shall patronize the firm of Muller & Co. of Colon, and, furthermore, we bodily and individually request that all citizens of the United States do likewise in maintaining the honor and dignity of our country against this ignominious action, open contempt, and degradation to the flag of the United States."

Copies of these resolutions were sent to the chairman of the isthmian canal commission, every secret society in the canal zone, the heads of departments, all newspapers in both Colon and Panama, the Canal Record, the managers of all I. C. C. hotels, the secretary of all Y. M. C. A. clubhouses, Burt S. Sturtevant Garrison No. 41, R. A. and N. U., U. S. A., Culebra, C. Z., to Goethals Garrison, A. and N. U., U. S. A., and to the national commander of the Regular Army and Navy union of the United States of America, Washington, D. C.

RECEPTION OF PRESIDENT ATTENDED BY CLUB WOMEN.

Boston, Mass., June 28.—The 3,000 women attending the General Federation of Women's Clubs convention enjoyed a quiet Sunday, an informal reception given by Mrs. Sarah S. Platt Decker being the chief event.

An organ recital was given by B. L. Whelpley at Symphony hall and was followed by a vesper service in charge of Mrs. Mary Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke college.

The delegates now have completed a week of discussion of various topics and for the coming days the chief interest will center in the election of officers, which occurs tomorrow morning.

ROOSEVELTS SPEND QUIET DAY.

President, with Family, Attends Church in Morning, Then Rests in the Afternoon.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 28.—The President and Mrs. Roosevelt and the children today attended the morning services at Christ church, at which Bishop Burgess of Long Island presided. The president spent the remainder of the day quietly at home, his only caller being Fitzhugh Lee, who is attached to the president's yacht Sylph.

U. S. DOMINATES CARIBBEAN SEA.

themselves under the protecting wing of the United States in time of trouble, can see nothing which entails upon them any obligations to this country.

Is Mr. Roosevelt laying plans whereby these countries and all the rest of the independents in that locality will ever have before them a reminder that the United States has interests among them which must be protected? It certainly appears that such is the case.

Powerful Force Available.

In Cuba, about 1,000 miles sail from Caracas, there are between 3,500 and 4,000 American soldiers, fully armed and equipped. These comprise ten battalions of infantry, four squadrons of cavalry, three batteries of field artillery, two companies of engineers, a company of the signal corps, and a company of the hospital corps; in fact the entire garrison which was sent to Cuba a year and a half ago when intervention proceedings were taken.

On the island of Porto Rico is stationed a provisional regiment of infantry, aggregating about 1,000 men.

With the 1,257 officers and men of the marine corps now in Panama, this fighting force of Americans composes a formidable array in which practically all the branches of the service that are necessary to make up a complete army ready for the field are represented. In none of the countries in which these troops are located is there at the present time any great need for them, save in Panama, and even there it has been said by persons who know the situation as regards the elections and the value of armed men from the United States to see that they are carried on fairly that one-fourth the force now there could control things admirably. President Roosevelt himself is reported to have said to a recent caller at the White house that, although the Panama situation was by no means without its dangers both to the canal diggers and the welfare of the Panama nation itself, it meant at the most only the placing of a handful of marines there for a time.

Naval Strength Kept Up.

As regards the additional resources of the United States in the Caribbean at the present time, the battleships Idaho and New Hampshire have left the isthmus, one bound for the north and the other for Cuba. They are fast sailing ships, however, and their usefulness in hastily transporting fresh detachments of marines and soldiers to the southward cannot be overestimated. With these two men of war, aggregating 29,000 tons displacement, there are at Colon today the Prairie and the Tacoma, two small vessels, but which are well fitted to ply in the waters of Central and South America. At Guantanamo, Cuba, lie the Des Moines, a protected cruiser of 3,200 tons displacement, and the Paducah, a gunboat of 1,100 tons. The Marietta, another of the 1,000 ton gunboats, is regularly stationed in those waters. It is at present nearing Guantanamo with Jacob Sleeper, the American chargé at Caracas, aboard. There is apparently no intention of allowing this vessel to leave the locality at present, as was made apparent by the order for Mr. Sleeper to disembark at Guantanamo and make his way back to the United States as best he could by passenger steamer.

Across the isthmus and guarding the western terminus of the canal route lies the Albany, one of the 3,500 ton vessels of the navy, with upwards of 200 men aboard of it.

Menace to Venezuela.

Outside of Porto Rico, Panama is the closest point to the Venezuelan seaports where armed forces could be sent and have as their apparent mission the attention to American interests. Colon is but a trifle over 800 miles from La Guayra, the seaport of Caracas, and Castro cannot help but regard a too large gathering of forces in that locality as somewhat of a menace to his country, if he regards anything at all as a menace.

CHINA'S RULER MAKES HISTORY.

Emperor Orders All Important Affairs of Present Government Placed in 647 Volumes.

PEKING, June 28.—The throne has ordered the compilation of a history of the reign of Kuang Hsu, the present emperor, to include all the important affairs of the government that have occurred in the entire dynasty. The work contains 221,100 pages and is bound in 647 volumes and was seven months in preparation.

AMERICANS FLEE MEXICAN VILLAGE

TROOPS FIGHT RAIDERS.

Sharp Battle Reported Near Las Vacas, Railroad Tracks Torn Up, and Wires Cut.

El Paso, Tex., June 28.—It is reported that the revolutionists have occupied Matamoras, Coahuila, about fifteen miles from Torreon, and that Americans are sending their families away from there as rapidly as possible.

Gen. José Villar, commander of the military zone for northern Mexico, with a large body of troops marching overland to Las Vacas, had a sharp battle with revolutionists today. A number were killed on both sides. The revolutionists retreated and are said to be moving towards Torreon, where 1,500 regular troops arrived tonight.

Railroad Tracks Torn Up.

Bands of revolutionists have torn up the tracks of the Mexican International railroad and cut the telegraph wires at places btween Torreon and Jaral.

Federal troops are passing through Torreon by the train load on their way to points in the vicinity of Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, where the situation is said to be worse than around Torreon. There are already two full regiments of troops operating in the vicinity of Torreon. Another regiment is scattered along the river between Ciudad Porfirio Diaz and Las Vacas.

Newspaper Man Attacked.

Edward E. O'Reilly, a San Antonio newspaper man who left there Saturday to report the revolution in Mexico, was shot in the arm and his Mexican guide killed by the revolutionists. O'Reilly and his guide crossed the Rio Grande a half mile above San Antonio. They unexpectedly ran into a party of revolutionists, who promptly opened fire. The Mexican guide was killed, but O'Reilly, although shot in the arm, managed to cross the river again and came into Del Rio. He is not dangerously hurt.

Full reports received here from newspaper men who crossed into Mexico at the risk of their lives today to investigate the uprising at Las Vacas, near Del Rio, Tex., state that nine Mexican soldiers and twelve insurgents were killed, and about sixty were wounded in the attack on Las Vacas.

Details of Las Vacas Raid.

The raid was led by Gen. Longoro, Capt. Canales, and Capt. Encarnation Diaz. The main battle was fought around the custom house at Las Vacas and both Capt. Canales and Capt. Diaz were killed near that building. The body of Tomas Cantu, a revolutionist, was also found there. The wife of Señor H. Garcia, a Mexican millionaire, was shot through the mouth and is in a serious condition. Two hundred Mexican soldiers arrived at Las Vacas from Ciudad Porfirio Diaz this afternoon and are in close pursuit of the insurgent band now fleeing into the mountains to the northwest. A few shots have been exchanged. It is claimed the attack on the town was precipitated by Mexicans who crossed from Texas.

Rebels Hold Up Train.

Information brought here tonight by passengers on the incoming Mexican Central train is that all bridges and approaches to Torreon on every road except the Mexican Central have been burned.

The International line out of Torreon, on which is located the town of Matamoras, reported to be in the hands of revolutionists, has suffered heavily, and the Coahuila and Pacific railway is entirely tied up as the result of depredations committed by revolutionists.

A train on the Coahuila and Pacific was attacked Friday night soon after leaving Torreon, but the crew succeeded in running the train back to Torreon and escaping.

There is a general movement of troops from Mexico City to the north, according to news received here, and reinforcements are being rushed to Jiminez, which is said to be still in the hands of revolutionists.

Three companies of the Seventh regiment stationed in Saltillo, Mex., under command of Maj. Cervantes, were ordered to Viesca, where, according to meager reports received, an attack was made upon the residence of Mayor Thomas Zertuche, several persons being killed. The family of Señor Zertuche is reported to have escaped.

Ambassador Ordered to Washington.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 28.—Ambassador Enrique C. Creel has been directed to proceed to Washington immediately. This sudden change in the plans of the ambassador, who had received a long leave of absence from his government with the intention of spending a number of months in his home state of Chihuahua, was occasioned by the state of unrest and recent raids in northern Mexico.

Minister of Foreign Affairs Mariscal said that every Mexican involved in the recent raids was subject to extradition as a common criminal, inasmuch as the acts of violence committed by them were not directed by any revolutionary movement organized on Mexican soil.

Mexico will ask that certain of the ringleaders who may be captured on United States soil be tried by the courts of that nation for a violation of the neutrality laws.

PANAMA CITY ELECTIONS QUIET

OBALDIA PARTY WINNER.

Presidential Candidate Conceded Victory by Yesterday's Showing.

COLON, Panama, June 28.—Gen. Obaldia's candidates carried today's municipal elections here by a majority of 94 votes. The total vote cast was 582. Throughout the day order prevailed. The government party is downcast by the result.

Balloting in the municipal elections throughout the isthmus was concluded at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

A big majority was also given the ticket at Panama supported by Gen. Obaldia, who is a candidate for the presidency of the republic in the elections that will take place next month. Returns from Arraijan, Taboga, and Chame, the only points from which advices have been received, show the ticket of Obaldia also won there. Reports from several of the provinces say that disturbances occurred, but they were not serious.

Obaldia's Party Favored.

Though the municipal elections today were unimportant, Obaldia's triumph in the capital is regarded as evidence of his popularity.

United States marines were ashore in the canal zone to protect property of the American government, but no trouble developed. The battleships Idaho and New Hampshire left the roadstead yesterday, the former for Cuba and the latter for New York. The auxiliary cruiser Prairie is still at pier No. 11 and the commander of the marines aboard was prepared instantly to land a large force if necessity should arise. The cruiser Tacoma is in the harbor.

As an additional precaution all the docks and the railroad tracks in this vicinity were kept clear today and fire hose was distributed throughout the vicinity. A strict guard was also maintained over all buildings belonging to the United States.

Few Protests Made.

The balloting began as 8 o'clock this morning and ended at 4 p. m. Occasionally during the day there were loud protests from the crowd against alleged illegal voting. W. A. Martin and Paul Kuttke, two Americans, watched the proceedings at two of the polling places here.

Throughout the day the streets in the vicinity of the polling places were crowded with people, who were brought from various parts of the city in carriages decorated with flags. Every train from the canal zone also brought citizens to vote. The party that wins the municipal election probably will be victorious in the balloting for presidential electors, which is to be held on July 12.

BURGLAR WAKES HIS VICTIM TO ASK WAY OUT OF HOUSE.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 28.—[Special.]—James H. Finnigan, a commission merchant, was awakened early this morning by a big burglar, who stood over him with a revolver leveled at his head.

"Now don't be frightened," said the burglar. "You see, it's this way. When I came in here I forgot to leave the door open, and there's so blamed many doors in this old shack of yours I simply can't find the one that leads to the street. Would you oblige me by escorting me to the door?"

Finnigan looked at the thief, whose pockets were bulging out with valuables, and then looked again down the barrel of the revolver.

"It's no use," continued the intruder. "I've got the dead wood on you and you might just as well be a good fellow."

Finnigan got out of bed and told the burglar to go ahead and he would follow.

"O, I couldn't think of that, old man. After you," said the thief.

Finnigan started downstairs gingerly, and every time he glanced back over his shoulder he found the gun still on the job. When he opened the front door the robber quickly slipped past him, bade him a hurried farewell, and disappeared.

ROMEO AT JULIET'S WINDOW KILLED BY GIRL'S BROTHER.

Shakspearean Revival in Real Life Near Missouri Town—Slayer Says He Thought Victim Was a Burglar.

Huntsville, Mo., June 28.—Thomas J. Bagby was shot and killed near here last night when, like Romeo of old, he clung to a rope ladder and talked to his sweetheart, Nellie Carter, 17 years old, the daughter of a Randolph county farmer.

E. J. Carter Jr., the girl's brother, admits the shooting, but declares he thought Bagby a burglar. The Carters and Bagbys are neighbors. They were friendly until young Bagby began to pay court to Miss Carter. Bagby was forbidden to see her.

Through friends the young couple arranged a meeting, he to call at her window after the family had retired. Bagby had just mounted the ladder when her brother awakened, seized his shotgun, and ran outside. He saw a man's form in the vines and fired.

$80. Clothes with $3.50 Shoes?

There still are men—who are prominent in business because they are masterful in the gauging of values—who persist in wearing eighty dollar suits and three-and-a-half or four dollar shoes.

But knowledge of our store and OUR SHOES is gradually and surely reducing the number of men who practice this illogical "economy."

We ask no more of any man than the opportunity to sell him his FIRST PAIR of Martin & Martin shoes.

If things go wrong at Denver, as they may, democratic posterity will regard Mr. Roger Sullivan as the ancient mariner who shot the political albatross.

It is becoming exceedingly difficult for South Water street to conceal the fact that Michigan has a great fruit crop this year.

It will not be necessary for the Denver convention, as a whole, to devote any of its time to viewing with alarm. Senator Henry M. Teller is capable of attending to all that part of the work himself.

USING THE HOUSETOPS.

One who rides along the elevated roads often sees the possibilities in the use of housetops. The flat roof makes a convenient place for hanging out the clothes. In hot weather it sometimes serves as a resting place at night for the weary tenement dweller. But here and there some sensible soul makes it useful as individual park and playground or finds a summer outing place of a limited sort within the narrow confines of a twenty-five foot front lot.

A little bridge may connect the back porch with the flat roof of a stable or garage. A quickly growing vine is trained over a trellis. A box or two of flowers adds an element of comfort and beauty, until the passing stranger learns to take pleasure in the sight of the cheaply secured comfort afforded by the practical thought of the house dweller.

A correspondent of THE TRIBUNE who looked out recently from the back windows of a hospital noticed a good many flat roofs on buildings, high and low, the most of which were unused for any purpose. She thought of the lovely roof gardens of Italy. She remembered the many sufferers from tuberculosis whose lives might be spared if they were to have the benefit of plenty of fresh air. No doubt she thought of the sleeping porches now so common in homes of comfort. The result of the thoughts was a suggestion.

Can the housetops be utilized for the benefit of the people? Can tuberculosis wards be established on many of them for the help of hundreds of sufferers to whom the country outing is impossible? Can lives be saved and happiness be insured to many who look forward day by day to despair and hopelessness?

Organization and money might accomplish much in this direction. The outlay in individual cases would be small. The results might be surprising. The voice from the hospital window is worth listening to. It comes from one with a sympathetic heart. It may have a suggestion of value to a community filled with people who are planning good things all the time for the welfare of their fellows.

MR. TAFT AND THE NEGROES.

> In the last analysis the negro vote will go to Mr. Taft because the negroes will realize in the campaign they have nothing to expect from the democratic party. With the democratic convention made up in large part of southern representatives of the Tillman-Vardaman type, it will be impossible for the negro to get anything. If he is to get anything he will have to look to the republican party and he will naturally vote for the republican candidate.—Booker T. Washington.

The common sense of the view point here expressed by Mr. Washington is so obvious that comment would be unjustifiable if the negroes of Chicago had not recently been treated to a good deal of rant against Mr. Taft coupled with oratorical threats that the negro vote would bolt the republican ticket rather than go to him. As THE TRIBUNE remarked when these platform outbreaks occurred, they were largely the result of an egoism inflamed by a little brief notoriety.

There is a group of leaders among the negroes of the violently radical and irrationally idealistic variety. These men may be borne with because their intentions are good if their social and political wisdom is doubtful. But the political boss among the negroes who is disposed to trade upon prejudice for his own profit to his people's hurt should be suppressed.

There is no alternative in the mind of any intelligent negro to voting the republican ticket. Even if the attacks upon Mr. Taft were not unfounded and unjust, even if it could honestly be charged against him that he is inimical to the true interests and political and social rights of the negro, which he is not, the negro would only injure his own cause by going over to the democracy of Tillman, Bailey, and Vardaman.

AS TO THE PUBLICITY DEPARTMENT

Whatever the value of the department of publicity proposed by Ald. Foreman, and there is much to commend the idea provided the department is properly organized, one provision calls for amendment. To fix the salary of the head of such a department at $10,000 would be worse than excessive. It would be scandalous.

Even if the position were filled by such a man as Prof. Merriam, as the duties of the department require, the sum would be out of all proportion to the necessities of the case. A salary of $5,000 is paid to comparatively few college professors, and experts in the work of municipal research and organization, one of whom should be selected as head of the new department if it is not to be discredited as a mere political job, would be amply compensated at that figure.

A SMOKELESS SERVICE.

Chicago railroads are reported to be interested in a new smoke preventing device which, it is claimed, will do away entirely with noxious fumes. With complete combustion secured the smoke nuisance will vanish. The Illinois Central, the St. Paul, and the Rock Island are said to be planning experiments with this invention by a practical engineer.

The intelligent reader of current news will wonder why time and expense are given to such experiments when the trend of the age is toward electricity. The noisy and dirty steam engines must go so far as the traffic within the city limits is concerned. The only possible excuse to be made by the roads is on the basis of expense. And, so far as the figures go, they seem to show the economy of the newer method.

The Scientific American gives some statistics from a paper read by Mr. W. S. Murray at a recent meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. They confirm and strengthen the testimony furnished by Mr. W. J. Wilgus to those present at a meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers and commented upon by THE TRIBUNE editorially on May 10. Electrification pays when tried.

In this paper it is shown that to haul the express, local, and freight trains of the New York division of the New Haven railroad involves the consumption of 57,000, 58,000, and 188,000 tons of coal respectively. When the whole division is operated electrically the amount of coal burned at the power station for the respective classes of service will be 30,000, 28,000, and 139,000 tons.

In like manner the figures of cost and repairs of twenty steam freight and passenger locomotives on the New Haven road were given. They showed an expense of 8.1 cents per locomotive mile for freight engines and 5.6 cents for passenger ones. The total mileage of the locomotives per year is easily ascertained and therefore the total expense for maintenance and repairs of locomotive service. The figures are placed at $316,962 per annum. Available figures for electric locomotive repairs show 2 cents per locomotive mile. Counting the same number of miles and the same number of engines the total expense would show a saving of $196,038 per annum.

In other words, experimentation in the east has proved that electrification pays both in a great saving in the cost of the coal used and in the cost of maintenance and repairs. If it pays in the neighborhood of New York it will pay in Chicago. It is electrification, not improved smoke consuming devices, that Chicago wants the railroads to experiment with.

PRIMARY EXPENSES.

The Milwaukee Sentinel tells what the campaign which preceded this year's direct primary in that city cost the men who sought and failed to get mayoralty nominations. One of them paid out $7,900, another $3,200, and another $2,400. These figures are not guesses, but are the official statements of the candidates, who certainly would not exaggerate their expenditures. There is no charge that any of the disbursements were illegitimate. They represent simply the legitimate efforts of three defeated candidates to acquaint the party voters with the fact that they wished to be recognized at the primaries.

There is in these figures food for thought for the men who intend to make a serious contest for nominations to Cook county offices at the August direct primaries. This is a much larger city than Milwaukee. There are more voters of each party to be reached by a candidate who wishes to make a good showing. He will have to put out much literature to familiarize the voters with his name and claims, and the bill will not be a small one. The Milwaukee figures are calculated to discourage some prospective candidates.

In the light of these figures one can understand the advantage that will be enjoyed by the men whose names may be on a ticket recommended to the voters at the primaries by a party organization. Those men will pool their issues and their purses. They will contribute to a common fund for the expenses of the anteprimary campaign, and it will cost each one of them much less than if he went it alone.

Manifestly if candidates who are not on an organization slate wish to make any headway they will have to combine, each of them working for the others as well as for himself. Then it would be a fight between two tickets.

A REPUDIATED CITIZEN.

Abram Moses has been repudiated by the United States. He is of the type that is not wanted by this country. He does not live in the United States, and has not done so since 1892. That was the year he was naturalized. As soon as he received the coveted papers he left for Pretoria, South Africa. He is down there now. He is in trouble, too, and has asked the protection of the government to which he took the oath of allegiance sixteen years ago.

But the United States has had its eye upon that class of alleged citizens for a long time. Instead of going to the relief of this ardent "American" who has been using his citizenship as a protection while he has been living in Africa, the United States district attorney at Wilkesbarre has begun proceedings in court to have the naturalization papers canceled.

Things are changing in the naturalization line. The old fashioned asylum theory is not so popular as it once was. Some unworthy folks took advantage of it. They found a strong feeling in favor of the right of expatriation. That carried with it the determination to protect the new citizen from the first moment of Americanization. The temptation was strong, therefore, to migrate to the "land of liberty," get naturalized as soon as possible, and then go back whence they came or go somewhere else and claim the privileges of American citizenship and the protection of the stars and stripes.

Incidentally such citizens have declined to respect the customs and laws of the land of residence. As a result the United States government has had a large amount of trouble in settling difficulties caused by this type of Americans all over the world. But the jig is up. The citizen for commercial purposes is finding a rocky road to travel nowadays.

The asylum is still here. Every individual of good character who honestly seeks home and opportunity under the laws and in the land of the United States is welcomed. This country has grown great partly because of the rich streams which have flowed from the nations of Europe. But the commercial variety of citizen is not wanted. He has never wanted a home in America. He has never intended to give his life and his strength to the land of his adoption. It has been a business scheme. Uncle Sam was slow in his decision to stop that sort of thing. But he is in earnest now. The case of Abram Moses is typical.

THE VOICE AND THE VOTERS.

[From the Minneapolis Journal.]

Like a voice crying in the wilderness has Richard Yates, candidate for nomination as governor of Illinois, descended upon Chicago—that is, Richard Yates' voice has. Issuing from the brass horn of a phonograph, the round, mellow, and persuasive voice of Mr. Yates first arrests the attention of the passerby, and then enchains his admiration, with the final result that he makes up his mind to go to the primaries and vote for the owner of the voice. Ever and anon, a watchful individual in shirtsleeves approaches the canned Yates eloquence and winds it up again. Lo! his master's voice issuing again from the brass horn persuasively.

This is certainly the ultimate in campaigning—unless to it be added a kinetoscopic panorama of Yates in the act of letting his voice go. With a sufficiently large battery of phonographs and moving picture machines, Mr. Yates might so occupy and dominate Chicago that the stricken city would capitulate and agree on terms of surrender, whereby he would receive the united support of the Cook county delegation.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

Fools build houses; lunatics enlarge and improve them.

What is a square meal for a woman wouldn't make a free lunch with a glass of beer for a man in a barroom.

When a man can tell the truth to his wife about where he spent the evening it's because he staid home with her.

People would like to save money by not using it on things that are worth while, so as to be able to spend it on things that are not worth while.—New York Press.

LORD ALVERSTONE, lord chief justice of England, who will sail this week for the United States to attend the meeting of the American Bar association at Seattle in August, is almost as well known in this country as he is in the united kingdom, though to many friends in America he is more familiar by his former name of Sir Richard Webster.

It was as such he figured as chairman of the British commission to the Chicago world's fair, and likewise as member of the Bering sea and Venezuela boundary arbitration commissions. He frequently has been on this side of the Atlantic, is acquainted with many leading men of the United States, and may be said to have had even domestic ties with America, through the marriage of his only son, now dead, to the daughter of Sir Francis and Lady Evans, the latter a daughter of Samuel Stevens, former attorney general of New York.

While at the bar "Dick" Webster had the reputation of enjoying its most lucrative practice and the greatest personal popularity, the latter being largely due to his even temper, unruffled under trying circumstances.

This in turn resulted, perhaps, from his health, which he preserves by abstemiousness alike in food and drink, and by keeping up physical exercises, which won for him when at the university the championship of several different branches of sport.

It is difficult, by looking at Lord Alverstone's massive figure, with its sixteen stone of flesh and muscle, to realize he was in the early sixties the champion runner, and the maker of all sorts of athletic records at Cambridge.

He is musically inclined, is an accomplished organist, and is never so happy as when seated at the splendid organ in the large hall at Winterfold, his beautiful place in Sussex.

He is fond of shooting, renting a forest each year for deer stalking in Scotland, where he is known to the neighboring lairds, all of whom have territorial titles, as "Pump Court," the latter being a spot in the London Inns of Court familiar to every member of the bar.

Those who recall the silvery eloquence of the former lord chief justice of England, the late Lord Russell of Killoween, at the meeting of the American Bar association at Saratoga Springs in 1886, need not look for anything of the kind from Lord Alverstone.

The latter, though an able lawyer, is not an orator, nor can he be said to sparkle with wit. He suggests the prelate rather than the jurist.

His voice is heavy and inflexible, but savors of the music of the brazen vessels in the rubric of the church. It is usually pitched in a high key, and may be said to be in keeping with the sacerdotal bearing of the whilom "Dickie" Webster.

Possessed of a kind heart, his manner is at first misleading. For there is a certain austerity of voice and a supercilious elevation of the eyebrows on first acquaintance not inviting, but the effect of which disappears when he can be induced to sing a comic song, at which he is an adept.

Sir Merrik Burrell, who last year obtained a divorce from the English courts against his wife, Wilhelmina, daughter of Walter Winans, is about to marry again.

His engagement has been announced to Miss Coralie Porter, an Irish girl, daughter of John Porter Porter of Belleisle, County Fermanagh, by Lisnaskea. The Porters trace their origin to a famous bishop of Clogher, and are allied by marriage to many of the old houses of Erin's aristocracy.

Sir Merrik is a scion of one of the oldest houses in Europe. True, his baronetcy is of relatively modern creation, dating only from 1774. But the Burrells are a historic family, who claim descent from Burrell, a Goth, who flourished in Barcelona in the ninth century.

John Burrell, a direct ancestor, is on record as having fitted out a ship and equipped a company of archers for his king in 1414. Randolph Burrell, another direct ancestor of Sir Merrik, married the only daughter and heiress of Sir Walter Wodeland, who bore Edward the Black Prince's banner at the battle of Poictiers. The baronetcy was conferred upon a Merrik Burrell, governor of the Bank of England.

The present baronet served as an officer of the First Dragoons, went through the Boer campaign, and almost lost his life three years ago through the burning of Knepp castle, his place in Sussex, near Horsham.

Knepp castle was one of the feudal fortresses built by the Braosi family to defend the "rapes" of Sussex, and King John of evil memory often staid there, a number of official documents bearing his signature being preserved at the office of records and in the British museum, dated from "Apud Cnapp."

In the fire Sir Merrik lost many of the art treasures of his house, including a magnificent collection of pictures, and notably eight fine Holbeins.

Sir Merrik is so rich in his own right that financial considerations cannot have weighed heavily in his suit for the hand of Miss Wilhelmina Winans, and the allowance of $15,000 a year the couple received from her father is understood to have been used by her as pin money.

I believe she is now married to Capt. King, a former brother officer of Sir Merrik in the First Dragoons, who was corespondent in the divorce case.

Sir Merrik's mother was a daughter of Sir Robert Loder, who left $30,000,000. She received a large share of this fortune, which has gone to her son.

Sir Merrik represents the senior branch of the Burrell family. A junior line holds the peerage of Gwydyr. Lord Gwydyr is 98 years old. He enjoys the unique distinction of being the only person living who was present at the coronation of four English monarchs.

When a boy of 10 he went from the gardens of Gwydyr house, Whitehall, to the speaker's steps at Westminster in his grandfather's state barge, manned by liveried oarsmen, and was present in Westminster abbey when the crown was placed on the head of George IV., acting as page of honor to his grandfather, the first Lord Gwydyr.

◆

He witnessed on the occasion of the coronation banquet of George IV. in Westminster hall the last appearance of the royal champion who, in accordance with tradition, rode into the great hall, arrayed in steel armor, to fling his gauntlet on the floor before the table at which the king was seated and challenged to mortal combat all who dared dispute the monarch's right to the throne.

This picturesque ceremony was omitted at the coronations of William IV., Queen Victoria, and Edward VII., at all of which Lord Gwydyr was present.

In spite of his great age he is still able to move about, and to occasionally visit the house of lords, of which he is certainly the oldest member. His mind and memory remain clear.

NOTES FROM MICHIGAN.

The Rev. H. W. Hicks has preached for fifty years in the Methodist church at Carleton.

Out of eighty-three Michigan counties fifty-eight nominate their officials by direct vote.

Munising has but nineteen saloons and cannot have more till the population reaches 10,000.

George S. Gillespie, an appointee of Representative Fordney, has passed his finals for Annapolis.

In the upper peninsula they have petitioned that the deer season open Oct. 10 and last only twenty days.

Sturgeon weighing from fifty-eight to eighty-five pounds were trapped at the dam in Stevenson last week.

Miss Abbie Longyear of Marquette, a millionairess, is to go on the stage. She has studied singing in Italy, Paris, and Germany.

George Mamagona, an Indian boy, has finished five years in the Elk Rapids High school without missing a day, or being late. His home is six miles from school, and he walked all the way. He carried off all the class honors, and his oration, "Higher Ideals in Public Life," took the prize.

ARLES.

Dear Silvia:

"King René's Chimney," as the sun is called by the peasants in the neighborhood of Tarascon, was hot today, with all the torrid heat of summer in Basse Provence. I spread my palms to this blaze on the good king's hearth, however, grateful for the hospitality which memories of his time, still dwelling in his ancient habitation, accorded me, a stranger, from a far off, brand new land. For Tarascon belongs historically to Margaret of Anjou's royal father instead of to the modern worthy whom we know by its name, the intrepid Tartarin.

The little town itself is cheerful. It lies beside a yellow river, and its old château has lights of gray and gold upon it, like the fame of its painter king, while across the water frowns the castle of Beaucaire, as if the hallowing touch of time had failed to change its enmity. Two toothless hounds of war, in a leash that they no longer need in their decrepitude, the castles face each other, while the sluggish river flows between. Or maybe we should liken them to the tarasques, or eponymic dragons, for whom the town is named, in memory of the monster whom St. Martha tamed by prayer and led along by means of her slight neck ribbon.

Both the dragon and King René have left relics. The former is in the church, in a cardboard semblance, a figure covered with red and yellow scales and having a horrid human looking head. The latter is the yellow castle of the king, where art and learning flourished, and wherein in olden days were gorgeous spectacles, and tournaments, and lawn fêtes at which the guests were dressed like shepherds, knights and ladies, literati, artists, troubadours, and minstrels, a sparkling company. Even now these bright associations give the place a charm of warmth and color and of distant music.

Quite a contrast this with the "pretty little villa in a local style, with a front garden and a balcony behind, the walls glaring white, and the Venetians green; and always about the door steps a brood of little Savoyard shoe blackguards playing hopscotch or dozing in the broad sunshine, with their heads pillowed on their boxes," the stage setting of Daudet's little drama of modern Tarascon. Yet after all it is for Tartarin that we best love the place—Tartarin the heroic, Tartarin the inimitable.

From the middle ages back to Roman days, such is the course I took when I went on to Arles from Tarascon. For nowhere in the world outside of the Eternal city are there such fine Roman monuments as are extant in Arles. In the olden times the amphitheater of Arles stood second to the Coliseum, and even now, in spite of the ravages which the Saracens wrought during the middle ages in tearing down great stretches of wall in order to obtain building materials for their towers, the structure remains impressive. Certainly the present owes a debt of gratitude to the great Napoleon, who had the amphitheater, as well as that at Nimes, cleared of the houses and various obstructions of the passages which had been built in the troubled years of religious wars and neighborhood jealousies when the amphitheater was in itself a fortress city.

Throughout the vicissitudes of time Arles has always had peculiar claim to distinction. Lying thirty miles from the Mediterranean, where the Rhone, as Dante says, "widens out and becomes stagnant," it early gained commercial importance, the more easily because up to the time when the big stone bridge was built at Avignon, in accordance with the vision of St. Bénézet, Arles' rude wooden bridge offered the only means of crossing the Rhone. Consequently in its streets all nations met and it became an important center. "The little Gallic Rome" it was called in the days of Julius Cæsar. With its 100,000 inhabitants it became a rival of Marseilles. And later, when Nimes surpassed it, it was still distinguished for its "council," a general congress of the Catholic church, which was four times held within its borders—in 314, 354, 452, 475 A. D., intervals which seem short enough when one looks back to them, but which would seem long were one to look ahead.

Gradually it came to possess a new and picturesque, if grewsome, rôle in the drama enacted in southern France. Richer in dead and sepulchers than in treasure, it was called the "Necropolis of Gaul," and also "The Port of Coffins," because its Aliscamps, or Elysian Fields, attained so wide a reputation as a final happy resting place that the rapid Rhone bore to the sacred spot for burial in the famous Street of Tombs many a pitch covered casket, sealed, and with a coin for toll.

Burgundy, whose capital Arles once was, has passed away. Lyons early stole from the city the primacy of Gaul. Only one-fifth of its former inhabitants remain, but even now, in the days of its material poverty, it has a boast to flourish to the world—the beauty of its women.

* * *

The Arlesian woman certainly is beautiful. You surely will not mind my saying so, for you it was that trained my eye to the gentle charm of womanliness, without which fairness in a woman's face seems to me but a mockery. It is this inner grace, this natural nobility, affecting brow and bearing, which makes the girl of Arles the truly lovely creature that she is and causes her to merit the encomiums of the Provençal Theocritus, Mistral.

O sweet and dusky city,
Thy crowning marvel this:
The heavens, O fertile land of Arles,
Gave to thy maidens beauty as grapes to the autumn,
Sweet odors to the mountains, and wings to the bird.

Broad browed, deep bosomed, dignified in bearing, vivacious in her manner, she exemplifies the classic standard, on the one hand that of Cæsar's wife and the mother of the Gracchi, and on the other that of the enchanting Lydias the Phyrras, and the Llages whom Horace toasted in Sabine wine.

Her costume is part of her charm undoubtedly. She puts her clothes on carefully, with every fold just right, and every pin just where it should be. Her best dress, which she wears on feast days and on Sundays, is finer than her everyday attire, but no more picturesque. A delicate white fichu, crossing on her bosom, is fastened to her black dress by a massive golden brooch, which, like her pendent earrings, is an heirloom. A narrow muslin apron reaches to her short skirt's hem. The ribbon which binds her hair stands out from her head in two stiff knots. Perhaps you have seen this garb in photographs of Cot's painting of "Mireio," which is in the Luxembourg.

The troubadours wrote verses to the maid of Arles. Mistral has made her one of the loftiest ideal types in literature, portraying her in "Mireio" as a girl who refused to wed contrary to her heart, as her parents commanded, insisting upon keeping faith with the humble lover of her choice with a devotion that resulted in her early death.

The old arena gains in interest because she graces it on festal days, attending Sunday bull fights. The Street of Tombs is more attractive because it is her evening promenade than because Dante wrote of it. The celebrated cloisters of St. Trophime are fairer now that her face may sometimes be seen peeping from out its unglazed galleries into its sunny garden than it was when only slow monkish feet made melancholy music on the pavement. She is the sad old city's vivifying spirit, the real bond between the unseen past and the unseen future. Like an undefaced coin of imperial gold she bears Cæsar's image and superscription, and there among the ruins startles the chance visitor from the modern world with her revelation of the classic beauty of imperial Rome.

After all, it is womanly loveliness which binds the history of the world into a single volume of romance. The beauty of yesterday and today is one and the same, and the girdle of Venus encircles the world. And it is you, my Silvia, who taught me this, who made me truly heir of all the ages. Through love my eyes have opened to new visions, through love my tongue has learned new speech of praise.

Paper is scanty and my candle is sputtering in its socket. 'Tis a pleasant way of passing the time—this writing to you. Or so it seems until I find instead that time has passed me. The hour is late. The maids and men who have been dancing the farandole beneath my window are going home. The music and their laughter have intermingled with my thoughts of you, but neither to disturb nor interrupt, for here in the shadows, in the quiet of my heart, I am alone with Silvia—we two are alone in all the world. Devotedly, HUGH.

Another View of "Divorce Perils."

Sigourney, Ia., June 27.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—THE TRIBUNE recently contained an interview with Mrs. Taft on what is erroneously termed the "divorce evil," but which is not an "evil," but an attempt to correct evil of certain kinds, and the best that thus far has been discovered for the correction or mitigation of said real evils.

She says "The devotion of my husband, the love of my children, are dearer to me than any other thing in life." What a fine thing for her that she is so charmingly situated! Not a particle of danger of divorce entering such a home as that. Such homes are the real "corner stones" of our nation. But suppose her husband had turned out to be a drunken scoundrel instead, whose home coming she would await with trembling every evening. Would her experience and insight into this question have led her to a different conclusion?

On the other hand, if so good and amiable a husband and father as Mr. Taft is had found himself tied to a virago as fierce as we all well know they exist in various disguises, so that life itself would have been a burden, would the lady still insist on "stopping divorce entirely"?

She further states: "Many persons marry with the thought in mind that they can easily slip out of the matrimonial knot." This is an error. The rule is (I might say universal rule) that people enter the marriage state in good faith and have no more thought of a possible divorce proceeding than the distinguished secretary and his lady had, but some of them find to their bitter disappointment in later years that they were in error, perhaps error due in part to youthful inexperience. Would Mrs. Taft set herself resolutely in the way and prevent the only means in the world to rectify even in part errors of youth or inexperience?

Negroes and the Republican Party.

Chicago, June 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Allow me to add my mite in your columns in the hope that it may be the means to an end of allaying the fears and misconceptions now prevalent among a few disgruntled negro politicians on their relations, loyalty, and fealty to the party of parties, the G. O. P.

The negroes, as a people, have much to be thankful for to the republican party and no other. All the recognition they have received has been through the grand old party. The democratic party, the independents, the socialists, and all parties other than republicans have made no attempt to take their colored brother by the hand and help to lift him up above his present environments, political or otherwise, but have made it a point to place on the lecture platform and keep in public office, day in and year out, such harbingers of false and malicious untruths to thwart negro justice as Ben Tillman, John Temple Graves, Vardaman, and other lesser lights too numerous to mention. The negro, on general principles, should shun any political party that honors the names of such men.

I have had the pleasure of reading Secretary Taft's numerous speeches pertaining to negro education, and see nothing in them for people with common judgment to take offense at, despite those unseated delegates to the national convention, fostered by Buckner Scott of Boston and other Foraker soreheads.

Roosevelt and Taft are as real in friendship for the negro as any white man can be, and I confidently believe that Foraker and a few other pretenders are playing with the negro as a means to a disastrous end. We negroes know that John C. Buckner is a political "has been," and so is this fellow Scott of Boston.

No matter what political capital some negroes try to make of the Brownsville affair, Roosevelt and Taft should be given the benefit of the doubt. The president sent commission after commission to investigate and report circumstances connected with that deplorable affair, and on the reports and findings of these men the president and the secretary acted. They did their duty in the premises not merely as a punishment to the companies concerned but as a lesson for future guidance to the army. I believe that had a white company been guilty of such an offense the same punishment would have been meted out, and if any blame be attached it is up to the soldiers and the commissions, not Roosevelt or Taft. The negroes should thank their God that Bryan and the democratic party were not in power at the time, as I fear those companies would now be serving life sentences at Leavenworth or perhaps be castaways on some small island adjacent to the Philippines. Roosevelt has courted southern hospitality, which has not materially interfered with negro progress, and Taft, no doubt, has made speeches that a few negroes disliked, and so has Booker Washington. But, all in all, they were made to benefit rather than injure the negroes.

Roosevelt has done more to uplift the negro than any president since Lincoln. The republican party has done more and will ever do more for the negro than any party ever organized. No man with a tinge of African blood should vote or have anything to do with the democratic ticket, in view of the fact that the many atrocities perpetrated upon the negro as a people and individuals are mainly through democratic agencies.

My people should realize that this is not the place nor time to quibble, but should bend every energy to support the man in the grand old party that the majority selects to carry the flag to victory.

CHICAGO PASTORS HONOR CLEVELAND

PRAISE BY WARM FRIEND

William C. Boyden Tells of the Ingenuous Character of the "Sage of Princeton."

Eulogies of the late Grover Cleveland were pronounced yesterday by ministers in many Chicago pulpits. A special memorial meeting was held in All Souls' church, Abraham Lincoln Center. Seven speakers in turn paid ingenuous tributes to the deceased ex-president, praising his sterling character and unswerving and determined adherence to truth at all times.

The first speaker was William Kent, who spoke upon patriotism. He was followed by William C. Boyden, who had the pleasure of knowing the ex-president intimately. Mr. Boyden told of his ideals, his readiness to listen to the other fellow, his fondness for outdoor sports, especially fishing, his genial and jovial personality, and his remarkable simplicity and ingenuousness.

"I never really know Cleveland until I spent two summers on a farm with him in New Hampshire," he said. "It was then that I learned to appreciate the man and admire his exemplary qualities. One summer we spent a week together on a lake, fishing and resting. There I came to know him well.

"I recall distinctly one evening when he returned from a trip on the lake with his guide the worried expression on his face. He had had a dispute with his guide over a fish that had escaped from the reel and slid back into the lake. Then the guide told Mr. Cleveland that his catch would not have got away had he not had his finger on the reel-pin, which allowed the fish to run out in the water with the line.

Wants to Apologize to Guide.

"Mr Cleveland at the time denied that he had had his hand on that part of the reel, but later he remembered that he had had his finger within an inch or so of the pin, which would have led anybody to think he actually had his finger on it. He felt that he owed the guide an apology. It worried him the rest of the evening. The following day we were out on the lake doing some salmon fishing. Unexpectedly Mr. Cleveland called me from his end of the boat. He held up his reel and placed his index finger within an inch of the button.

"'It was like this, Boyden,' he said, illustrating his meaning with the reel. 'I had my finger in this position, and the guide no doubt——'"

Here the laughter of the hearers interrupted the speaker. He finished his story when the humor of the situation was over.

Continuing, he said: "Mr. Cleveland was possessed of a genial disposition. His companionable qualities were pronounced. In all the time that I knew him I never knew him to use a profane word or to indulge in vulgarities."

Other speakers were Jenkin Lloyd Jones, pastor of the church, State Senator Walter Clyde Jones, Tudor W. ApMadoc, Oliver Sollit, and Miss Jane Addams.

Gives Praise to Christianity.

In McCabe Memorial Methodist Episcopal church the Rev. John Thompson said:

"We stand today in the midst of thrilling contrasts. A few hours ago the nation bowed its head because a noble son, a great statesman, a much admired ex-president had died. In a few days the air will vibrate with the sound of the jubilant celebration of Independence day.

"We do well to pause and remember that the men who led this nation to a chief place among the nations of the earth have been men of Christian faith and character.

"Grover Cleveland was a Christian and so were George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, William McKinley, Patrick Henry, and Daniel Webster."

In Fourth Baptist church the Rev. Charles A. Decker, referring to Mr. Cleveland, said:

"We mourn his death today because our nation realizes a great man is gone from us. The bitter ideas of the old political campaigns are forgotten and friend and foe unite in praising a man who, we believe, was sincere in what he did. We need more men like the one whose death we mourn."

Vindicated by Unbiased Time.

The Rev. Melbourne P. Boynton, in Lexington Avenue Baptist church, said:

"Ex-President Cleveland was fortunate in that his life was prolonged till he had received the kindly ministry of time. He lived long enough to see many of his positions vindicated by the light of the years after. His heart must have been filled with joy many times when he realized that thousands of men who had reviled him were glad to change their scoffings to commendation and friendly overtures.

"Let us learn the lesson that a man should always do that which he believes to be right in the face of any promised sacrifice and independent of the caution of the weak and the curses of the wicked alike. Let us add to our nation's mottoes one of Cleveland's terse remarks when he said 'A public office is a public trust.'"

SAVES CHILDREN FROM FIRE.

Two little children were rescued from death by fire last evening in the residence of Joseph Bacco, 135 West Polk street. Bacco was absent from his home when the fire started.

William Gillier, 25 years old, who lives at 96 Arlington place, saw smoke issuing from an upper window and he turned in a fire alarm. Then he ascended to the second floor of the building where he found two of Bacco's children, Marie, 3 years old, and Joseph, 6 years old, asleep on a bed.

Taking them in his arms he groped his way through the smoke to the street. By that time Bacco and his wife had returned. Mrs. Bacco became hysterical with joy when she found that her children were safe.

Teacher for Whom School Was Named

MRS. ALICE L. BARNARD.

Mrs. Alice L. Barnard, 2018 West One Hundred and Third street, who has the distinction of being the only woman after whom a public school ever was named in Chicago, is seriously ill at her home. She is 75 years old and it is feared she will not recover. She has not been engaged actively in teaching for some years. Some of her former pupils have have achieved enviable positions in the world since she taught them at the old Jones school at Harrison street and Plymouth court.

ASSAIL DRINK, VICE, CRIME

Pastor Frank G. Smith Calls for United Action to Purify City.

ATTACK ON MORAL LEPROSY.

Investigation of Wrongs Inflicted on Working People Is Urged.

Saloons, disorderly houses, and ill gotten wealth were excoriated yesterday by the Rev. Frank G. Smith in a sermon on "The Liberty that Liberates," preached in Warren Avenue Congregational church. Among other things Pastor Smith said:

"How shall we free the city from drunkards and of all the crime and misery and poverty that follows in the trail of drink so long as the saloon abides? The saloon must go, and the Christian church must say so with an emphasis that will shake the city from center to circumference. This institution is rotten to the core and we must give men to understand who want our political support that if they do not stand against it first, last, and all the time then we do not stand for them. And how are we going to save our young men and our boys from that vilest of all contaminations, the leprosy of moral uncleanness that damns the individual and blights posterity? How many of us know what sinks of iniquity exist within easy walking distance of this church?

Calls Christians to Action.

"Excessive wealth, with all its gaudy accessories, flaunts itself in our faces at every turn of the city's life. How many of us have given ourselves to any intelligent investigations of the facts as to whether labor is really getting its just share of the products of toil? How many of us have given any painstaking investigation to the laborer who has sounded perhaps an anarchistic note to see what his life and environment have been? How many of us are as absolutely careful about keeping the law as we are to have others do it?

"These and countless other questions we must ask ourselves when we would face the great task of making the city free; of delivering it from the bondage of the rumseller, the gambler, the cheap politician, the greedy capitalist, the anarchistic artisan, the hypocrite, the bribe giver, and the bribe taker, the law breaker and the law hater, the enemies of God and home and liberty.

"When once the nominal Christian population of this city begins to let its voice be heard about these matters, and that voice is backed up by a life that is just as true as the voice is loud, I say when we reach the day and that hour and let our protest ring and ring as we might make it ring, we will burst the bonds of error that have bound us and the spirit of the Lord will sweep through this city, cleansing, purifying, uplifting, sweetening, giving to us all liberty in the highest and truest sense."

Tells of Anti-Liquor Crusade.

Arthur Burrage Farwell, secretary of the Hyde Park Protective association, delivered two addresses on the work accomplished by the association. In University Congregational church in the morning he thanked the church for its eighteen years of assistance in defending the Hyde Park prohibition and local option districts against the liquor forces.

In Hyde Park Baptist church in the evening he told of the effective prohibition work in Hyde Park and urged his hearers to aid in extending the campaign to other parts of the city.

"The contest is on," he said. "It requires the help of the people, not only by their influence and their prayers but by their money. We appeal to you tonight to help us, not only for our own homes and firesides and schools and churches but to help in the great battle that is on in the city of Chicago."

PLOT TO SMUGGLE GIRLS UNEARTHED

"Underground" Railroad Discovered by Federal Agents in White Slave Crusade.

TO STOP SALE OF LIQUOR.

Chief Shippy Issues Order That Will Wipe Out Hundreds of Disorderly Houses.

In United States District Attorney Edward Sims' crusade against the traffic in alien women an "underground" railroad, similar to that used before the civil war in smuggling negroes from the south into northern states, has been unearthed by immigration inspectors and secret service men.

The system of bringing alien women into the United States by way of Canada in spite of the vigilance of immigration officials is said to have been divulged by one of the girls examined before the board of inquiry three days ago.

According to her story girls are brought from France, Russia, and other foreign counties to St. Johns, Newfoundland, and to Anticosti island near the mouth of the St. Lawrence river. From these places they are taken to Montreal in private yachts and up the Richelieu river to Rouse's Point, N. Y.

Steps Taken to Arrest Women.

Both Attorney Sims and Dr. D. D. Davies, inspector in charge of the Chicago immigration bureau, acknowledged yesterday they had learned of this "underground" railroad and that steps had been taken to break it up and to capture the women now said to be en route to Chicago.

"There is no doubt that the majority of alien women in this country have been imported through Canadian ports," said District Attorney Sims. "Immigration officials in ports like New York and Boston are so watchful it is almost impossible to bring the girls through those cities. From what we have learned, St. Johns, Newfoundland, is the place the girls are kept until an opportunity arises to smuggle them into the United States by way of Lake Champlain."

Orders Sale of Liquor Stopped.

Chief of Police Shippy, following the action of the grand jury in indicting a score of proprietors of disorderly houses for the illegal sale of liquors, joined in the white slave crusade by ordering his inspectors to swear out warrants for the arrest of the managers of every resort and hotel where liquor was sold without a city license.

"Every person found selling liquor without a city license will be treated as a 'bootlegger,'" said Chief Shippy. "From now on liquor will not be permitted to be sold in any disorderly house or in any questionable hotel. It is impossible for the owners of resorts to obtain liquor permits, and this order means that liquor cannot be sold in disorderly houses and hotels under any circumstances."

"The sale of liquors in hotels and disorderly houses along West Madison and Halsted streets will be stopped first," said Inspector McCann last night in speaking of conditions on the west side. Keepers of resorts and rooming houses in the "segregated" part of the west side then will be visited. I have instructed my men and expect arrests along the busy thoroughfares, even those bordering on the levee. The sooner resort keepers learn that the police mean to continue along this line the better off they will be."

TAKE PRIDE IN ERIN'S GLORY

DANCES, SONGS, SPEECHES.

Many in Audience Applaud Wildly and Converse in Gaelic.

Irish dances, Irish songs, and Irish speeches made up an entertainment given yesterday at St. Bridget's college, at which diplomas and medals for proficiency in Irish history were awarded by the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Ladies' auxiliary of that society. The entertainment was held in St. Bridget's hall, 2924 Archer avenue.

The dances aroused the greatest enthusiasm. To the accompaniment of a violin and bagpipe a little girl, Veronica Long, went through the steps of the wayside jigs and hornpipes until the air seemed full of haze and peat smoke, and an old woman in the front of the hall wept during the dance, which recalled ~~to~~ her mind scenes of girlhood days in Erin. The audience was critical, especially the older persons in it, who watched sharply the four hand reel, the Irish jig, and the step dancing until their hearts melted, and they applauded wildly.

Enthusiasm and tears again were in evidence when a portion of the Irish Choral society, under the direction of Thomas Taylor Drill, sang "The Harp That Once Through Tara's Halls." Miss Winifred Kinney then sang "Come to Me, Mavourneen," and the older people began talking to each other in bits of Gaelic.

Point to Erin's Proud History.

Municipal Judge Frank Crowe declared Chicago Irish to be the most patriotic, with reference to Ireland, of any Irish on earth.

"They have taken up the Irish cause with an enthusiasm not surpassed in Ireland itself," he said. "People of Chicago are learning through the Irish Choral society that Ireland has a great store of musical lore. Chicagoans also are just beginning to comprehend that a thousand years before Jesus Christ walked the earth Ireland had a parliament."

The Rev. Father Michael O'Sullivan of St. Bridget's church said the Irish emphatically had pride of ancestry and hope of posterity.

"They have a history interwoven with that of every nation in Europe," he said. "Descendants of every nationality should know their country's history. The Poles, for instance, have a grander history than any other people, not excepting the Irish.

"Irish generals were the greatest in American history. They have been the salvation of the English army, and England today calls for them to save the country in times of peril.

"It is time for the Irishman to stop being an apologist with his hat in his hand, and to look upon the world with the pride which comes from knowledge of his country's history."

Wants Union of Societies.

At the close of the exercises diplomas and medals were presented to about forty children. The children receiving medals were William Hartford, Gertrude Fitzgerald, Joseph Kane, and John Tierney. Helen Wathier won the medal offered by St. Patrick's school.

TALKS ON SAVING

No. 3. Saving by System

One reason why more people have not bank accounts is that they have never had any plan for saving.

And yet a system which will enable any one with a regular income to save is easy to arrange and soon becomes a fascinating pleasure to follow.

One of the simplest methods is to estimate your necessary weekly or monthly expenses, eliminating the needless ways of spending, subtract the amount from your income and decide positively to put the difference in the bank every pay day.

Try it for three months and it will become a habit and a profitable one.

You can open an account in this bank for $1.00 or more.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

The eclipse of the Red nebula, Cincinnati, by the constellation of the Big Bears was watched by several thousands, if not more, expert bugologists on the west side yesterday. They saw what is known as a double eclipse, an extremely rare phenomenon except among the bibulously inclined. The first eclipse was partial, the formula being 3 to 1 and the second was total, the dimensions being 2 to 0. Both were annular as well, inasmuch as the constellation of Cubs played rings around the nebulous Reds.

In producing this gorgeous effect Master of Ceremonies Chance used nearly all the stars in his orbit and their appearance was decidedly kaleidoscopic at times. Twelve stars were thrown on to the diamond in the curtain raiser, one of the changes being made necessary by Klem's use of a can upon Steinfeldt near the clpse of the partial eclipse. This necessitated switching the Cubs after they had been fixed to suit the manager once. Then in the early part of the afterpiece, Chance didn't like the way the stars were not twinkling, so pulled another switch.

Hofman Is Busy Star.

In consequence Solly Hofman appeared in three different sections of the zodiac, gravitating from second to third, back to second, and then to first. Zimmerman flashed into view for an instant in the first affair, then went out, only to reappear and burn extremely bright in the last exhibition. He was put in to break up the first game in Slagle's place and hit to the pitcher. Similarly he was sent up for Howard in the second contest and for the same purpose. This time he succeeded and virtually won the game.

Aside from these stirring phenomena, the modus vivendi of the new world's pennant was thoroughly vindicated. Chance took a flier with his former wild man Reulbach on the slab in the first battle and got away with it in fine condition. Thus encouraged he tested the existence of Jack Pfiester's hoodoo in the second game and found it deader than the vegetation of the moon.

Reulbach was submitted to the same treatment as the last time out. He was compelled to face a pinch all the way to the last, when the Cubs gathered themselves together and tied Cincinnati's one run, then won out with two runs in the eighth. The big pitcher allowed only seven hits which were well scattered except in the second inning, when two of them conspired to make the Reds' only run of the day. The brightest star in this game was Jim Sheckard, whose home run wallop in the seventh brought in the first Cub run and turned despondent crabs into radiant rooters.

Only Three Hits Off Pfiester.

Pfiester held the Reds to three unneighborly swats in his half of the program, and there never was a real chance for any of the visitors to count. Once Lobert got to third base on a blow to right field, but there were two out already. The Cubs ought to have counted a dozen runs or more in this game, but could get only two and until the eighth their limit was one run which was exceedingly tenuous, considering the seven lives of Pfiester's hoodoo. At that Jack took no chances of letting the game be booted away from him in the last round. He wound up the day by striking out the last two Reds to face him.

Herr Ganzel selected two port side pitchers to hurl against the Big Bears, and of the two they found Campbell's left handed saliva ball the more difficult to hit. Only five swats were made off him and all of these close to the finish. Jake Weimer, in the second game, was easier of solution, as the Cubs made twice as many bingles off his dry delivery, but the runs came harder.

There was much sensational fielding behind all four twirlers. Chance and Ganzel in particular performed miracles in the way of one handed stabs of hits and wild throws. Perhaps their overexertions in the first affair accounted for their absence from the second, or possibly it is against the rules for managers who are also first basemen to play in more than one game of a double header.

One Run for Reds Not Enough.

The Reds tried to run away with the first game with a single tally, which was acquired in the second inning. Paskert led off with a single and was sacrificed to second. McLean's out put him on third and he trotted home on Mitchell's smash to right. Mike was nailed stealing and the Reds' rungetting was over. In each of the next five innings the visitors bagged one hit, but could not make that count outside the batting averages. Hulswitt opened that with a single to right and Campbell sacrificed. Huggins hit to Steinfeldt, who trapped Hulswitt between bags and they ran him to death, Huggins reaching second during the chase. Kane hit to Steiny, who made a wild peg to first. Chance somehow speared the ball on the bound with one hand, and, seeing Huggins tearing for home, fired the ball to Kling, cutting off the score as well as the bum peg.

Campbell was airtight until the sixth, not a hit being made off him in five rounds. Hofman blew open the sixth with a scratch into short center, which Hulswitt or Kane ought to have eaten up. Tinker singled cleanly to right, driving Artie to third. Reulbach forced Tinker and just escaped being doubled up at first. Then Ed tried to sneak to second on a short passed ball and was called out, ruining the opening. Chance sent Zimmerman to bat for Slagle to tie the count, but Zim hit to the pitcher.

Homer for Sheckard.

Sheckard led in the seventh with a drive through left center on which he completed the circuit, although it was a long way from second home to the convalescent. That tied the knot. It was untied in the eighth. Kling led with a double over Paskert's head and Hofman bunted. Campbell tried to get Kling at third on it, but failed. Tinker soaked a single to right, scoring John. McLean caught Hofman playing way off second and shot the ball down there, but Artie went the other way safely and scored on Reulbach's fly to Mitchell. Howard then hit to Campbell and a freak double play closed the inning and resulted in Steinfeldt's banishment for kicking. Score:

No Chance for Visitors.

The second battle was shorter and sharper. The Cubs were all the time bluffing to score while the Reds never had a chance. Only three men reached first base in any old way off Pfiester. All of them had to hit safely, for there was not a pass about his person nor a slip behind him. Kane singled with one out in the first inning and was nailed stealing. The next swat was Lobert's three base bump past Schulte in the fourth. There were two out and the next one flied. Huggins singled with two out in the sixth and was forced by Kane. That was the limit for Cincinnati.

The Cubs could not take advantage of their openings until the third, then with two out Hofman raised a long fly which Kane misjudged and muffed after a hard run. Artie reached third. Howard took one swipe at the ball, then Chance sent Zimmerman to bat for him and "Big City" poked the next ball pitched over right center for three bases, scoring Artie. "Zim" tried to make home on his hit and was out by yards.

Cubs Get Another Run.

After three or four more good chances to score had been wasted the Cubs finally put over another in the eighth. A scratch two bagger by Steinfeldt, which Kane nearly coppered, and a single by Kling did the business. Score:

NOTES OF THE CUBS.

Three more with the Reds—in Cincinnati.

Threatening weather among the noon hours kept the attendance down somewhat, but there were enough willing to risk a wetting to fill the ground floor of the plant fairly full.

Schulte did a circus stunt in the eighth of the second game. Running after Mitchell's high fly, Frank caught his spikes and fell flat. He picked himself up, took another slant at the ball, and caught it.

Capt. Ganzel stole a hit in plain daylight from Sheckard in the first inning of the first game. He had to jump the limit and spear the ball with his mitt, the force of the hit causing him to topple over as he came down.

Manager Chance took his Cubs out of town last night for a week's trip in the west. They are scheduled today, tomorrow, and Wednesday in Cincinnati and the rest of the week in Pittsburg, including a holiday double bill on Saturday.

When the magnates decide to put the double umpire system into effect they can find a raft of umpires in Chicago. All they will have to do will be to draft an entire section out of the stands haphazard and get plenty of men who think they can beat any umpire living on making decisions.

The bases were full of Cubs in the sixth of the second game, with two out. Tinker hit a little one a few feet from the plate. Schlei picked it up and instead of risking a throw to first came back and stepped on the plate, forcing Zimmerman and the side out.

Zimmerman had no chance to make a home run on his hit in the third of the second game, but little Durbin thought it the better part of valor not to get in the way when "Big City" steamed around third. Huggins' relay rolled the last thirty feet to the plate and still beat the runner easily.

Kling was on second with one out in the fourth of the second game when Hofman bounded a hit over Lobert's head. Kling overran third, slipped, and could not get back before Hulswitt, who made an unexpected stop of the hit, pegged the ball to Lobert. Kling tried to score then, but was nailed.

Pfiester struck out Weimer on three balls pitched in the sixth of the second game. Jake beefed about the first strike called on him, stepping out of the box to do it. Pack shot another one over the pan and Klem called it a strike. Weimer stepped into the box and let another one go by. Klem said, "You're out."

When Steinfeldt was chased in the eighth of the first game Chance sent Hofman over to third and pulled Howard in from center, letting Durbin stand guard out there. It was odd that two of the three batsmen up in the ninth hit to the switched infielders, Hofman retiring the second man at first and Howard the last man up.

All of the ablebodied Cubs went with the team last night, only J. Evers being left behind. John had his injured ankle placed in a plaster cast by Dr. A. E. Price yesterday and was promised he would be in shape to play when the team returns home. Mordecai Brown is expected to join the Cubs before they leave Cincinnati.

If Tinker can get through two more games without an error he will have performed the feat of going an even month without one. Tinker's last error was made in the ninth inning of the June 1 game with Pittsburg. Since then Joe has played twenty-two errorless games and in them has made forty-eight putouts and seventy-seven assists, a total of 125 chances accepted perfectly.

BROWNS GAIN STRONGER HOLD.

Defeat Cleveland by Score of Six to One Before Largest Crowd of the Season at St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., June 28.—St. Louis today increased its lead on first place by defeating Cleveland 6 to 1 before the largest crowd of the season. Singles by Farris and Criss batting for Pelty and errors by Lajoie and J. Clark gave the locals three runs in the second. Joss retired in favor of Thielman. Dineen relieved Pelty and allowed but one hit. Score:

NOTES OF THE WHITE SOX.

Those demon Browns come next for a series of five games in three days.

Walter Matticks, the new Sox outfielder for September, has failed to hit safely in but eleven of fifty-seven games he played.

Cobb tickled Walsh for a triple to the score board after two gone in the ninth. All Ty got for the swat was a chance to exploit his sprinting gear, as Rossman grounded to Isbell for the last out.

In the six games at Detroit and Cleveland the Sox played like those soft boiled eastern teams who went to pieces during the long run of victories on the south side. The pitchers blew up and all the luck broke against the pilgrims. It often happens that way.

Judging by the way the Tigers hugged Mr. Schaefer and patted him on the neck they live in a happy lair. The German's homer turned the tide of battle and clinched the result. Seldom do you observe a swat like that with the bases full, and it is a sad, sad spectacle.

Soon after the close of hostilities Mr. Altrock was observed seated in a bootblack's chair in Thirty-ninth street having his trotter cases japanned. A silent throng of disappointed bugs leaned against posts and buildings respectively inspecting Mr. Altrock. Is it great to be an athlete? Yes.

Walsh achieved his single in the sixth by letting the bat just meet the ball and popping it over the infield. Edward tried that idea again in the eighth behind the hits of Tannehill and Hahn, but the meeting of bat and ball was not hard enough. A fly to O'Leary resulted.

Jennings said "We-yah" 400 times and pulled up enough of Mr. Comiskey's June grass to stuff a mattress. There must be something in his system. It keeps the Tigers moving. Altrock had lots of fun in the provinces imitating Jennings, and that wily Tiger was "We-yahing" to beat the band when Nick got his in the second. Sounds like poetic justice.

SHAKEUP FOR THE RED SOX.

Boston, Mass., June 28.—[Special.]—There is to be a big shakeup in the Boston American's infield. Gardner, the University of Vermont star, will be released outright and Capt. Unglaub will be shifted over to third base, in Gardner's place. Cravath will be given the initial bag. In his first game Gardner played nicely, but in his second he went all to pieces. The new combination may work until Lord gets back into condition.

Put Prohibitive Price on Beck.

Bloomington, Ill., June 28.—[Special.]—The Bloomington baseball management today received a message from San Francisco asking the price of Outfielder Beck's release. As Beck is not for sale a prohibitive figure of $5,000 was named.

BY CHARLES DRYDEN.

Of all the cruel welcome home ideas those south side doings yesterday were the worst yet. The bugs were kind, cordial, indulgent, et cet., et cet., but the Tigers were not.

The Jennings Zoo pried our Sox apart, 10 to 5, in a rip snorting, hilarious, buck and wing sort of combat, replete with sobs and thrills, but no éclat. There wasn't a snootful of éclat in any part of the proceedings; nothing but main strength and awkwardness and loud swats. Likewise the low browed boot and bungle, to use some more technique.

Out of a total of twenty-six long and short hits off four pitchers of high renown the Sox claim a majority. They compiled fourteen safeties, but neglected to apply any of them while the bases were filled. A mere trifle of the afternoon was Germany Schaefer's personally conducted tour of the bases. With the corners loaded in the second, two out and two runs in, the comedian nudged Walsh for a homer against the center field battlements. The Tigers almost tore the shirt waist off the Dutchman, they were so tickled when he returned from his long journey.

Alas! More Doleful Doings!

Nor was that the worst of it. The Sox had copped a lead of two in their share of the first and with Altrock shedding his radiance upon the scene the returned prodigals felt almost certain. But, alas, for vain hopes and fond desires. Nicholas blew up, gently but firmly, in the second. He didn't field the job with his usual sang froid. The Tigers nipped him for five swats and Walsh was sent in as a tamer of wild beasts. He wore his mouth full of gum and one of those roll-over-and-play-dead expressions gleamed in his fiery blue eyeballs. The large bunch of fanatics chortled with glee at sight of the great rescue athlete. Edward's new dope for making the sphere elusive went wrong. Schaefer leaned his pestle against the second ball pitched and the game was shattered beyond repair. Walsh was thumped seven times and Altrock five.

A faint spurt of hope lit up the dismal scene when G. Mullin, prominent Wabash, Ind., politician, detonated in the second. Three solid bingoes off the politician in the opener netted us a pair of markers, and when the Sox started to whale him some more in the second there were those who thought the big Tiger lead might yet be whittled down.

Manager Snuffs Mullin.

But Jennings banked Mullin's fire and sent up Summers after the third hit in the second inning rally. The new man fanned Isbell, retiring the side. At no stage did Summers appear to have anything aside from his uniform with "Detroit" on it and the glove. The Sox collected a total of eight hits and two runs from the new comer.

In the fourth round one triple and three singles eked one run. Donohue came up with the bases stocked and two gone. A swat here would have played hob, or something like that, but the Jigger poked to Schaefer and the best looking rally of the day oozed away.

The Tigers played a dashing game in contrast to the untidy work of the prodigals. Seems as if the buffaloed habits acquired on the road last week came home with the Sox to haunt them. All four of the misplays were costly, but without them the Tigers would have won. That second inning was sufficient.

Some consolation was derived from the way our chaps whacked the ball. The top of the list cleaned up heavily and Walsh was in on the jubilee with one triple and a single. None of the four pitchers issued a pass, which was a remarkable feature of the combat. The general hitting was so good none of the fellows waited for a base on balls.

Big Guns Start Booming.

Heavy artillery started booming in the first after the Tigers went out in order. Dougherty skied to left. Jones planted a liner against Mullin's leg that rebounded almost to the plate. The hit and run, with Isbell banging to right, projected Jones to third. The demise of Anderson, short to first, tallied the Sox leader, and Isbell came home on Donahue's safety to center. Atz flied to Crawford.

Fourth of July broke loose in the second and wound up with a grand set piece, depicting Mr. Schaefer in full flight behind a home run that emptied a full house. Cobb grounded to Altrock who tried to tag the runner on the line, and then tossed too late to get him at first. After Rossman popped to Atz the reckless Cobb stole second. Coughlin laid down a perfect bunt. Thomas forced Coughlin, and Isbell's wide throw pulled Donohue off the bag, spoiling a double play. Cobb scored on the out. O'Leary and Mullin singled, the latter's drive counting Thomas. Isbell fielded McIntyre's bounder, but no one covered the bag. That blow filled the bases and broke Altrock's heart at the same time.

After a long delay Walsh entered the arena and threw a spitter at Schaefer. The Dutchman pestled it between Dougherty and Jones and the ball traveled to center field bleacher front. Four runs. Crawford was thrown out by Isbell, leaving Detroit a net gain of six runs and six hits for the round.

Where Mullin Gets His.

Mullin got his in the local second. Tannehill nudged a double, but the next two made outs. Dougherty's single tallied Tannehill. Jones ripped off another safety and Jennings pulled Mullin out and sent in a recruit named Summers. He struck out Isbell amid prodigious gloom. Walsh fanned Cobb to start the third and Dougherty made a two base muff on Rossman's long blow. Coughlin was thrown out by Atz, but Tannehill let go a two base wild heave of Thomas' grounder, scoring Rossman. O'Leary was thrown out by Isbell.

I. Thomas messed Mr. Anderson's foul in the third and John followed it up with a hit and steal. The infield outs of Donohue and Atz counted Anderson. Tannehill flied to left. One gone in the fourth, Walsh tripled and scored on a wild pitch. Dougherty singled and Jones forced him. Isbell and Anderson made hits, filling the bases. Donohue grounded to Schafer for the third out. Crawford poled open the fifth with a triple and scored on Cobb's single. The Georgian tried for third on Rossman's sacrifice and was doubled up on Donohue's throw to Tannehill.

Fresh disaster pestered the Sox in the eighth. Donohue booted McIntyre's grounder and Schaefer struck out. Crawford singled to right. Anderson's throw got away from Tannehill, scoring McIntyre and putting Crawford on third. Cobb popped to Atz and Rossman's single sent in Crawford. Coughlin struck out.

End Comes Quickly.

Tannehill's second hit started the eighth. Hahn, batting for Sullivan, made a safety. Walsh flied to O'Leary and the next two made infield outs. Score:

Honors for "Hans" Wagner.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 28.—Thursday, July 16, is to be celebrated by Pittsburg's baseball enthusiasts as "Wagner day" in honor of Hans Wagner. The home team and the Bostons will play at Exposition park on that date and some suitable token in appreciation of the shortstop's great work on the diamond is to be presented during the game. A local paper has started the movement and is raising a popular subscription. No contribution of more than $1 will be accepted.

Park teams again had the better of the traveling teams in the City league yesterday, all contests being won by the home nines. The Logan Squares beat the South Chicagos, 7 to 4, the West Ends took a fall out of the Marquettes, 11 to 3, while the Leland Giants beat the Spaldings, 6 to 1.

"Crazy" Schmidt endeavored to pitch for the South Chicagos against the Logan Squares, and for a time it looked as if he would get away with the game, the visitors leading in the early part by two runs. However, he was finally driven from the slab and Joe Taylor finished the game. The hitting of Frank McNichols and Jimmy Callahan and a crazy catch by Joe Taylor in the outfield were the features. BREEDING BUREAU TO KEEP UP WORK.

Turfmen Hope Court Decisions May Pave Way for Betting Despite Recent Law.

New York, June 28.—[Special.]—Notwithstanding the fact that the anti-racing laws passed recently by the legislature have affected the sport most injuriously and in consequence have been but little removed from being confiscatory of property and charter rights of the tracks, the breeding bureau for the Jockey club has decided to continue its work for at least one more year.

Last season and in 1906 the foundation was only begun and the bureau is peculiarly anxious that the work should continue until at least there shall be tangible practical evidence of the value of thoroughbred blood in lines wholly apart from racing.

Status of Wagers in Doubt.

Until the courts hand down decisions that will determine just how the new law applies to the racing public, the various racetracks will lose money. The fact that men have been arrested for making an "oral wager" has frightened many former patrons of the turf away from the track, but competent lawyers say that in due time it will be disclosed that the Agnew-Hart law does not prohibit betting at all; that it merely calls for the imprisonment of persons who record wagers, which according to the new statue is not a felony but a misdemeanor.

Persons who have looked into the whole betting situation as it exists at present say that if evidence can be had to prove that wagers have been recorded there will be trouble, but that if it is impossible to get that evidence the law soon will become a dead letter.

The Coney Island Jockey club probably will lose $200,000 on its present meeting at Sheepshead Bay. This is due to the fact that the club is running off its valuable stakes regardless of reduced gate receipts. Saturday the added money footed up close to $34,000 on six races. The receipts from all sources are said to have been about $20,000. It is estimated that the daily average expense of a New York racetrack is about $13,000. The Brighton meeting will be run at a greatly reduced expense, but Empire City and Saratoga will go ahead with the valuable stakes already scheduled.

Butler May Be Honored.

There are three vacancies in the Jockey club, caused by the death of O. H. P. Belmont, Capt. John H. Bradford, and W. B. Leeds. In view of J. H. Butler's loyalty to the Jockey club and to the turf in its present crisis, the opinion is prevalent he will be chosen to fill one of the vacancies.

John E. Madden apparently has the 2 year old stakes at his mercy. It is conceded that Sir Martin and Fayette are in a class by themselves. Madden probably will start either Sir Martin or Fayette in next year's English Derby unless he sells both colts before that time.

SOUTHERN TURF IN ECLIPSE.

Memphis, Tenn., June 28.—[Special.]—Recent announcements of race meetings at Birmingham, Nashville, and Memphis, where harness racing programs have been provided in connection with the annual fairs, show no provision for the runners.

Meantime there is more betting going on in Memphis than before the enactment of the Foust law, which killed racing in Tennessee, and which prohibits all forms of betting from bookmaking to individual wagers.

Handbook operators are doing a thriving business. Service is received by a leased wire, and, as there is no law against the posting of odds, weights, and horses entered in races, several local rooms have reopened with a flourish of chalk and display of figures on Latonia events. Results are obtained soon after the race is decided.

Tennessee turfmen generally are prepared for the death of the game. G. C. Bennett and F. P. Coleman, Memphis bookmakers, have invested part of their turf earnings in the baseball franchises at New Orleans and Memphis, respectively. W. W. Darden, former owner of Algol, Miss Crawford, and other good racers, will retire to a farm in southwestern Kentucky to raise live stock. M. N. Macfarlan, former secretary of the New Memphis Jockey club, has retired to Texas, where he is interested in a rice farm with John W. Schorr, G. C. Bennett, and others. S. R. Montgomery, president of the New Memphis Jockey club and former steward in the Western Jockey club, has retired from all connection with turf affairs. J. W. Russwurm, former secretary at Nashville, is in charge of the Tennessee state fair.

TAKES THIRD LACROSSE GAME.

Amid the rural scenery of Jackson park the lacrosse team of the Illinois Athletic club yesterday gave the Chicago team its third defeat of the season. The score was 9 to 6, and was fairly indicative of the strength of the sides.

The I. A. C. men did the better team work and it was fortunate the Chicago team had a bulky man in goal. H. Kearney, with something under his jersey that might have been a big wooden wash bowl, was broad enough to cover nearly one-half the net, and several of the slashing shots sent in by Cavanaugh, Milne, West, and Culbertson found lodgement against his anatomy. The I. A. C. attack was faster than that of the Chicagos, who dallied too long with the ball and enabled the men in the maroon sweaters to bunch their defense. Lineup.

ark teams again had the better of the veling teams in the City league yesterday, contests being won by the home nines. Logan Squares beat the South Chicagos, 4, the West Ends took a fall out of the quettes, 11 to 3, while the Leland Giants t the Spaldings, 6 to 1.

"Crazy" Schmidt endeavored to pitch for South Chicagos against the Logan uares, and for a time it looked as if he uld get away with the game, the visitors ding in the early part by two runs. How- r, he was finally driven from the slab and Taylor finished the game. The hitting of ank McNichols and Jimmy Callahan and razy catch by Joe Taylor in the outfield re the features. Score:

BREEDING BUREAU TO KEEP UP WORK.

Turfmen Hope Court Decisions May Pave Way for Betting Despite Recent Law.

New York, June 28.—[Special.]—Notwithstanding the fact that the anti-racing laws passed recently by the legislature have affected the sport most injuriously and in consequence have been but little removed from being confiscatory of property and charter rights of the tracks, the breeding bureau for the jockey club has decided to continue its work for at least one more year.

Last season and in 1906 the foundation was only begun and the bureau is peculiarly anxious that the work should continue until at least there shall be tangible practical evidence of the value of thoroughbred blood in lines wholly apart from racing.

Status of Wagers in Doubt.

Until the courts hand down decisions that will determine just how the new law applies to the racing public, the various racetracks will lose money. The fact that men have been arrested for making an "oral wager" has frightened many former patrons of the turf away from the track, but competent lawyers say that in due time it will be disclosed that the Agnew-Hart law does not prohibit betting at all; that it merely calls for the imprisonment of persons who record wagers, which according to the new statue is not a felony but a misdemeanor.

Persons who have looked into the whole betting situation as it exists at present say that if evidence can be had to prove that wagers have been recorded there will be trouble, but that if it is impossible to get that evidence the law soon will become a dead letter.

The Coney Island Jockey club probably will lose $200,000 on its present meeting at Sheepshead Bay. This is due to the fact that the club is running off its valuable stakes regardless of reduced gate receipts. Saturday the added money footed up close to $34,000 on six races. The receipts from all sources are said to have been about $20,000. It is estimated that the daily average expense of a New York racetrack is about $13,000. The Brighton meeting will be run at a greatly reduced expense, but Empire City and Saratoga will go ahead with the valuable stakes already scheduled.

Butler May Be Honored.

There are three vacancies in the Jockey club, caused by the death of O. H. P. Belmont, Capt. John H. Bradford, and W. B. Leeds. In view of J. H. Butler's loyalty to the Jockey club and to the turf in its present crisis, the opinion is prevalent he will be chosen to fill one of the vacancies.

John E. Madden apparently has the 2 year old stakes at his mercy. It is conceded that Sir Martin and Fayette are in a class by themselves. Madden probably will start either Sir Martin or Fayette in next year's English Derby unless he sells both colts before that time.

SOUTHERN TURF IN ECLIPSE.

Memphis, Tenn., June 28.—[Special.]—Recent announcements of race meetings at Birmingham, Nashville, and Memphis, where harness racing programs have been provided in connection with the annual fairs, show no provision for the runners.

Meantime there is more betting going on in Memphis than before the enactment of the Foust law, which killed racing in Tennessee, and which prohibits all forms of betting from bookmaking to individual wagers.

Handbook operators are doing a thriving business. Service is received by a leased wire, and, as there is no law against the posting of odds, weights, and horses entered in races, several local rooms have reopened with a flourish of chalk and display of figures on Latonia events. Results are obtained soon after the race is decided.

Tennessee turfmen generally are prepared for the death of the game. G. C. Bennett and F. P. Coleman, Memphis bookmakers, have invested part of their turf earnings in the baseball franchises at New Orleans and Memphis, respectively. W. W. Darden, former owner of Algol, Miss Crawford, and other good racers, will retire to a farm in southwestern Kentucky to raise live stock. M. N. Macfarlan, former secretary of the New Memphis Jockey club, has retired to Texas where he is interested in a rice farm with John W. Schorr, G. C. Bennett, and others. S. R. Montgomery, president of the New Memphis Jockey club and former steward in the Western Jockey club, has retired from all connection with turf affairs. J. W. Russwurm, former secretary at Nashville, is in charge of the Tennessee state fair.

TAKES THIRD LACROSSE GAME.

Amid the rural scenery of Jackson park the lacrosse team of the Illinois Athletic club yesterday gave the Chicago team its third defeat of the season. The score was 9 to 6, and was fairly indicative of the strength of the sides.

The I. A. C. men did the better team work and it was fortunate the Chicago team had a bulky man in goal. H. Kearney, with something under his jersey that might have been a big wooden wash bowl, was broad enough to cover nearly one-half the net, and several of the slashing shots sent in by Cavanaugh, Milne, West, and Culbertson found lodgement against his anatomy. The I. A. C. attack was faster than that of the Chicagos, who dallied too long with the ball and enabled the men in the maroon sweaters to bunch their defense. Lineup:

"Cap" Plays First Base Throughout; Other Battles of Semi-Pros.

Anson's Colts lost to Rogers Park yesterday by the score of 13 to 11 at the north side grounds after Anson had the home team in the hole by 8 to 0. Wiggs was wild at first and was pounded heavily, "Cap" getting two bingles himself. After that Wiggs tightened, while Eckstone went to the bad and was relieved in the seventh by Wayland, who lost the game. Anson played the entire game and handled everything in clean style. Score:

"SEMI-PROS" SHINE IN FIELD

Interferes with Fungo Hitting and Long Throwing Contests.

Semi-professional baseball players were out in force at Logan Square park yesterday morning for the second annual field trials, and while no records were broken some excellent performances were recorded.

Louis Gertenrich of the West Ends tied the record going around the bases, while Jimmy Ray of the South Chicagos won the final heat in the 100 yard dash in fast time in a baseball uniform. Henry Wallace of the South Chicagos won the sprint to first base in good time. In the long distance throw and the fungo hitting the wind interfered with the competitors and no extraordinary marks were recorded.

In the pitchers' event for control Sidney Eckstone of the Ansons threw six balls through the lines at the plate, but his seventh was wild. "Rube" Foster, the colored crack, put six balls between the lines and hit the string with the other ball, which counted as a perfect throw. In the dash the finish between Ray and Tom Dalton of the Mohawks was worth going miles to witness. Ray put up a desperate finish and won by about an inch. Tom McDonough of the McHales won the fungo hitting contest, Bob Penfold of the Ansons captured the long distance throw, and George Sunde of the Kingsburys was the victor in the accurate throwing contest.

Three extra trials were needed to decide the winner in the accurate throwing contest, while five men, tied for second in the sprints to first, had to run off. Summaries:

Hundred yard dash—Jimmy Ray, South Chicagos, first; Tom Dalton, Mohawks, second. Time, :11.

TWO BOATS JOIN AN OLD CLUB

Pioneer Organization Gets Additions to Its Fine Fleet.

ONE IS BIG MOTOR CRAFT.

Chicago's Latest Comers Are La Rita and Speedy Tonapah.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

Score two for the Chicago Yacht club. The pioneer sailing organization soon is to have its fine fleet strengthened by the addition of a couple more of high class boats—one a sail yacht and the other a power yacht.

The first to join the C. Y. C. squadron will be La Rita, George Peare's former Lipton cup racer, which has been bought by Edward Rosing. James D. Lacey, a new applicant for membership in the Chicago Yacht club, has purchased in New York the high powered ocean going motor yacht Tonopah, which will be brought here at once. Tonopah is a Lawley product, ninety feet in length and with an extra beam of fourteen feet. It is a twin screw cruiser, driven by two engines developing 250 horse power, and is capable of high speed. The interior fittings are of mahogany and paneled oak. Tonopah will be the largest boat, excepting steam yachts, in the local fleets, and will prove a valuable addition to the Chicago Yacht club fleet.

Mr. Lacey at present owns the cabin cruising power yacht Felma, which recently was brought from New Orleans and added to the C. Y. C. squadron. Felma is sixty feet long and has a beam of ten feet. Its engines are of ninety horse power.

The steam yacht Manzanita, owned by E. E. Meyer of the Columbia Yacht club, has taken up its mooring in the harbor for the first time this season. The boat has been overhauled recently and is in better shape than ever. Among the improvements is an injector which has been installed in place of the keel condenser. Mr. Meyer will leave about July 10 with a party of friends for an extended cruise in northern waters.

SHORTSTOP DICKE TO BOSTON.

Former Illinois Varsity Captain Leaves for East to Join Red Sox for Year or Two.

Otto Dicke, shortstop and captain of the University of Illinois team last year, left the city last night to join the Boston Americans, having made up his mind to play professional ball. Dicke has been sought after by several league teams. George Huff made Otto an offer while manager of the Boston team, and the offer has remained open ever since. Dicke graduated from the Illinois engineering school a couple of weeks ago, and promises to spend three of four years in professional baseball.

Joliets, 6; Athletics, 4.

Joliet, Ill., June 28.—[Special.]—The Athletics of Chicago fell victims to the Joliets in their game here today by a score of 6 to 4. Kane allowed the visitors only four hits, one of which was a homer in the ninth inning. Score:

INJURY AT SOCCER RESULTS IN DEATH

COLLISION IN THE GAME.

"Chick" Ward, who played inside left for the Hibernians in the soccer match against the MacDuffs at the West Side Driving park yesterday afternoon, died last night at his residence, 166 North State street, following a hemorrhage of the lungs, which was caused, it was thought, by a collision in the game and the overexertion of the strenuous play. Ward, who was about 30 years of age, was one of the prominent soccer players in the west.

Ward's team was defeated by the MacDuffs in a match to determine the spring championship of the Chicago League of Association Football by a score of 2 to 1. Following the accident in the game he was able to be taken home. His collapse and subsequent death was a surprise to his friends.

Yesterday's battle was the playoff of the tie between the teams, each having scored 18 points. It was pretty tough going for the kickers in the hot sun, but there was no letup, the ninety minutes of play being fast. There was plenty of hard charging, but the team with the better combination won. Lineup:

Mushet	Goal	Sullivan
Chalmers	Right back	Coghlan
Dempsey	Left back	O'Brien
Tulloch	Right half back	Brennan
D. Martin	Center half back	McGinnis
Stewart	Outside right	McAleer
McDermid	Inside right	Curtis
Jordan	Center	Rarity
A. Robertson	Outside left	O'Brien

Goals—Rollo, Jordan, Curtis. Referee—Beaton.

Davitts Win at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 28.—[Special.]—The Davitts of Chicago today defeated a picked soccer team from the Wisconsin league by a score of 1 to 0. The goal secured was due to a penalty imposed on the Wisconsin team, which gave the visitors a free kick. For the rest of the game the fighting was even and neither goal was seriously threatened.

WISCONSIN MEN ELECT DINET.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 28.—[Special.]—Before the Wisconsin crew broke training camp today the members elected 'Gene Dinet, '09, captain of the varsity crew next year. His home is in Joliet, Ill. As oarsman Dinet was one of the classiest in the regatta. He stroked the freshman crew, which won third place, and at the time was pronounced by Coach "Andy" Oses to be one of the finest strokes the veteran ever saw.

YALE STROKE GRISWOLD SICK.

Thousand Islands, N. Y., June 28.—Dwight T. Griswold, the Yale stroke whose collapse last Thursday was followed by an easy victory for the Harvard crew, is ill at the home of G. B. Noyes, Deer Island, Alexandria bay. There was a report here tonight that Griswold was in a serious condition, but the report could not be confirmed. His brother has been summoned from Philadelphia.

French Golf Title to Taylor.

VERSAILLES, June 28.—J. H. Taylor of Richmond, England, today defeated Arnaud Massey, the French golf champion, for his title, with an aggregate score for the four rounds of the course of 300 to 304.

O'MAHONEYS ARE AVENGED ON THEIR OLD CONQUERORS.

Hurlers Give the Shamrocks a Thorough Drubbing in Lively Contest at Gaelic Park.

The O'Mahoneys defeated the Shamrocks 21 points to 4 in the hurling match yesterday at Gaelic park before the largest crowd of the season. The football contest was won by the Emmets, the Shamrocks being the victims, score 5 to 3.

The O'Mahoneys got sweet revenge for the defeat the Shamrocks handed them some weeks ago when they had on a weak team, as the trimming handed out by the former champions was the worst in the annals of the game in Chicago. The winners had out their strongest lineup and from the start of the contest it was seen that they would completely outplay their opponents, who were careless as a result of their easy victory in their previous contest.

The O'Mahoneys showed a vast improvement in their team work and expect to take a fall out of the champion Delcassians when they meet next Sunday. Lineup:

O'Mahoneys [21].		Shamrocks [4].
Jerry	Goal	Butler
Shaughnessy	Back	Leahy
F. O'Connor	Right back	O'Brien
Long	Left back	Tracey
Quinn	Right half back	Byron
Connors	Center half back	Ryan
P. Ward	Left half back	Collins
J. McGrath	Center	Maloney
M. Ward	Right center	Lyons
Sullivan	Left center	Simmons
T. McGrath	Forward	W. Berkery
Connolly	Forward	P. Berkery
Burke	Forward	Kennedy
Hoare	Forward	Casey
Dineen	Forward	McNamara
Conroy	Forward	Scully
Hogan	Forward	Hartnett

Referee—The Rev. Fr. Fielding.

The football match was a well contested battle all the way. During the first half, when the Shamrocks had the wind with them, they looked like winners and scored 3 points to the Emmets' 0. The latter, however, were strong on the defense and when they got the wind behind them there was no show for the Shamrock attack. The last half showed a complete reversal in the form of the two teams and the Emmets proved the better stayers. Five points were scored by their forwards in this half, while the Shamrock's forwards were unable to count. Lineup:

Heffernan	Goal	White
Grace	Full back	Barry
Laffin	Right back	Crimmins
Broderick	Left back	Grace
J. O'Shea	Right half back	Beckham
M. O'Shea	Center half back	Sheehan
J. Sheehan	Left half back	Nolan
C. Sheehan	Center	Doran
W. McDonald	Right center	Walsh
J. McDonald	Left center	Sul'ivan
Kenney	Forward	Howard
Cowell	Forward	Fitzgerald
Grant	Forward	Carey
Walsh	Forward	Quane
McAllen	Forward	Breen
Lennon	Forward	McMahon
Griffin	Forward	Quinn

Referee—J. O'Brien.

NOTES OF THE GOLFERS.

Chicago advertising golfers will start the latter part of the week for Toronto, where the annual tournament of the American Golf association of advertising interests will start on July 6.

The W. W. G. A. made a happy innovation in providing a junior handicap for players ranging from 13 to 21 years of age, which will be held at Edgewater on Thursday. It is only by encouraging the younger players that the west can hope to cope with the east in the annual team match.

Although the women's national and western championships do not come until the fall, the local players are getting plenty of opportunity for competitive play, faring better than the men in that respect. Today at Hinsdale the qualifying round of a three days' tournament is billed in which three flights of eight each will qualify, the first match play rounds being set for the afternoon. A number of leading players of the city are expected to take part.

The outcome of the transmississippi tournament at Kansas City on Saturday was almost as great a surprise as the defeat of Chandler Egan by Nelson Whitney in the southern championship. The victory of Everett Seaver of Kansas City over Harry Legg of Minneapolis, 1 up in 37 holes, stamps the Kansas youngster as a classy player. Legg last year while at Lawrenceville academy won the New York interscholastic. Seaver was the youngest player in the tournament.

Western golfing teams will gather at the Rock Island Arsenal Golf club on July 11 for the Olympic trophy competition, the curtain raiser to the tenth annual amateur championship of the Western Golf association, which will start two days later. So far the Chicago golfers practically have had no tournament play of importance to fit themselves for the big event, and for this reason it is expected a number of the championship possibilities will be seen in the Westward Ho open tournament on Wednesday.

GANS TRAINS FOR HITTING

Dane Puts in Strenuous Day at San Rafael, Showing Good Form.

San Francisco, Cal., June 28.—[Special.]—Champion Joe Gans did his last boxing today before he meets Batling Nelson in their forty-five round fight at Colma on the afternoon of July 4. He went four lively rounds with Jack O'Keefe.

Gans throughout his training has cultivated strength and endurance and has cut out all boxing. This has been criticised by many sports, but Joe's reasons are sound. He said today: "What is the use of my boxing to meet a man like Nelson, who can't box and who is no judge of distance? All I want is strength to punish him good when he rushes in."

Certainly Joe has taken plenty of this kind of exercise, as he puts in about an hour every day punching the big sand bag. Gans weighed today 134¾ pounds, which will make it easy for him to get to 133 ringside.

Nelson put in a strenuous day at San Rafael before a big crowd. He boxed several four round matches and showed he was in great form. He claims to feel better and stronger than for many months. He is confident he can wear Gans down and then beat him.

SURVEY MAPS FOR MOTORISTS.

Attention of Tourists Is Called to Advantages to Be Gained by Having Topographical Drawings.

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.]—The geological survey is calling the attention of automobile tourists to the advantage which they may derive from the use of the survey's maps. The maps made by the geological survey are primarily for scientific use, but it is declared they are invaluable for motorists' use, and they are offered for sale at 5 cents each, or for $3 in lots of 100 or more.

WHEAT TRADE IS UNCERTAIN

Improved Weather Conditions Have Beneficial Effect on Plant.

Crop news continues of such a character as to keep the wheat trade in a nervous, uncertain state. Busines is confined almost entirely to professional channels, outsiders awaiting more definite information as to the winter wheat crop. Floor sentiment is mixed, some of the most prominent interests being arrayed on the bull side, and the rank and file seemingly leans to the bull side, although moving cautiously all the time. A feature of last week s developments was the wiping out of the July premium over the September price. Final quotations on Saturday represented a decline of 1⅛@1¼c for the July and gains of ⅝c for the September and ⅛c for the Decembers, compared to the close of the preceding week.

September Most Active Future.

The bulk of trading was in the September, which covered a moderate range. The Kansas state report served to keep the market steady, bearing out in a generous measure previous advices of deterioration and area abandonment. However, the statement was about what the conservative element had expected. Using the popular basis of computation, a crop of about 82,000,000 bu is indicated. The more bullishly inclined can "see" a yield not in excess of 75,000,000 bu. The situation in important sections east of the Missouri river is less encouraging than in parts west of that stream. The week brought forth numerous complaints of pronounced backwardness in Illinois and Indiana, with low grade quality the keynote of the majority of messages. The outlook in spring wheat territory is all that can be desired, not only in the domestic regions but beyond the international border as well. There have been some complaints from Minnesota and North Dakota, but they have been mild. Men recognized for conservatism and accuracy figure that the general spring wheat yield will be of bumper proportions, with the grain of high quality.

Statistics continue of bullish complexion, the world's available supplies being much under those of the corresponding time last year. Europe still displays indifference to American wheat, although early in the week some sales were made from this side. The foreign crop situation has shown improvement recently, but the outlook in Hungary and parts of southwestern Russia is far from promising. As on this side of the water, Europeans are buying only on a hand to mouth basis. Ware & Leland had this to say of the wheat situation: "To all intents and purposes, consumers are economizing. Strange to relate, however, stocks of wheat are decreasing so rapidly that they are working down to smaller proportions than have been witnessed in several years, and with new crop deliveries delayed further reductions for some time ahead are fully indicated. Nevertheless, July liquidation is in progress with the premium for the month disappearing, although it does not signify that deliveries will not pass into control of millers and shippers to an unusual extent. It does not seem possible that a waiting policy can be pursued for any lengthy period as far as millers and exporters are concerned."

Corn Crop Shows Improvement.

Less disconcerting reports on crop advancement underlay easiness in the corn market the greater part of the week, although price losses were not large. The last few days of fine weather are said to have worked wonders to the plant, although several important sections still saw much to make material for complaint. Leading holders of the cash article pressed the July heavily in almost every session, their selling prompting similar action by many speculators. Week end prices showed losses of 1⅝@1¾c for July, ⅜c for September, and ¼c for December and May.

Farmers are offering little corn at the prevailing prices, but the effect of their reluctance to sell is being offset by dullness of the general cash demand. Consumers are practicing rigid economy in all directions. Receipts are running well under those of a year ago, and stocks are far from burdensome, but many in the trade believe that the movement will show improvement as soon as the country holders are further assured of the crop outlook. World's shipments are moderate, but Europe is buying little grain on this side of the water, although the current exports from Argentina are of generous proportions.

Oats Are Going Backward.

Last week brought forth a mass of complaints of deterioration and general backwardness to the oats crop, although the market displayed easiness a good part of the time. Leading holders of the cash stuff pressed the market hard at times, the support being too frail to keep prices up. The country gave good support to the September on the softer spots, local professionals playing both sides of the market. Illinois is sending in a great many complaints, as also are Indiana, Kansas, and Missouri, but the situation in this state is said to be worse than in the other states mentioned, important sections reporting small heads and stunted growth, with fields thin and unhealthy in appearance. Iowa and the northwest report the outlook promising, with indications for a good yield of excellent quality grain. The cash demand has been fairly active, although the east, whose stocks are said to be at low ebb, continues to buy only what is needed to meet current requirements. Receipts are running fairly liberal, although not large enough to make stocks burdensome. Week end quotations showed losses of 1⅛c for the Julys, ⅛c for September, and ⅛@¼c for May.

Provision List Is Firm.

Firmness was characteristic of a dull week in the provision market. Trade was largely professional in character, although the outside investment inquiry showed improvement. Dealers report a better demand for cured meats, although the call for lard is not urgent at the moment. The western run of swine showed well under that of a year ago, and since March 1 receipts have been 455,000 hogs under those of the corresponding time in 1907. The stocks of lard are large, but bulls believe that the fall will see a material reduction in the holdings.

Week in the Live Stock Trade.

Reduced offerings had a beneficial influence on the cattle market last week, substantial gains were recorded, and the close was with supplies well sold and the market in a strong, healthy condition. Advices received from country operators indicated that the supplies of good to choice fat cattle available for market in the near future were light, and traders generally were of the opinion that even present values, which stand at the highest in recent years, will be bettered.

WAITING MOOD IN STOCKS.

[FROM THE NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, June 28.—[Special.]—The dullness of stock markets for a fortnight before the gathering of the republican delegates at Chicago was attributed naturally to the prevailing uncertainty over the outcome of the convention proceedings, and in the same way there was a disposition last week to attribute the falling off of business on the stock exchange to similar doubts regarding the upshot of the coming democratic meeting at Denver.

The real reason for the hesitation of markets is rather to be sought in the balancing at the moment of unfavorable and favorable factors in the general financial situation. There is a fair prospect of excellent crops, but the deterioration which has admittedly taken place in Kansas calls attention to the possibilities elsewhere and persuades to conservatism. Thus a statement of the secretary of state of Kansas that the condition of winter wheat in that state had in forty-five days declined 18 points, to a percentage of 73, was seized upon as offering a measure for deterioration elsewhere. This is, of course, a mistake, as general reports show. The winter wheat crop is largely garnered by this time and spring wheat conditions in the three great producing states are beyond any question splendid.

TRADE IN WHOLESALE LINES.

Outlook for Various Kinds of Business is Improving Steadily.

With crops of the bumper variety soon at a marketable point, excellent financial conditions and railroads badly in need of repairs and new equipment, the tone of despondency which has pervaded the steel trade the first half of the year probably will be dissipated with the opening of the last six months, it is said.

Railroads and other corporations which begin their fiscal year July 1 and have delayed booking orders that their balance books should make a favorable showing find that they will have to make haste and operate more extensively the next few weeks in order to be in shape to handle the coming business expeditiously.

Another feature which is expected to stimulate the buying of steel and iron is the revision of prices which has been going on for the last month and has culminated in bringing prices to such a low level that further recessions can scarcely be expected. Indications generally are that July, usually the dullest month of the year, will be the busiest of the season.

Dry goods and groceries had a comparatively featureless week. Previously noted improvements in the goods were well maintained, and slight gains were made in the price of bleached and brown cotton goods. Prints for future delivery were closely sold and manufacturers reported they had all the business they could attend to. Raw silk values made sharp gains, which were partly reflected in the price of finished goods.

An abundance of fresh fruits resulted in a sharp falling off in the demand for spot canned and dried fruits, but merchants were expecting this and took advantage of the lapse in immediate business to solicit orders for futures. Retailers showed less reluctance in anticipating future needs, and the business booked reached a satisfactory aggregate.

MARKET AWAITS CROP RESULT

Stocks Show Little Change and Money Continues Easy.

BOXBOARD SHARES WEAK.

Chicago Telephone Firm, However, on Expectation of a Bonus.

Nothing has developed to indicate any change in the market position. The factors which obtained one week ago remain unchanged. It is, however, becoming a matter of crops. It is yet too early to form a definite opinion of what the corn harvest will be, but there is nothing in the reports of growing conditions to indicate anything less than a fair average yield.

The money situation both here and abroad continues easy. Rates are low in London and on the continent, and trade conditions show some slight improvement in Germany. For the most part the adverse effect which financial conditions in this country had on foreign business has disappeared. On the other side, a revival in business is looked forward to and a considerable degree of interest is shown in business conditions here.

The course of prices in the leading stocks was what might have been expected. There is no organized support, and there is no reason apparent that there should be effort either to maintain or advance quotations. The present is a waiting period, and nothing of consequence in the way of a price movement may be expected until further developments in the political or business situation.

Locally, there was considerable interest in Chicago Telephone shares and United Boxboard issues. The former stock holds firm on the understanding that within the coming twelve months there will be a distribution of bonus stock and a reduction in the dividend rate. The shares to be issued to stockholders will be sufficient in amount to continue the present return on the investment.

Boxboard Rules Weak.

United Boxboard shares were weak. The business of the company, so far as can be learned, is in a poor way. This fact is emphasized by occasional outgivings on the part of officials to the effect that profits are good. It is a hopeless situation when those in charge of the affairs of a company feel called upon to make statements merely for the effect they will have upon stock prices.

American Can shares rule steady. It is understood that the company's business has not fallen in gross revenues more than 15 per cent below one year ago. Meanwhile economies in operation have in part offset the reduced volume. Apparently the dividend return of 5 per cent is safe. To those having some familiarity with the management of the property there is much to commend as to the manner in which the company's affairs are handled.

Diamond Match shares have not recovered the loss they suffered on the announcement of the $2,000,000 note issue. There is not much reason to doubt that this note issue will eventually resolve itself into a first mortgage bond issue.

Bank Share Quotations.

The market for local bank shares rules steady. There has been no buying of consequence in any of the shares except in the case of the First National, in which there was a private transaction involving a sale of something like 1,000 shares. The purchase was made for interests in the bank. Quotations follow:

First Mortgages

are the simplest form of investment. You can examine the property offered as security and determine for yourself whether the values are as represented.

Isn't it an advantage to you to deal with a firm which has been negotiating loans on Chicago Real Estate for over forty years, and which attends to all details of the investment without charge? This includes preparation of necessary papers, examination of abstract, collection of interest, placing of insurance, supervision of taxes, etc.

For the convenience of the small investor, we take a large First Mortgage and divide it into $500 notes or bonds. These are always on income property and the debt reduced each year by substantial serial payments, thus greatly increasing the margin of security.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Office of the Secretary.—WASHINGTON, June 6, 1908. Proposals will be received, to be opened at 2 o'clock p. m., July 14, 1908, for the sale or donation to the United States of suitable land in the immediate vicinity of the so-called Union Station, for the site for the new Post Office to be erected in Chicago, Illinois. A block, or two blocks, surrounded on all sides by streets, containing approximately 300,000 square feet, is required. Each proposal must give the price, the character of foundations obtainable, the proximity to street cars, sewer, gas, and water mains, etc., and must be accompanied by a diagram indicating the principal street, the north point, the dimensions and grades of the land, the widths and paving of adjacent streets and alleys, whether the alleys are public or private, and whether or not the city owns land occupied by sidewalks. The vendor must pay all expenses connected with furnishing evidences of title and deeds of conveyance. Improvements on the property must be reserved by the vendor; but pending the commencement of the Post Office building they may remain on the land upon the payment of a reasonable ground rent. The grantor must, however, remove all improvements on thirty days' notice so to do. The right to reject any proposal is reserved. Each proposal must be sealed, marked "Proposal for New Post Office Site at Chicago, Illinois," and mailed to the SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY (Supervising Architect), WASHINGTON, D. C. V. HUGO KALLMAN,

BUSINESS SYSTEMATIZER.

I organize a business so that every revolution is a forward movement. My methods eliminate confusion, stop leaks and blockades, so common with office and factory work, that ordinary business methods cannot perfect. They never fail to lessen and simplify the immense amount of detail connected with a business. There is no charge for an interview. Call, write, or telephone. New businesses can save time and money. Will call on out of town clients by special appointment. References from all parts of the country.

MOTORCYCLES AND BICYCLES.

INDIAN MOTOCYCLE?
Let us explain how much pleasure one can have in Chicago. Most any kind of a machine will run, but with a motorcycle one gets out in the country where you find hills. To climb these it takes an INDIAN.
There is a reason why during the month of May the Indian won the 5 mile National championship at Baltimore; won every event entered in at Philadelphia, May 23, breaking every track record; won both events May 17 at Belleville, Ill.; made fastest time at Danville hill climb May 1. Also fastest time at Algonquin, Ill., hill climb, May 18. Call at our store for demonstration and see America's standard motocycle.
June 6th, at Buffalo, the Indian made 10 miles in 9 minutes 40 seconds. That's going some!

Summer time, summer time,
By the zephyrs lightly blowing,
Summer time, summer time,
Is a camp for girls and boys,
Made to hold a lot of noise;
All the crowd here just enjoys
Summer time.

As the sun down west is going,
Summer time, summer time,
And the shadows dark are growing,
Summer time, summer time,
Round a bonfire we all throng,
Talk and laugh and sing a song,
Till the bell rings out ding dong—
Summer time.

That is what sixty-five of the patients at The Tribune summer hospital at Algonquin sang last night to the tune of Illinois as they closed a glorious bonfire celebration and hurried off to bed. The bonfire was built on the banks of the river, and while it burned brightly the happy boys and girls clustered under the trees and listened to a program of songs and recitations. The last song, that quoted above, was arranged specially by Miss Holmes.

Eager for Merry-Go-Round.

The most absorbing topic of conversation at the hospital which is maintained by THE TRIBUNE readers, was the new merry-go-round, which is expected daily. What crowd of boys and girls wouldn't be thrown into ecstacies by having a merry-go-round all of your own with rides free and unlimited? That is the prospect the childish patients of The Tribune hospital have before them.

The Kent Manufacturing company, manufacturers of sanitary cow stalls, of Fort Atkinson, Wis., is the donor of the funmaker. It is being made by a firm which guarantees to make a merry-go-round that may be used without danger, even by the frail mites of humanity at Algonquin.

Having Fine Time on River.

While the children are awaiting eagerly the arrival of the merry-go-round they are having the finest kind of a time with a number of new boats sent them by Julius Rosenwald of Sears, Roebuck and Co. They row up and down the river for long distances, and the fish caught by the boys, many of whom never before saw a fishing line, form a considerable addition to the hospital larder. It was Mr. Rosenwald, also, who donated the big gramophone which furnishes the patients with nightly concerts.

SHY AT AIDING NEGRO SCHOOL.

An effort to rouse Chicago negroes in support of southern educational institutions met with little response yesterday. A meeting for that purpose in Bethel church, Thirtieth and Dearborn streets, was attended by fewer than 100 persons.

While the primary object of the meeting was the discussion of the education of colored boys and girls of the south in general, it also was called to raise funds for the Morris Brown college at Atlanta, Ga.

Bishop C. T. Schaffer presided, and among those who spoke were Miss Mary B. Jackson of the Lucy Laney institute, Augusta, Ga., and the Rev. Richard D. Stinson of the Morris Brown college. When the latter had finished telling of the work of the school a collection to aid the institution was taken up, but only a few dollars were contributed.

EXEMPLIFY THE ART OF SPEECH.

Members of Association Today Open National Convention to Attain Verbal Perfection.

The national convention of Speech Arts association begins in Oak Park today and will continue through the week. Mrs. Belle Watson Melville of Oak Park is local chairman and Mrs. Edwin Hedrick Jr. of Oak Park appears among the entertainers of July 3 in a dramatic recital of George Eliot's "Amegast."

The program for the five days is divided into business and recital programs, the former at Nakama hall and the latter sessions to be given at the Warrington Opera house.

On Wednesday Prof. S. H. Clark of the University of Chicago will lecture, and a feature of the Thursday program will be the reception and supper in the open air at the River Forest Tennis club.

MORE "STORY HOURS" PLANNED

Will Be Given Wednesday Afternoons at 2 O'Clock in the Public Library Building.

The Chicago public library has arranged for a series of "story hours" for children during July and August in the Thomas Hughes reading room on the fourth floor of the library building, Wednesday afternoons at 2 o'clock. The first of these will be given next Wednesday. It will be an illustrated talk by Dr. B. J. Cigrand, president of the library board, on "Our Nation's Birthday" and the events leading up to the Fourth of July, '76.

QUESTION LASHER AGAIN TODAY.

Jacob H. Lesher will resume the witness stand this morning in the separate maintenance suit instituted by Nellie Scramlin-Lesher, his alleged common law wife, and will be questioned further regarding his love affairs. Mrs. May Bangs-Lesher is visiting in Kansas, but is keeping in close touch with the trial. If necessary she will testify in her husband's behalf. A verdict for the Scramlin woman will probably be followed by prosecution for bigamy.

Personally Escorted

Exclusively first class all-expense tours to Yellowstone National Park, Yosemite Valley, California, Utah, and Colorado leave Chicago in special trains on specified dates during July and August, under the auspices of the Tourist Department, Chicago, Union Pacific and Northwestern Line. Send for itineraries and full information to S. A. Hutchison, Manager, 212 Clark street, Chicago, Ill.

The Last Two Days of The Pre-Inventory Sales

Today and Tomorrow June 29th and 30th

Intense interest should develop at once in the final two days' selling of odd lots, broken lines and surplus stocks which in the limited time before inventory have been marked at prices that represent incomparable savings.

Values of an Extraordinary Nature Are Offered to Assure the Desired Reductions

At no time of the entire year is early action on the part of purchasers so imperative, owing to the fact that in the greater number of cases the offerings are small.

The Basement Sections also contribute many surprisingly attractive Pre-Inventory Sales values in dependable merchandise in the less expensive grades.

A Complete Resort Directory

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE announces the publication of a catalogue containing a complete list of all of the first class resorts, Summer and Winter, in the United States.

This catalogue gives the distance of each hotel from the station, the distance to the nearest water, and the distance to the golf links. It gives the number of guests which each resort can accommodate and the railroad and boat fare from Chicago and New York City.

This booklet will be given upon request or mailed free by The Tribune to any part of the United States
